Cairo Rejects Suez Proposal, Cancels Pacts

Parliament Cuts Ties With British

CAIRO, Oct. 15 (AP)—Egypt rejected the Western Power plan to make the Suez an international defense bastion tonight and her parliament slashed old ties with Britain for defense and for rule of the vast Sudan.

Wildly cheering these historic acts, parliament voted that the British must get out of the Suez Canal area—and also the Sudan where they have ruled jointly with Egypt for more than half a century.

Official sources in London said Britain would ignore the one-sided denunciation of Suez and Sudan treaty rights and would use force if necessary against any eviction efforts.

Against a backstop of tumult inside and outside the building, parliament moved overwhelmingly to make the necessary constitutional changes to absorb the Sudan and proclaim King Farouk I the king of Egypt and the Sudan.

U. S. Due To Support British

The actual proclamation of his expanded title and other details were deferred until tomorrow to give Farouk time to sign the preliminary decrees.

Annexation of the Sudan would add nearly a million square miles and 8,000,000 people to Egyptian sovereignty and triple the land area of Farouk's realm. He would reign from the Mediterranean nearly to the equator and control a long Sudanese front on the Red Sea.

(American officials in Washington indicated the United States would support Britain if she decides to keep troops in the Suez Canal area. They indicated the Western Powers would press forward with their plan to create a Middle East defense command as proposed to Egypt Saturday by the U. S., Britain, France and Turkey. These officials said it was unlikely an uncooperative Egypt could qualify for American Arms aid.)

British Troops Stand By

Troubleshooter British troop formations, including parachuters in brigade strength, are standing by in Cyprus, Malta and Aden in readiness for any need in the Suez and Sudan.

Thus Britain's problems multiplied in the effort to maintain a foothold in the Middle East stamping ground of the Victorian and post-Victorian empire builders.

Iran's oil is gone. Britain lost her best friend and ally in the Middle East when King Abdullah was assassinated last summer. Egypt now has moved to erase the last British influence.

Booms Warm Up For Taft And 'Ike'

[By The Associated Press]

Pre-campaign fireworks were set off yesterday as separate Republican booms warmed up for Sen. Robert A. Taft, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and California's Gov. Earl Warren.

Taft is widely expected to announce his candidacy at a news conference (11 a. m., E. S. T.), today.

At Supreme Allied headquarters in Europe, Gen. Eisenhower received an Ike-for-president button with a smile but without any comment on his political intentions.

Aides said Eisenhower has deep political convictions, but is anxious to avoid any statement that might interfer with the task of bolstering Europe's defenses.

Lester Allen, chief editorial writer for the Boston Post, presented the lapel button to Ike during a luncheon attended by 16 American newsmen at Eisenhower's headquarters.

The button carried the legend "Be right with Ike" and bore a picture of the five-star general against a red, white and blue background.

Mrs. Nancy Sinatra Files Divorce Suit

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Oct. 15 (INS)—Mrs. Nancy Sinatra paved the way for the marriage of Crooner Frank Sinatra to Film Star Ava Gardner by filing suit for divorce today in Santa Monica Superior Court.

She based her suit on a charge of "mental cruelty" in the accepted Hollywood tradition.

Sinatra has announced he plans to marry Ava as soon as he is free to do so.

U. N. Still To Demand Warfront Truce Line

Ridgway To Give Correspondents All Possible News About Parleys

TOKYO, Tuesday, Oct. 16 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said today the United Nations still would demand a cease-fire along the present battle line if truce talks are resumed.

The supreme Allied commander, in a news conference, announced plans to disclose to Allied correspondents all "substantiative matter" in the truce talks as soon as it is available to the U. N. command delegation.

He said his headquarters had not been giving enough information about the armistice talks.

Ridgway said his decision to make all news possible available to U. N. correspondents was reached because "we have been leaning over backwards not to publish matters" pertaining to the truce talks.

He said Communist correspondents had been given more information but he declared theirs was tinged with malicious propaganda.

Ridgway added that his decision did not reflect a belief that the Communists were insincere in wanting an armistice.

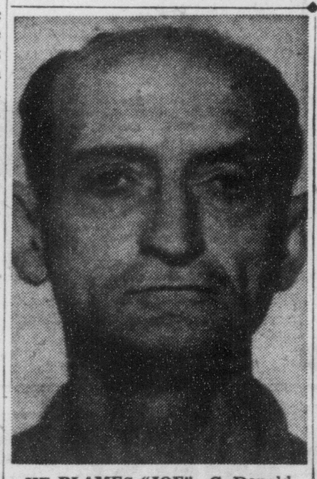
Regarding a cease-fire line which was the issue in debate when the truce talks broke up last Aug. 23, Ridgway said that "within our capability we want ground that we can defend."

"In principle," he said, "we want a cease-fire line more or less along the present battle line."

"The purpose of the Eighth Army," Ridgway added, "is still to repel aggression."

He said Gen. James A. Van Fleet's command would continue to drive forward in Korea and to take as much ground as possible.

Ridgway also disclosed that Allied airmen who strafed the neutral Panmunjom area Friday had been reprimanded. A Korean youth was killed and another was wounded in the strafing.



HE BLAMES "JOE"—C. Donald Furlow, 47, a trusted postal employe for 25 years, was free on $12,000 bail today after he was charged with stealing $85,000 from registered mail. Furlow was quoted by Postal Inspector Harry Kimbell as saying he didn't steal the money, but that he got it from a friend he knew only as "Joe" and that he gave "Joe" a receipt for the money. ## German Election Commission Gets Support Of U. S.

Would Make Check Throughout Nation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—The State Department said today the United States would support creation of a United Nations commission to determine whether nationwide elections in Germany are possible.

It was emphasized that a commission of that kind would have to have power to make inspections in both Eastern and Western Germany.

"Such an investigation of the Soviet Zone is obviously indispensible before elections can be held," Press Official Michael J. McDermott said.

At the same time, the State Department made public a letter the three Allied high commissioners in Germany have sent to West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer which informed him of the Western attitude.

Adenauer had proposed setting up "a neutral international commission" under U. N. control to check on whether free elections are possible throughout all Germany.

In his acompanying remarks, McDermott told a news conference:

"The United States is prepared to support in the United Nations a proposal for the making of such an investigation by a United Nations commission simultaneously in the federal republic and in the Soviet zone."

McDermott said nothing about which country would make such a proposal before the U. N.

His statement and the Allied High Commission's letter to Adenauer obviously were intended as a reply to the East German Communist regime's call for nationwide elections throughout Germany.

Reds Demand 'Cast Iron' Neutrality Agreement

TOKYO, Tuesday, Oct. 16 (AP)—The Red China radio today called for a "cast iron" agreement on the neutrality of the site for resuming talks on a Korean cease-fire. It insisted that Allied aircraft be barred from the area.

Allied and Communist liaison officers met at 10 a. m. today (8 p. m., EST, Monday) for their fifth session at Panmunjom seeking to draw neutral zones for the armistice talks.

Panmunjom is the proposed new site for renewed truce conferences.

The major question is the size of the neutral zone around Kaesong, former location of the negotiations. The Reds want the five-mile neutral zone retained while the Allies want it reduced to 3,000 yards. Panmunjom is a Red outpost six miles east of Kaesong on the fringe of the neutral zone.

Bomber Crashes In Japan, Killing Eight U. S. Fliers

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 15 (AP)—A B-29 bomber returning from a combat mission over Korea crashed in Japan Sunday, killing eight men and seriously injuring three others, Fairchild Air Force Base announced today.

The Superfort was attached to the 98th Bomb Group which was formerly based here. The 98th maintains an administrative headquarters element at Fairchild. Its bombers went to Japan last year.

The Spokane base had no details of the crash. The B-29 joined the 97th as a replacement in Japan and had not been based here, Fairchild said.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Oct. 15 (AP)—A South African Airways airliner with 16 persons aboard was missing today on a flight from Port Elizabeth to Durban.

U. N. Artillery Within Range Of Kumsong

Foe Pushed From Two More Hills

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Tuesday, Oct. 16 (AP)—Three Allied divisions today captured two more hills in their central front offensive and were within easy artillery range of Kumsong, the Reds' central front assembly area some 30 miles north of parallel 38.

The fourth day of the attack on a 22-mile front brought the United Nations line forward five and one half miles from its jumping off point on the morning of Oct. 13.

AP Photographer Bob Schutz reported from the front that Chinese resistance stiffened yesterday but two Red probing attacks were repulsed during the night.

Chinese artillery and mortars, however, poured out about 4,000 rounds of fire daily, he said.

American and South Korean infantrymen were driving ahead in hilly country but there still was no sign of the "traditional Communist diehard stands," Schutz said.

Thirty-one hill positions have fallen to the advancing United Nations forces in four days.

In the first three days of the offensive the Allies fighters won nearly 100 square miles of Communist Korean territory.

The U. S. Second Division's 38th Regiment Monday successfully stormed the highest mountain peak between Heartbreak Ridge and the Pukhan River on the eastern front. The crest towers 4,000 feet high. The gain was announced as the North Korean army communique boasted that Red troops had annihilated the 38th Regiment.

The strongest Red resistance appeared to be almost directly south of Kumsong, where the veteran U. S. 24th Division and the Colombian battalion were attacking. The Colombians, fighting their first major action, won praise from Allied officers as "tough, hardy infantry."

Commenting on the drive, an Allied officer said:

"It's like wading out into the water. The farther you go, the deeper it gets."

Schutz said the 24th Division claimed 760 Chinese casualties Monday, including 261 counted dead.

Although Chinese infantry resistance was still comparatively light, Red artillery continued heavy. An average of 4,000 rounds fell on Allied positions each day since the attack began.

Allied officers told Schutz that the Chinese are believed to have committed all their local reserves and have only three regiments left to plug holes along the 22-mile central front.

Over-Optimism Is Hit By Lovett

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 15 (AP)—Defense Secretary Robert A. Lovett declared today the United States does not yet have a stockpile of atomic super-weapons which can bring a cheap victory in war. And he warned the nation against any foolhardy optimism over new weapons.

He told the American Legion national convention there is grave danger the American people are pinning their hopes for security on new weapons which haven't even been proved to be reliable.

He added such over-optimism can lead to pessismism and despair.

Lovett spoke after President Truman had called on the Legion to support a program of GI benefits for the veterans of the Korean war.

Mr. Truman's request was in a letter to Legion National Commander Erle Cocke, Jr., which said the GI Bill of Rights of 1944 "points the way we should go in providing benefits for these new veterans."

Moran Is Indicted

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—James J. Moran, bosom pal of former Mayor William O'Dwyer, was indicted today as alleged master mind of a $500,000 a year city-wide shakedown racket.

He was named in 51 counts of extortion and one count of conspiracy, accused of directing a squeeze in fuel oil men who needed city permits to install equipment.

At the time the alleged shakedown reached its height, Moran was O'Dwyer's hand-picked first deputy fire commissioner.

Cortege Leaves Mine Blast Scene

Five ambulances, carrying the bodies of 10 miners killed in a gas explosion at the Trotter Coal Company near Morgantown, W. Va., yesterday, move out slowly from the mine entrance en route to the morgue. A state policeman and an unidentified miner prepare to open a traffic lane.

Gas Explosion In West Va. Mine Claims 10 Lives

Bodies Recovered; Investigation Opens

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 15 (AP)—A gas explosion killed 10 men in a coal mine today just as they were about to start for the surface after working an overnight shift.

Wiped out by the blast was an entire crew working in a section two and one-half miles underground from the entrance of the Trotter Coal Company's Bunker mine, about 10 miles northwest of here.

Thirty or 40 more miners were at work in other sections of the mine which were not affected. They were evacuated to the surface immediately after the explosion at 7:05 a. m. (EST).

Cause Of Blast Unknown

Company President James F. Trotter of Morgantown said the accident was the first major one at the mine since it opened in 1918.

The State Mines Department at Charleston said, however, that three men suffered burns at the Bunker mine in a "gas ignition" on September 13. The operation employs a total of about 250 men.

Trotter said "the cause of the explosion was unknown, but a broken cable or almost anything else could have touched off the gas."

The explosion followed a "normal fall" where the men were cutting down coal at the working face, Trotter said. He added that this apparently opened up a gas pocket.

Bodies Of Victims Recovered

Nearly four hours passed before rescue crews, their progress hampered by an accumulation of gas after the explosion, could reach the scene and locate the bodies of all the dead miners. The last bodies were brought to the surface early in the afternoon.

None of the 10 victims was badly burned. They apparently were killed outright by the concussion.

State and federal mine officials, including State Mines Department Chief Arch J. Alexander, began an immediate investigation on the scene.

Nurse Sought In Case Of Abducted Infant

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Oct. 15 (AP)—Police asked the FBI today to locate a practical nurse who disappeared Saturday night shortly after a newborn baby was stolen from St. Anthony Hospital.

The nurse was fired by a Michigan City doctor Saturday night but he refused to say why. He reported the nurse told him she wanted off early to take a trip. She left his office, about a mile from the hospital, at 4:15 p. m.

Police said the nurses' daughter found a note saying she had gone to Milwaukee. The daughter said she didn't know her mother was planning a trip.

Stratofreighter With 11 Aboard Presumed Ditched

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass., Oct. 14 (AP)—Westover Air Force Base said tonight that a Military Air Transport Service Stratofreighter missing since leaving the Azores before dawn, was "presumed" ditched in the Atlantic.

The base said the big MATS plane had only enough gas to stay in the air until 6:20 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time). It carried an 11-man crew and no passengers.

The craft, Westover said, apparently sent out an SOS at 2.56 p. m. Kindley Air Force Base at Bermuda reported it picked up a call from an unidentified source at that time.

Rescue craft swarmed out from several sources in an effort to locate the plane.

Probers Delay Vote On Jessup

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—A Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee put off a vote tonight on Ambassador Philip C. Jessup's nomination as a United Nations delegate to give him a second chance to reply to charges against him.

The delay underscored a possibility that Congress may adjourn without any Senate action on the controversial nomination.

Jessup tonight advised Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala), the subcommittee chairman, that he is "eager to set the record straight on Stassen charges," but that he would have to have to study the committee's record.

Because of a New York speaking engagement tomorrow, he asked Sparkman's permission to appear Wednesday.

Sparkman said Jessup is "entitled to be heard" although his request "certainly appears to blow up our plans to vote tomorrow."

Sparkman said the subcommittee decided Jessup be given an opportunity to reply to new charges levelled at him today by Harold E. Stassen. Stassen testified today that even if Jessup did not attend a White House conference on a proposal to stop U. S. aid to the Chinese nationalists, he certainly had a hand in it. Jessup denied it.

Taft Asks All-Out GOP Drive To Win 'Crucial' Election

Senator May Toss Hat In Ring Today

DETROIT, Oct. 15 (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) told Michigan Republicans tonight the next presidential election will be the most crucial in "our times."

In a scorching attack on the Truman administration, Taft said it was proceeding in its efforts to halt the spread of communism with "no intelligent program" and with plans that "change from day to day."

He urged the people to elect a Republican administration which "alone offers hope and leadership."

Taft's address was prepared for delivery before a Founders' Day banquet of the Michigan Republican Party, with tickets at $100 a plate. A total of about 1,500 persons attended.

May Announce Candidacy

The Ohio Republican's address had been billed as a major one, and some observers thought he might announce his intentions for the forthcoming presidential campaign. But Taft took off some of the pressure with an announcement that he would hold a press conference in Washington tomorrow morning.

There was speculation that tomorrow's announcement would deal with his possible candidicy.

In tonight's address, Taft called for all-out Republican effort to win the vote.

Far East Policy Assailed

"Never in our times will we see as crucial an election as that of this year," he declared. "You must decide then whether we continue to its logical conclusion our present policies to totalitarian government and war, or whether we turn again to American principals and resume our progress in freedom and in peace."

Slapping at the Truman administration for "the disastrous policy of Yalta and Potsdam," Taft said the administration caused the loss of China by "turning Manchuria over to Soviet Russia."

Terming the Korean war a "tragic example of the results of wavering and weakness," he again questioned President Truman's authority to send American troops into action.

Yanks May Be Able To Quit Europe By '54, Editors Told

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED POWERS IN EUROPE, Oct. 15. (AP)—A group of visiting American editors was told today that the withdrawal of American troops from Europe might begin in late 1953 or early 1954 if Western Europe's defensive buildup continues at the present rate.

The 14 newsmen visited this headquarters to start a tour of nations receiving mutual defense aid from the United States. No official source could be identified with the information they obtained.

The editors were told that in a matter of two and a half or three years Western Europe should be in a good defensive position, and the withdrawal of American forces might begin then.

This possibility, it was understood, depends upon a continuation of the buildup at its present rate—and also whether Russian and Communist power appears more menacing by then.

Meanwhile, staff officers said today, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is counting heavily on aircraft carriers to compensate for a shortage of airfields in Western Europe and the Middle East should war break out.

The supreme commander went to Naples, Italy, late today to spend three days with the U. S. Sixth Fleet during its maneuvers in the Mediterranean.

Keep Out Of Oil Fight, U.N. Told By Mossadegh

Will Discuss Only Sales, Compensation

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—Iran's aged and ailing premier, Mohammed Mossadegh, told the U. N. Security Council today to keep hands off in the British-Iranian oil dispute and let Iran shape its own economic destiny.

At the same time, he barred any further direct negotiations with Britain except on two questions: Compensation for British investments in the now nationalized Anglo-Iranian Oil Company and possible sale of oil to Britain.

Mossadegh, speaking slowly and calmly in French, warned:

"We will not be coerced whether by foreign governments or by international authorities."

No Emotional Oratory

He displayed none of the emotional oratory nor the outbursts of sobbing which frequently have marked his speeches on oil nationalization in his own country. The gist of his argument was that the oil question was an internal problem and, therefore, not within the jurisdiction of the Security Council.

Mossadegh spoke immediately after Britain's veteran diplomat, Sir Gladwyn Jebb, appealed to him in a short speech "not to take up an aggressively nationalistic and, indeed, isolationist attitude." Jebb said Britain is seeking an agreement at least on a provisional scheme enabling the flow of oil to be resumed without prejudice to an ultimate agreed solution of the dispute.

After a two-hour session, devoted mostly to Mossadegh's speech, the council adjourned until 3 p. m. (E. S. T.) tomorrow.

Exploitation Changed

At the start of his speech, the premier said his government feels that the Security Council "has no jurisdiction to hear this complaint." He repeated his charges, often made in Tehran, that the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company had exploited his country and its people.

He said Iran had adopted a conciliatory attitude at the beginning of the long negotiations with Britain but that this attitude "proved fruitless and resulted only in a waste of time."

Jebb took the floor at the beginning of the session to explain Britain's toned-down resolution, which had been revised to drop any condemnation of Iran. In its present form, it merely calls upon the two parties to resume negotiations and to refrain from any actions which might aggravate the situation.

Truman Offers To Talk Peace With Russians

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Oct. 15 (AP)—President Truman pointedly called upon Soviet Russia today to agree upon disarmament terms which would "free the world from the scourge of atomic warfare."

He again offered to "sit down with the Soviet Union" and other nations to work out agreements to relieve mankind of "the horror of another world war" and provide the basis for "a durable peace."

Mr. Truman, speaking at groundbreaking ceremonies of multi-million dollar buildings of a new and expanded Baptist Wake Forest College here, steered entirely clear of past controversies with southern Democrats over civil rights and other "Fair Deal legislation."

He pitched his address largely on foreign policy as the aftermath of his recent announcement of Russia's explosion of a second atomic bomb.

The President spoke from a flag draped improvished stand on the campus of the big Baptist College that will be moved here from Wake Forest, N. C. The enthusiastic crowd was estimated by Jasper Memory, professor of education, at close to 20,000 persons.

American foreign policy the President declared, is "based upon the hope that it will be possible to live, without a war, in the same world as the Soviet Union—if the free nations have adequate defenses."

In his first major foreign policy talk since Russia's explosion of a second atomic bomb Mr. Truman renewed his suggestion that control of atomic energy be placed under control of a United Nations commission with authority to keep tab on all nations.

Rail Benefits Bill OK'd

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—The Senate today approved by voice vote a bill increasing railroad retirement benefits by 15 per cent.

The bill now goes to the House, which plans to start consideration tomorrow of a rival measure.

Americans, Canadians Greet Princess, Duke At Windsor

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 15 (AP)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh thrilled possibly half a million Canadians and Americans in this border city today before flying into Canada's gold-mining back country.

And what impressed them most was the friendly relations between the two countries separated here only by the peaceful Detroit River.

Estimates of the crowd that lined the 21-mile procession route to see the next ruler of the British Empire and her husband ranged from 200,000 to 500,000.

The royal couple, continuing their gruelling minute-by-minute schedule made five major platform appearances along the route. Then they boarded a silver, blue and red four-engined transport plane of the Royal Canadian Air Force and headed for their next stop at Kapuskasing, Ont., some 400 air miles away in Northern Ontario.

Highlight of the three-hour-plus Windsor tour was an international ceremony on the river front, only few thousand feet from Detroit.

With Detroit's skyline providing a backdrop on a brilliantly clear, warm day, the princess and duke met the first American officials. In fact, Michigan's Gov. G. Mennen Williams presented the duke a bow tie from his own big collection.

Booms Warm Up For Taft And 'Ike'

[By The Associated Press]

Pre-campaign fireworks were set off yesterday as separate Republican booms warmed up for Sen. Robert A. Taft, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and California's Gov. Earl Warren.

Taft is widely expected to announce his candidacy at a news conference (11 a. m., E. S. T.), today.

At Supreme Allied headquarters in Europe, Gen. Eisenhower received an Ike-for-president button with a smile but without any comment on his political intentions.

Aides said Eisenhower has deep political convictions, but is anxious to avoid any statement that might interfer with the task of bolstering Europe's defenses.

Lester Allen, chief editorial writer for the Boston Post, presented the lapel button to Ike during a luncheon attended by 16 American newsmen at Eisenhower's headquarters.

In Seattle, Wash., scouts for Eisenhower and Taft openly bid for support at a western Republican conference, while California boosters put out feelers on behalf of Gov. Warren.

The major question is the size of the neutral zone around Kaesong, former location of the negotiations. The Reds want the five-mile neutral zone retained while the Allies want it reduced to 3,000 yards. Panmunjom is a Red outpost six miles east of Kaesong on the fringe of the neutral zone.

Yanks May Be Able To Quit Europe By '54, Editors Told

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED POWERS IN EUROPE, Oct. 15. (AP)—A group of visiting American editors was told today that the withdrawal of American troops from Europe might begin in late 1953 or early 1954 if Western Europe's defensive buildup continues at the present rate.

The 14 newsmen visited this headquarters to start a tour of nations receiving mutual defense aid from the United States. No official source could be identified with the information they obtained.

The editors were told that in a matter of two and a half or three years Western Europe should be in a good defensive position, and the withdrawal of American forces might begin then.

This possibility, it was understood, depends upon a continuation of the buildup at its present rate—and also whether Russian and Communist power appears more menacing by then.

Meanwhile, staff officers said today, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is counting heavily on aircraft carriers to compensate for a shortage of airfields in Western Europe and the Middle East should war break out.

The supreme commander went to Naples, Italy, late today to spend three days with the U. S. Sixth Fleet during its maneuvers in the Mediterranean.

Foe Pushed From Two More Hills

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Tuesday, Oct. 16 (AP)—Three Allied divisions today captured two more hills in their central front offensive and were within easy artillery range of Kumsong, the Reds' central front assembly area some 30 miles north of parallel 38.

The fourth day of the attack on a 22-mile front brought the United Nations line forward five and one half miles from its jumping off point on the morning of Oct. 13.

AP Photographer Bob Schutz reported from the front that Chinese resistance stiffened yesterday but two Red probing attacks were repulsed during the night.

Chinese artillery and mortars, however, poured out about 4,000 rounds of fire daily, he said.

American and South Korean infantrymen were driving ahead in hilly country but there still was no sign of the "traditional Communist diehard stands," Schutz said.

Thirty-one hill positions have fallen to the advancing United Nations forces in four days.

In the first three days of the offensive the Allies fighters won nearly 100 square miles of Communist Korean territory.

The U. S. Second Division's 38th Regiment Monday successfully stormed the highest mountain peak between Heartbreak Ridge and the Pukhan River on the eastern front. The crest towers 4,000 feet high. The gain was announced as the North Korean army communique boasted that Red troops had annihilated the 38th Regiment.

The strongest Red resistance appeared to be almost directly south of Kumsong, where the veteran U. S. 24th Division and the Colombian battalion were attacking. The Colombians, fighting their first major action, won praise from Allied officers as "tough, hardy infantry."

Commenting on the drive, an Allied officer said:

"It's like wading out into the water. The farther you go, the deeper it gets."

Schutz said the 24th Division claimed 760 Chinese casualties Monday, including 261 counted dead.

Although Chinese infantry resistance was still comparatively light, Red artillery continued heavy. An average of 4,000 rounds fell on Allied positions each day since the attack began.

Allied officers told Schutz that the Chinese are believed to have committed all their local reserves and have only three regiments left to plug holes along the 22-mile central front.

Over-Optimism Is Hit By Lovett

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 15 (AP)—Defense Secretary Robert A. Lovett declared today the United States does not yet have a stockpile of atomic super-weapons which can bring a cheap victory in war. And he warned the nation against any foolhardy optimism over new weapons.

He told the American Legion national convention there is grave danger the American people are pinning their hopes for security on new weapons which haven't even been proved to be reliable.

He added such over-optimism can lead to pessismism and despair.

Lovett spoke after President Truman had called on the Legion to support a program of GI benefits for the veterans of the Korean war.

Mr. Truman's request was in a letter to Legion National Commander Erle Cocke, Jr., which said the GI Bill of Rights of 1944 "points the way we should go in providing benefits for these new veterans."

Moran Is Indicted

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—James J. Moran, bosom pal of former Mayor William O'Dwyer, was indicted today as alleged master mind of a $500,000 a year city-wide shakedown racket.

He was named in 51 counts of extortion and one count of conspiracy, accused of directing a squeeze in fuel oil men who needed city permits to install equipment.

At the time the alleged shakedown reached its height, Moran was O'Dwyer's hand-picked first deputy fire commissioner.

Cortege Leaves Mine Blast Scene

Five ambulances, carrying the bodies of 10 miners killed in a gas explosion at the Trotter Coal Company near Morgantown, W. Va., yesterday, move out slowly from the mine entrance en route to the morgue. A state policeman and an unidentified miner prepare to open a traffic lane.

Gas Explosion In West Va. Mine Claims 10 Lives

Bodies Recovered; Investigation Opens

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 15 (AP)—A gas explosion killed 10 men in a coal mine today just as they were about to start for the surface after working an overnight shift.

Wiped out by the blast was an entire crew working in a section two and one-half miles underground from the entrance of the Trotter Coal Company's Bunker mine, about 10 miles northwest of here.

Thirty or 40 more miners were at work in other sections of the mine which were not affected. They were evacuated to the surface immediately after the explosion at 7:05 a. m. (EST).

Cause Of Blast Unknown

Company President James F. Trotter of Morgantown said the accident was the first major one at the mine since it opened in 1918.

The State Mines Department at Charleston said, however, that three men suffered burns at the Bunker mine in a "gas ignition" on September 13. The operation employs a total of about 250 men.

Trotter said "the cause of the explosion was unknown, but a broken cable or almost anything else could have touched off the gas."

The explosion followed a "normal fall" where the men were cutting down coal at the working face, Trotter said. He added that this apparently opened up a gas pocket.

Bodies Of Victims Recovered

Nearly four hours passed before rescue crews, their progress hampered by an accumulation of gas after the explosion, could reach the scene and locate the bodies of all the dead miners. The last bodies were brought to the surface early in the afternoon.

None of the 10 victims was badly burned. They apparently were killed outright by the concussion.

State and federal mine officials, including State Mines Department Chief Arch J. Alexander, began an immediate investigation on the scene.

Nurse Sought In Case Of Abducted Infant

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Oct. 15 (AP)—Police asked the FBI today to locate a practical nurse who disappeared Saturday night shortly after a newborn baby was stolen from St. Anthony Hospital.

The nurse was fired by a Michigan City doctor Saturday night but he refused to say why. He reported the nurse told him she wanted off early to take a trip. She left his office, about a mile from the hospital, at 4:15 p. m.

Police said the nurses' daughter found a note saying she had gone to Milwaukee. The daughter said she didn't know her mother was planning a trip.

Stratofreighter With 11 Aboard Presumed Ditched

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass., Oct. 14 (AP)—Westover Air Force Base said tonight that a Military Air Transport Service Stratofreighter missing since leaving the Azores before dawn, was "presumed" ditched in the Atlantic.

The base said the big MATS plane had only enough gas to stay in the air until 6:20 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time). It carried an 11-man crew and no passengers.

The craft, Westover said, apparently sent out an SOS at 2.56 p. m. Kindley Air Force Base at Bermuda reported it picked up a call from an unidentified source at that time.

Rescue craft swarmed out from several sources in an effort to locate the plane.

Probers Delay Vote On Jessup

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—A Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee put off a vote tonight on Ambassador Philip C. Jessup's nomination as a United Nations delegate to give him a second chance to reply to charges against him.

The delay underscored a possibility that Congress may adjourn without any Senate action on the controversial nomination.

Jessup tonight advised Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala), the subcommittee chairman, that he is "eager to set the record straight on Stassen charges," but that he would have to have to study the committee's record.

Because of a New York speaking engagement tomorrow, he asked Sparkman's permission to appear Wednesday.

Sparkman said Jessup is "entitled to be heard" although his request "certainly appears to blow up our plans to vote tomorrow."

Sparkman said the subcommittee decided Jessup be given an opportunity to reply to new charges levelled at him today by Harold E. Stassen. Stassen testified today that even if Jessup did not attend a White House conference on a proposal to stop U. S. aid to the Chinese nationalists, he certainly had a hand in it. Jessup denied it.

Taft Asks All-Out GOP Drive To Win 'Crucial' Election

Senator May Toss Hat In Ring Today

DETROIT, Oct. 15 (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) told Michigan Republicans tonight the next presidential election will be the most crucial in "our times."

In a scorching attack on the Truman administration, Taft said it was proceeding in its efforts to halt the spread of communism with "no intelligent program" and with plans that "change from day to day."

He urged the people to elect a Republican administration which "alone offers hope and leadership."

Taft's address was prepared for delivery before a Founders' Day banquet of the Michigan Republican Party, with tickets at $100 a plate. A total of about 1,500 persons attended.

May Announce Candidacy

The Ohio Republican's address had been billed as a major one, and some observers thought he might announce his intentions for the forthcoming presidential campaign. But Taft took off some of the pressure with an announcement that he would hold a press conference in Washington tomorrow morning.

There was speculation that tomorrow's announcement would deal with his possible candidicy.

Far East Policy Assailed

"Never in our times will we see as crucial an election as that of this year," he declared. "You must decide then whether we continue to its logical conclusion our present policies to totalitarian government and war, or whether we turn again to American principals and resume our progress in freedom and in peace."

Slapping at the Truman administration for "the disastrous policy of Yalta and Potsdam," Taft said the administration caused the loss of China by "turning Manchuria over to Soviet Russia."

Terming the Korean war a "tragic example of the results of wavering and weakness," he again questioned President Truman's authority to send American troops into action.

Americans, Canadians Greet Princess, Duke At Windsor

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 15 (AP)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh thrilled possibly half a million Canadians and Americans in this border city today before flying into Canada's gold-mining back country.

And what impressed them most was the friendly relations between the two countries separated here only by the peaceful Detroit River.

Estimates of the crowd that lined the 21-mile procession route to see the next ruler of the British Empire and her husband ranged from 200,000 to 500,000.

The royal couple, continuing their gruelling minute-by-minute schedule made five major platform appearances along the route. Then they boarded a silver, blue and red four-engined transport plane of the Royal Canadian Air Force and headed for their next stop at Kapuskasing, Ont., some 400 air miles away in Northern Ontario.

Highlight of the three-hour-plus Windsor tour was an international ceremony on the river front, only few thousand feet from Detroit.

With Detroit's skyline providing a backdrop on a brilliantly clear, warm day, the princess and duke met the first American officials. In fact, Michigan's Gov. G. Mennen Williams presented the duke a bow tie from his own big collection.

Will Discuss Only Sales, Compensation

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—Iran's aged and ailing premier, Mohammed Mossadegh, told the U. N. Security Council today to keep hands off in the British-Iranian oil dispute and let Iran shape its own economic destiny.

At the same time, he barred any further direct negotiations with Britain except on two questions: Compensation for British investments in the now nationalized Anglo-Iranian Oil Company and possible sale of oil to Britain.

Mossadegh, speaking slowly and calmly in French, warned:

"We will not be coerced whether by foreign governments or by international authorities."

No Emotional Oratory

He displayed none of the emotional oratory nor the outbursts of sobbing which frequently have marked his speeches on oil nationalization in his own country. The gist of his argument was that the oil question was an internal problem and, therefore, not within the jurisdiction of the Security Council.

Mossadegh spoke immediately after Britain's veteran diplomat, Sir Gladwyn Jebb, appealed to him in a short speech "not to take up an aggressively nationalistic and, indeed, isolationist attitude." Jebb said Britain is seeking an agreement at least on a provisional scheme enabling the flow of oil to be resumed without prejudice to an ultimate agreed solution of the dispute.

After a two-hour session, devoted mostly to Mossadegh's speech, the council adjourned until 3 p. m. (E. S. T.) tomorrow.

Exploitation Changed

At the start of his speech, the premier said his government feels that the Security Council "has no jurisdiction to hear this complaint." He repeated his charges, often made in Tehran, that the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company had exploited his country and its people.

He said Iran had adopted a conciliatory attitude at the beginning of the long negotiations with Britain but that this attitude "proved fruitless and resulted only in a waste of time."

Jebb took the floor at the beginning of the session to explain Britain's toned-down resolution, which had been revised to drop any condemnation of Iran. In its present form, it merely calls upon the two parties to resume negotiations and to refrain from any actions which might aggravate the situation.

Truman Offers To Talk Peace With Russians

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Oct. 15 (AP)—President Truman pointedly called upon Soviet Russia today to agree upon disarmament terms which would "free the world from the scourge of atomic warfare."

He again offered to "sit down with the Soviet Union" and other nations to work out agreements to relieve mankind of "the horror of another world war" and provide the basis for "a durable peace."

Mr. Truman, speaking at groundbreaking ceremonies of multi-million dollar buildings of a new and expanded Baptist Wake Forest College here, steered entirely clear of past controversies with southern Democrats over civil rights and other "Fair Deal legislation."

He pitched his address largely on foreign policy as the aftermath of his recent announcement of Russia's explosion of a second atomic bomb.

The President spoke from a flag draped improvished stand on the campus of the big Baptist College that will be moved here from Wake Forest, N. C. The enthusiastic crowd was estimated by Jasper Memory, professor of education, at close to 20,000 persons.

American foreign policy the President declared, is "based upon the hope that it will be possible to live, without a war, in the same world as the Soviet Union—if the free nations have adequate defenses."

In his first major foreign policy talk since Russia's explosion of a second atomic bomb Mr. Truman renewed his suggestion that control of atomic energy be placed under control of a United Nations commission with authority to keep tab on all nations.

Rail Benefits Bill OK'd

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—The Senate today approved by voice vote a bill increasing railroad retirement benefits by 15 per cent.

Trolley Radio Case Accepted By High Court

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15. (AP)—The Supreme Court agreed today to look over a lower court decision saying that people riding street cars and buses shouldn't have to listen to commercial radio broadcasts.

And, in an action denounced by Justice Jackson as "a dangerous and novel importation into American criminal law," it refused to consider the appeal of a Texas constable convicted of beating a negro prisoner.

Jackson said the danger arose from the high court allowing to stand the trial court's statement that intent to violate a federal constitutional guarantee "is presumed and inferred from the result of the action" complained of. The negro was beaten after he had been arrested when his car struck the constable's dog.

In still another case, the Supreme Court ordered a hearing for four negroes seeking admission to the University of Tennessee. The four asked the court to overturn a decision by a three-judge district court at Knoxville.

The streetcar radio case came up from a Court of Appeals decision against Capital Transit Co., here; other cities have similar broadcasts.

Dock Workers' Wildcat Strike Hits Army Piers

NEW YORK, Oct. 15. (AP)—A swift dock workers rebellion today tied up five Brooklyn Army piers that channel vital troops and arms to Korea and other American military outposts.

The wildcat strike caught four Army ships in port, ships that reportedly carry "everything from beans to cannons."

Union leaders, their stevedore members out of hand, blamed Communists for endangering the Army's world-wide lifeline.

More than 1,000 dock workers quit as a contract revolt spread like wildfire along the busy piers of Manhattan and Brooklyn. They were disgruntled with terms of a new contract.

Eight non-military piers also were affected.

Street Is Repaired

Jesse Jones, In Memoirs, Says FDR 'Total Politician'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP) — Jesse Jones says Franklin D. Roosevelt was a ruthless "total politician" who was eager to get this country into World War II so that it would assure his election for a third term.

Furthermore, Jones says in his memoirs, released today, Mr. Roosevelt once tried to get the government to buy the Empire State building at what Jones considered an inflated price—to bail Al Smith and other Democratic bigwigs out of a financial hole.

A self-styled "country boy," Jones headed the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for 12 tumultous years and was a wartime secretary of commerce.

He was ousted in 1945, and obviously this break left some hurts and some scars. Mr. Roosevelt replaced Jones with former Vice-President Henry A. Wallace.

Jones' opinion of the man who succeeded him: Wallace, he says, was an incompetent meddler with "screwball" ideas.

A banker, a financial wizard and owner of the Houston Chronicle, Jones now is 77. But the years haven't mellowed him.

Jones came to Washington at the depths of his depression. Under his guidance, the RFC loaned or spent $50,000,000,000 (which, incidentally, gave him his title for his book, "Fifty Billion Dollars.")

Jones' opinions of Roosevelt, his longtime boss, are scattered throughout the book. Sample quotes:

"He had no intention of leaving the White House until voted out—or carried out."

"Regardless of his oft-repeated statement, 'I hate war,' he was eager to get into the fighting since that would insure a third term."

"In the beginning his purposes were undoubtedly high; but as the years went by and the mill seemed to require a new kind of grist to keep him in the driver's seat, he never hesitated to provide it."

Hurricane Spotted Off Georgia Coast

MIAMA. Fla., Oct. 15 (AP)—A new hurricane sprang up in the Atlantic off the Georgia coast today, while the tropical storm that died down in the Caribbean Sea appeared to be re-forming.

A Navy hurricane hunter plane discovered the Atlantic storm this afternoon 400 miles east of the coast between Jacksonville, Fla., and Brunswick, Ga.

Strongest winds were estimated at 70 to 80 miles an hour near the center and gales extended outward 300 miles to the north and northeast.

Work On Ships Halted Due To Steel Quota Cut

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—The Maritime Administration today ordered the suspension of construction of 14 fast "Mariner class" cargo ships in six shipyards because of cuts in the steel quota for shipbuilding.

The original construction program called for 35 of the ships to be built. Congress authorized $350,000,000 for the work.

Ten keels already have been laid.

The Defense Production Administration authorized only 100,000 tons of steel for ocean-going vessels in the first quarter of 1952. The Maritime Administration had originally asked 183,000 tons, then scaled the request to 135,000.

Revelation Of Visions Surprises Vatican

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 15 (AP) — Sources close to Pope Pius XII said today the announcement at Fatima, Portugal, that the pontiff had had visions of the Virgin Mary during the 1950 Holy Year had struck Vatican circles "like lightning."

Except for a very few persons, the news had been a closely guarded secret.

The revelation was made at Fatima Saturday by Federico Cardinal Tedeschini, archpriest of St. Peter's Basilica and the pope's delegate.

Insofar as the Vatican was concerned, all other news today was relegated to secondary importance. But little official or semi-official elaboration was available.

Vatican sources agreed that Cardinal Tedeschini's revelation could only have been made with the consent and permission of the pontiff.

Melvin C. Boore was granted a divorce from Anna Mae Boore in a decree filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. He was awarded custody of infant children.

Group To Probe State's Purchase Of Race Track

BALTIMORE, Oct. 15 (AP)—A Legislative Council was named today to review the state purchase of Havre De Grace race track for a national Guard camp.

Sen. Della (D-Balto 6th), council president, named Sens. Turnbull (D-Baltimore) and Turner (D-Queen Annes) and Delegate Barnes (R-Carroll) to look into the purchase.

The committee was instructed to report to the council Nov. 14.

The state paid $500,000 last week for the track which was closed this year. It was bought from the owners of the Pimlico and Laurel tracks which paid $1,800,000 for it early this year and then divided Havre De Grace's 25 racing days.

The Board of Public Works bought the track property on the recommendation of a board of National Guard officers.

Questions about the purchase were raised by Sen. Turnbull and others who recalled Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord told a General Assembly committee last March that purchase of the track was not contemplated by the military department.

Reckord is military adjutant of the state. He had been president of Havre De Grace and as such recommended its sale to Pimlico and Laurel. Nine days after the sale he was named president of Pimlico.

Trial Officials Challenged By Five Indicted Newsmen

LAKE CHARLES, La., Oct. 15 (AP) —Five crusading Lake Charles newspapermen challenged today the appointment of an outside special prosecutor and judge named to try them on charges they defamed 16 public officials and three admitted gamblers.

The newsmen, indicted while leading an anti-gambling campaign, contended they should be tried before a local district judge, and by a regular district attorney or a local attorney appointed as prosecutor.

Special Judge Bernard Cocke of New Orleans set next Monday for arguing the motions made by defense attorneys.

The newsmen were indicted Aug. 27 on charges of defaming Sheriff Henry Reid, District Attorney Griffin Hawkins, Assistant District Attorney Melvin Wetherill, 13 members of the parish (county) police jury—parish governing body—and the trio of admitted gamblers.

The indictments were based on stories appearing in the Lake Charles American Press—only daily newspaper in this Southwest Louisiana city with a population of 50,000.

The five newspaper men indicted are Thomas B. Shearman, publisher; his son, Hugh Shearman, co-publisher; Kenneth L. Dixon, managing editor; James Norton, city editor, and Carter George, reporter.

The newspaper and a citizens committee, spearheaded the crusade which closed casino doors.

Typhoon Loses Punch; U. N. Troops Rescued

TOKYO, Tuesday, Oct. 16 (AP) — Japan's most destructive typhoon of the year lost its punch today and headed out to sea, leaving more than 350 Japanese civilians dead, nearly 1,000 injured and property damage exceeding $55,500,000.

Approximately 500 Allied troops, endangered since early Sunday morning when their troopship to Korea was driven aground off Sasebo, Southwest Japan, were rescued Monday night by a U. S. Navy transport.

There was no loss of life, the Navy said.

Jesse Jones, In Memoirs, Says FDR 'Total Politician'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP) — Jesse Jones says Franklin D. Roosevelt was a ruthless "total politician" who was eager to get this country into World War II so that it would assure his election for a third term.

Furthermore, Jones says in his memoirs, released today, Mr. Roosevelt once tried to get the government to buy the Empire State building at what Jones considered an inflated price—to bail Al Smith and other Democratic bigwigs out of a financial hole.

A self-styled "country boy," Jones headed the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for 12 tumultous years and was a wartime secretary of commerce.

He was ousted in 1945, and obviously this break left some hurts and some scars. Mr. Roosevelt replaced Jones with former Vice-President Henry A. Wallace.

Jones' opinion of the man who succeeded him: Wallace, he says, was an incompetent meddler with "screwball" ideas.

A banker, a financial wizard and owner of the Houston Chronicle, Jones now is 77. But the years haven't mellowed him.

Jones came to Washington at the depths of his depression. Under his guidance, the RFC loaned or spent $50,000,000,000 (which, incidentally, gave him his title for his book, "Fifty Billion Dollars.")

Jones' opinions of Roosevelt, his longtime boss, are scattered throughout the book. Sample quotes:

"He had no intention of leaving the White House until voted out—or carried out."

"Regardless of his oft-repeated statement, 'I hate war,' he was eager to get into the fighting since that would insure a third term."

"In the beginning his purposes were undoubtedly high; but as the years went by and the mill seemed to require a new kind of grist to keep him in the driver's seat, he never hesitated to provide it."

Hurricane Spotted Off Georgia Coast

MIAMA, Fla., Oct. 15 (AP)—A new hurricane sprang up in the Atlantic off the Georgia coast today, while the tropical storm that died down in the Caribbean Sea appeared to be re-forming.

A Navy hurricane hunter plane discovered the Atlantic storm this afternoon 400 miles east of the coast between Jacksonville, Fla., and Brunswick, Ga.

Strongest winds were estimated at 70 to 80 miles an hour near the center and gales extended outward 300 miles to the north and northeast.

Work On Ships Halted Due To Steel Quota Cut

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—The Maritime Administration today ordered the suspension of construction of 14 fast "Mariner class" cargo ships in six shipyards because of cuts in the steel quota for shipbuilding.

The original construction program called for 35 of the ships to be built. Congress authorized $350,000,000 for the work.

Ten keels already have been laid.

The Defense Production Administration authorized only 100,000 tons of steel for ocean-going vessels in the first quarter of 1952. The Maritime Administration had originally asked 183,000 tons, then scaled the request to 135,000.

Revelation Of Visions Surprises Vatican

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 15 (AP) — Sources close to Pope Pius XII said today the announcement at Fatima, Portugal, that the pontiff had had visions of the Virgin Mary during the 1950 Holy Year had struck Vatican circles "like lightning."

Except for a very few persons, the news had been a closely guarded secret.

The revelation was made at Fatima Saturday by Federico Cardinal Tedeschini, archpriest of St. Peter's Basilica and the pope's delegate.

Insofar as the Vatican was concerned, all other news today was relegated to secondary importance. But little official or semi-official elaboration was available.

Vatican sources agreed that Cardinal Tedeschini's revelation could only have been made with the consent and permission of the pontiff.

Group To Probe State's Purchase Of Race Track

BALTIMORE, Oct. 15 (AP)—A Legislative Council was named today to review the state purchase of Havre De Grace race track for a national Guard camp.

Sen. Della (D-Balto 6th), council president, named Sens. Turnbull (D-Baltimore) and Turner (D-Queen Annes) and Delegate Barnes (R-Carroll) to look into the purchase.

The committee was instructed to report to the council Nov. 14.

The state paid $500,000 last week for the track which was closed this year. It was bought from the owners of the Pimlico and Laurel tracks which paid $1,800,000 for it early this year and then divided Havre De Grace's 25 racing days.

The Board of Public Works bought the track property on the recommendation of a board of National Guard officers.

Questions about the purchase were raised by Sen. Turnbull and others who recalled Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord told a General Assembly committee last March that purchase of the track was not contemplated by the military department.

Reckord is military adjutant of the state. He had been president of Havre De Grace and as such recommended its sale to Pimlico and Laurel. Nine days after the sale he was named president of Pimlico.

Trial Officials Challenged By Five Indicted Newsmen

LAKE CHARLES, La., Oct. 15 (AP) —Five crusading Lake Charles newspapermen challenged today the appointment of an outside special prosecutor and judge named to try them on charges they defamed 16 public officials and three admitted gamblers.

The newsmen, indicted while leading an anti-gambling campaign, contended they should be tried before a local district judge, and by a regular district attorney or a local attorney appointed as prosecutor.

Special Judge Bernard Cocke of New Orleans set next Monday for arguing the motions made by defense attorneys.

The newsmen were indicted Aug. 27 on charges of defaming Sheriff Henry Reid, District Attorney Griffin Hawkins, Assistant District Attorney Melvin Wetherill, 13 members of the parish (county) police jury—parish governing body—and the trio of admitted gamblers.

The indictments were based on stories appearing in the Lake Charles American Press—only daily newspaper in this Southwest Louisiana city with a population of 50,000.

The five newspaper men indicted are Thomas B. Shearman, publisher; his son, Hugh Shearman, co-publisher; Kenneth L. Dixon, managing editor; James Norton, city editor, and Carter George, reporter.

The newspaper and a citizens committee, spearheaded the crusade which closed casino doors.

Typhoon Loses Punch; U. N. Troops Rescued

TOKYO, Tuesday, Oct. 16 (AP) — Japan's most destructive typhoon of the year lost its punch today and headed out to sea, leaving more than 350 Japanese civilians dead, nearly 1,000 injured and property damage exceeding $55,500,000.

Approximately 500 Allied troops, endangered since early Sunday morning when their troopship to Korea was driven aground off Sasebo, Southwest Japan, were rescued Monday night by a U. S. Navy transport.

There was no loss of life, the Navy said.

Long Answers Traffic Charge; Hits "Sniping"

Commissioner of Police and Fire John J. Long angrily took to task yesterday those who "snipe" at him while he is away, and asserted "I plead guilty to the charge of standing behind the Police Department in their efforts to enforce all laws—not only traffic regulations."

The commissioner's heated answer was the result of an attack by Richard J. Diamond, North Mechanic Street restaurant owner, who last week took exception to restrictions on parking near his place of business and accused Long of using dictatorial powers.

Long was not present at that meeting. He was in Chicago attending a National Safety Congress session.

Yesterday Long said in a prepared statement:

"I am sorry that Mr. Richard Diamond chose to make his accusations last week when I was attending the National Safety Congress in Chicago; however, it's just as well for Mr. Diamond that I was out of town. x x x x x x

"As for my assuming dictatorial powers in enforcing traffic regulations, I plead guilty to the charge of standing behind the Police Department in their efforts to enforce all laws—not only traffic regulations. The traffic regulation to which Mr. Diamond refers—the enforcement of the 'red' line on the west side of North Mechanic Street—was enacted during a previous administration. The difference may be now that when a policeman tags a car the recipient isn't likely to tear it up insolently in the face of the officer, nor is there any chance of its being stuffed into the pockets of the commissioner. If by dictatorial powers Mr. Diamond means treating every one alike with special privileges for no one—not even the gamblers—again, I plead guilty.

"Consultations with other men in the restaurant business downtown and observation of the standees in restaurants where customers have no more parking privileges than Mr. Diamond do not bear out his statement that a $25,000 loss in business is due to our strict enforcement of the parking regulations.

"The parking problem in Cumberland has been acute for a number of years. Surveys have been made, all types of suggestions have been made, but solution of the problem, based on factual studies of other communities, who have answered their problems, have been ignored. Criticism from all sources has been showered on the Police Department for attempting to regulate the street parking and keep the streets open for the movement of traffic—the primary purpose of the streets.

"The issuing of tickets by the police for illegal parking in no way answers the problem. It indicates what the problem is, but in no way relieves it. From time to time complaints are registered by citizens and mainly the merchants, who complain the police are attempting to enforce the regulations and insist the police are driving business away from their establishments. These same merchants have in no way made any attempt to relieve the situation by creating off-street parking areas. South End merchants are delighted with the results of this experience," he said, veering from his prepared statement long enough to add "with parking lots."

"A suggestion was made recently to widen the streets in the downtown area. If the widening of the streets is to be done just to accommodate a few parked cars, it will be found to be the most expensive type parking to be found. The parking problem will never be answered at the curb. Off-street parking areas is the only solution. This has been recognized for years."

Long said he agreed with Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, on a long-range program for streets.

He said the Police Department would continue to do as it has in the past and never take any stringent measures without consulting the merchants.

Long said he understood the merchants suggested the North Mechanic Street setup and followed that with a suggestion that "we call a meeting of merchants and any interested" to discuss the problems.

Mrs. Roeder seconded Long's proposal and Mayor Thomas S. Post told Long to arrange the meeting.

Cobey Says Beall Plant Smoke Is Not "Private"

The city attorney has disagreed with the smoke abatement engineer on what constitutes a private or public nuisance under the city abatement ordinance.

City Attorney W. Earle Cobey said at the meeting of the Mayor and Council yesterday he did not agree with Engineer George M. Hitchcock in terming conditions at the Ray Beall cleaning establishment on Pennsylvania Avenue a "private nuisance."

"It is a public nuisance and falls within the ordinance and should have been investigated as the council ordered him (Hitchcock) to do."

Hitchcock submitted a report on complaints against the firm last week. He also said effort was being made to correct the situation.

Cobey pointed out that Beall has purchased an oil burner installation which is being delayed because a boiler has not arrived. He added that the installation will eliminate smoke and dust and expressed the opinion the problem has been solved.

About 35 residents of the area signed a petition asking that action be taken about dust and dirt conditions at the plant.

In other action, the council appointed Miss Frances Flynn, 619 Patterson Avenue, a temporary employe to assist in setting up the continuing registration system at a salary of $150 a month. She succeeds Mrs. Annie S. Leith who resigned.

John C. Spiker, a probationary member of the Fire Department, and Roy C. Hawse, a probationary member of the Police Department, have completed training periods and were confirmed as regular department members.

A petition signed by 12 residents asked that an alley between Louisiana Avenue and Memorial Avenue, the south end of which adjoins Oldtown Road, be opened. The open end of the alley is a steep grade and hazardous in winter, the petitioners said. The request was referred to Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of Streets and Public Property.

Mrs. Clementina DeArcangelis, 217 Hay Street, asked that the street be paved and was referred to Mrs. Roeder as was Louis M. Schade, 510 Franklin Street, who inquired about oiling or paving an alley beside his property. Schade cited a dust condition but was told no alleys have been oiled or paved by the city except in two instances because of illness.

Bodies Of War Dead Brought Home For Burial

The bodies of four area veterans who lost their lives in Korea arrived Sunday in San Francisco aboard the Malden Victory.

Among 600 war dead returned were Pfc. Forrest C. Poling, 24, son of Jonas F. Poling, Route 3, St. George, W. Va.; Master Sgt. Owen L. Claycomb, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Claycomb, Route 1, Imler, Pa.; Pfc. Alvey Smith, Jr., 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvey Smith, Sr., St. Clairsville, Pa., and Pfc. Michael J. Czarniewsky, son of Michael J. Czarniewsky, Route 1, Central City, Pa.

Next of kin have been notified, and the bodies will be sent with a military escort to the point designated by relatives.

Pfc. Poling was killed in action June 6. Before going overseas in February, he received training at Fort Knox, Ky., and Camp Atterbury, Ind. Survivors include four brothers, Woodrow Poling, Dayton, Ohio; Willis Poling, Augusta, W. Va.; Lonnie and David Poling, at home, and five sisters, Mrs. Marshall Nestor, Keyser, W. Va.; Mrs. G. W. Phillips and Mary Ann Poling, Baltimore; Ruth and Jean Poling, at home.

Sgt. Claycomb, who previously was reported missing, paid the supreme sacrifice May 13. He was slated to receive a battlefield commission to the rank of second lieutenant.

Born March 16, 1928, he graduated from Bedford High School in 1945 and worked on his father's farm prior to entering the Army May 11, 1946. He served two years in Italy and Trieste before being discharged in 1948. He reenlisted May 11, 1949, and was assigned to United Nations forces in Korea in March, 1950, as a member of the 87th Airborne Division.

Pfc. Smith lost his life May 31 while serving with the Third Battalion, Second Marine Division. He entered service May 20, 1948, and underwent boot training at Parris Island, S. C. Later he served at Camp Lejeune, N. C., and in Washington before leaving for Korea in January.

Juvenile Trio Caught In Store

Alert police late Sunday nabbed three West Side boys in Hill's Toy Store, 45 North Centre Street, after the trio climbed over a roof-top to gain entrance through a window.

Detective E. M. Powell and Officer Richard W. Lashley arrested the boys, ranging from 13 to 14 years old, shortly after 7 o'clock and released them into the custody of their parents. Hearings were set for Saturday in Juvenile Court.

Authorities said nothing was taken from the store.

The Price Electric Corporation was honored by the Disabled American Veterans' Department of Maryland as the Maryland firm contributing the most encouragement to physically handicapped workers.

In addition to employing a large number of handicapped workers, the Frederick firm sponsored an attractive "Employ the Physically Handicapped Week" display.

Cumberlanders participating in Sunday's program were C. William Spangler and William B. Orndorff. As Maryland chairman of the DAV's employment committee, Spangler gave the address of welcome. Orndorff was a member of the committee arranging the event.

German Unification

Western Germany appears to be steering a course between East and West that is likely to produce the benefits of sovereignty and could even result in the eventual unification of the German nation.

Chancellor Adenauer has flatly rejected an East German demand that all talks on West Germany's integration with the Atlantic powers in mutual defense efforts be broken off. But Adenauer kept the door open for discussion of unity with East Germany.

West Germany demands a three-month period of free campaigning by all political parties before any nation-wide elections. Elections would have to be supervised by international authority. These demands could conceivably be met. What Soviet-dominated East Germany would of necessity stick at would be West German demands for border revision to take in lands beyond the Oder-Neisse line lost to Germany in World War II.

The recent overtures from East Germany for unification of the nation appear to be Soviet-inspired. The Russians apparently fear a contractual agreement with the Atlantic powers that would, in effect, act as a "San Francisco for Germany." West Germany would be given independence amounting to sovereignty in return for cooperation in a mutual assistance effort aimed against possible Russian aggression.

Russian attempts to conciliate West Germany are understandable. Losses of Communist party strength in Western European nations in the past several years have ranged from 30 per cent in France to 84 per cent in Luxembourg, according to the U. S. State Department. Moreover, Western rearmament and the successful conclusion of a peace treaty with Japan have drawn signs from Russia of a change of policy, if not of heart, toward the free world.

I. A. Seleznev, a leading Soviet critic, recently deprecated in the Russian magazine "Questions of Philosophy" the Marxian doctrine that war with capitalist nations is inevitable. "In contemporary conditions," he wrote, "it is impossible simply to speak of the inevitability of not preventing war in an epoch of imperialism. If we limit ourselves only to this thesis, then we distort the actual objective course of history and deal immense harm to the powerful movement of contemporary life and the movement of peace supporters."

Seleznev quoted Stalin's speech of November 6, 1944, in which the Russian dictator said the Allies had not merely to win World War II but also "to make new aggression and new war impossible—if not forever, at least for a long time to come."

Soviet peace offensives are designed to serve Soviet ends. If Russia now wants to spike the plans of Atlantic powers for rearmament, the ground is already prepared for a peace "front." A new fortnightly periodical, obviously aimed for the attention of the West, appeared in Moscow in mid-July. The publication, "News," reaffirmed the possibility of peaceful coexistance with the West. And Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Malik made the same point in his July speech indicating Russia was ready to talk about a peace in Korea.

Westward The Course . . .

When Bishop Berkeley, back in the 18th Century before there was a United States, was prophesying about the course of empire in a new land with whose development he was concerned, he had no thought of population trends. Yet from the first census of 1790, enjoined by the Constitution, that is the way the center of population in the U.S. has gone. Its speed, however, has not been regular, but by fits and starts.

The first census showed the center 23 miles east of Baltimore, the next put it 18 miles west of that city. Virginia had it in 1810, and in the next four decades it was in West Virginia, but ever moving westward. In 1860 and 1870 it was in Ohio, and 10 years later it was in Kentucky, but only eight miles from Cincinnati.

But in the six censuses from 1890 to 1940, inclusive, it was in Indiana, which has just yielded it to Illinois, as it has shifted 42 miles westward and 7.6 miles south. Never has the center been far from the 39th Parallel.

This center is a purely figurative thing. It is assumed to be the point at which, if the United States were a plane and its 150,000,000 population as now distributed were all of identical weight, that plane, if upheld by a pivot, would not teeter in any direction but stay put. So an individual in a western seaboard state far outbalances one in the east.

Economics, of course, is recognized as the principal cause of population shifts. The astounding thing about the center of population is that while in 160 years is has moved westward 644 miles, at present, at its most southern point, it is only 30 miles south of its most northern point, determined by the first census.

What of the coming years? Nobody knows, and geographers are too canny to predict. But continuance of the same trend would carry it, in problematical decades hence, across Illinois, through Missouri and into Kansas. But that is the day nobody now alive is likely to see.

Civil Defense Reversed

Not all the energies of governors at their annual conference were concentrated on politics. Useful hours were devoted to mutual problems, and one of the most urgent to receive official attention was civil defence. At Gatlinburg, Tenn., site of this year's conference, Civil Defense Administrator Millard Caldwell transmitted to the governors the latest federal plan for civil populations in the event of an atomic attack.

Briefly, Mr. Caldwell's latest program contemplates a mass exodus from New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island should their key cities become targets of hostile planes. He further revealed that it is proposed to shift affected populations in those states to Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

It was only a year ago that the National Security Resources Board issued a report on what target areas and their civilians were expected to do when the bomb fell. They were not expected to run. The report placed primary emphasis on the necessity of staying on the job, restoring industrial power and fighting back by getting into war production as swiftly as possible.

How communities and plants could be returned to production by shipping affected populations to Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont is no more clear than what Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont would do with the massed evacuees.

Mr. Caldwell projected at Gatlinburg a departure in home defense that sounds uncomfortably like the civil defense planning which produced the bizarre scheme, now discarded, to build a coast-to-coast chain of underground shelters at fabulous cost to protect one per cent of the population.

Scientists, not content to let bad enough alone, are searching in the stratosphere for mesons, a ray more powerful than the atom bomb

Strange Diseases

Several years ago an Alabama physician, Dr. Harvey B. Searcy, cured a child of fever by taking away her chewing gum. He interested a gum manufacturer in the problem and they tried a unique experiment on twenty healthy employes. All chewed gum steadily for five minutes and their temperature readings went up 0.4 to 1.2 degrees F.

It was not the gum but the exercise associated with chewing that raised the temperature. This was demonstrated when parraffin and then soda crackers were substituted for gum and the results were the same. Furthermore, the harder the subjects chewed, the higher the temperature rose. Fortunately, bubble gum was not included in the study. This is something to consider the next time junior runs a fever for which a cause cannot be found.

Fishingpox is another new disease which is reported to be extremely contagious to adult males. Symptoms have been described as "continual complaint as to the need for fresh air, sunshine, and relaxation. Patient has blank expression; sometimes deaf to wife and kids. Has no taste for work of any kind. Frequent checking of tackling catalogs. Hangs out in sporting goods stores longer than usual. Secret night phone calls to fishing pals. Mumbles to self. Lies to everyone." The ailment is not fatal and the victim is cured by going fishing.

Still another malady reported recently in a Pittsburgh medical bulletin is labeled "doctors' chronic fatigue." The typical example centers about the physician who has not had a vacation and is working too hard for his own good. At 3 a. m. he is likely to be awakened by the phone. It might be Mrs. Jones who is calling to tell him that her little Jimmy is having another temper tantrum; or perhaps it is Mrs. Richbody who is having trouble sleeping. The medico is tempted to tell Mrs. Jones to hold Jimmy's head in a bucket of water or Mrs. Richbody that she is a neurotic and not to bother him again. If he feels like doing this, he is suffering from doctors' chronic fatigue but the condition is not limited to the medical profession. Most persons get out of sorts and short tempered after working too hard or going too long without a vacation.

A friend who knew I was heading west on vacation this summer sent me a copy of a poem by Roy Bell, called "Pine Tree Fever." It is too long to quote entirely but the first verses tell of a man who is so tired and depressed his wife insists that he see a physician. It relates the natural fears of most persons who appear for a checkup. After examining the patient, the physician makes the diagnosis and prescribes such a pleasant cure, hope no preventive, antidote, or substitute is ever invented.

"My may, says he, go tell your wife,
You never can deceive her,
If I'm not wrong you've got it bad,
a case of pine tree fever.
The malady attcaks in spring, in summer, and in fall,
It's just as bad whene'er it hits,
for it always gets them all.
I've had a heap of practice, and
prescribed for many ills,
So I know the stuff to cure you
up, just get out in the hills."

Another unusual condition was described by Navy physicians in World War II. Finger rings were found to be hazardous to personnel descending or jumping from a height. The rings caught on nail heads or other objects and stripped the soft tissue from the bone or caused fracture. Many moderate to severe injuries of this type were noted and several amputations were necessary.

Gov. Gruening Of Alaska Filibustered Governors' Conference For Statehood; Sen. Brewster Almost Tipped His Hand On Free Airplane Rides

WASHINGTON—Ordinarily there is no filibustering at the Governor's conference. However one was staged this time at a closed-door session by Governor Ernest Gruening of Alaska.

Hitherto, the Governors conference has always unanimously adopted a resolution backing statehood for Alaska and Hawaii. The resolution has to be unanimous to pass the governors'; though when the resolutions committee OK's a resolution it usually passes automatically without objection. When the Alaskan-Hawaiian statehood platform came up in executive session this time, however, there was a chorus of "ayes," followed by one lone "no."

The governors looked around to find that the dissenter was "Hummon" Talmadge of Georgia.

Asked for his reasons Gov. Talmadge, explained:

"My state will never consent to the admission of four new senators not pledged to oppose cloture."

What the Georgia governor has done was to express out loud the private reason why most Southern senators recently have opposed Alaskan-Hawaiian statehood — the fear that four new senators might upset the South's ability, through cloture, to filibuster against civil rights.

Immediately Gov. Gruening jumped to his feet. It was near the end of a long meeting. The governors were anxious to get home.

"I should like to point out that the statehood resolution always has been adopted at previous governors' conferences," the Alaskan governor said. "The governor of Georgia has complained of federal abuses. But he has no idea the ordeal the people of Alaska and Hawaii suffer at the hands of the federal government. In effect we are minions of an absentee government.

"I have a great deal to say on this subject," continued Gov. Gruening, as his fellow governors got more restless. "In fact, I think I can speak for about four hours."

At his point Governor Driscoll of New Jersey quietly got up and whispered in Talmadge's ear. There were other whispered conferences. Finally the presiding officer announced: "I understand the governor of Georgia would like to change his vote, provided his views on the principle involved are recorded."

Talmadge assented. Governor Jimmie Byrnes then said that he would like to put South Carolina on record likewise.

This made it unanimous for Alaskan-Hawaiian statehood, and the conference adjourned.

Free Airplane Rides

Senator Owen Brewster, Maine Republican, almost tipped his hand the other day when Senator Paul Douglas, Illinois Democrat, introduced an amendment cutting off federal subsidies to any airline caught offering gifts to government employes.

"If entertainment or gratuities are offered by any airlines to any governmental officer or employe, the subsidy will cease to be paid," Douglas explained his amendment.

Brewster, who has accepted various favors from Pan American Airways, impulsively jumped up.

"I wish the senator from Illinois would interpret the amendment. He refers to governmental officer or employe. I should like to be clear as to whether he includes members of Congress within the scope of the amendment," Brewster blurted.

"I myself would think so," replied Douglas.

Catching himself, Brewster hastily added: "There should be no doubt that the amendment would apply to members of Congress."

This is the same Brewster who used to fly home from Washington on week ends in a private Pan American plane. The plane would circle over his Dexter, Maine, home as a signal to his housekeeper, Mrs. Ellen Jenny Brown, to put dinner on. Sam Pryor, Pan American's vice president, frequently phoned in advance from his Washington office or his home in Greenwich, Conn., to say that Brewster was coming. On One occasion, Pryor flew to Dexter with Brewster, then the two flew to Moosehead Lake for five days of fishing. When Brewster's son, Charles, returned from overseas, a private Pan American plane flew him to Dexter.

The shocking thing is that all these free flights and favors were showered upon Brewster at the same time he was sponsoring special legislation to benefit Pan American. Since Pan American received heavy subsidies from the taxpayers, Brewster's free rides were indirectly paid by the taxpayers.

While explaining his amendment, Sen. Douglas suddenly realized the Maine senator's reputation as a friend of Pan American. For he hastened to explain: "I wish to make it clear that there is no personal implication on the part of the senator from Illinois with respect to anyone, either inside or outside of Congress."

However, there was no question that under Douglas' amendment, airlines could no longer give free flights to their friends in the Senate. The amendment was adopted by a weak voice vote, but with no one dissenting.

Day The Earth Stood Still

Shortly after the war, a British scientist told me that plans were under way to develop a space rocket capable of flying to the moon. I pooh-poohed the idea, thereby passing up a good story.

Last year however, American scientists and defense officials not only admitted that it was feasible to fly to the moon, but that the country which controlled the moon would control the earth, since it would be able to aim guided missiles back at the earth.

The Right Of Revolution

Corliss Lamont once made the point:

"Can a democratic government logically permit totalitarian parties to advocate the violent overthrow of the state? I am convinced that the answer is 'yes' and that the right to advocate revolution is a basic constitutional liberty in a democracy."

If the right to advocate change is inherent in freedom, so is the right to oppose change. This truth, Communists and civil libertarians often choose to disregard. Yet, freedom is not a one-way street upon which only those who are in dissent may walk.

This Corliss Lamont acknowledges. He wrote:

"No doubt practically everyone here today would agree with me that there exists in the United States the necessary political machinery for peaceful and democratic change in either a conservative or a radical direction."

I think we can go further than that. For instance, there are those who are content with the American system of life. They have rights, too. I think that just as any man has the liberty to advocate vast and fundamental changes, so any American has the liberty to prevent such changes from coming into being. Just as anyone may criticize our form of government, and our economic system, and our social institutions, so any American has the liberty to fight the advocacy of such changes and to prevent them from being advocated at his expense, namely, by the use of taxpayers' money without the consent of the majority of the taxpayers. Those who object to school auditoriums being used to advocate the destruction of the system which erected the schools, have as many rights as those who insist that schools must be moral institutions in which the fundamentals of our civilization may not be taught because they emanate from religion.

This comes down to the question of our schools and colleges. In the public schools, the public high schools and the public colleges, the ownership is vested in the people. Such institutions exist on the moneys of the taxpayers, who have the right to determine the nature and purpose and service of these institutions by a majority vote in a legislative body. The teachers, professors and administrators are employes whose nature of service, responsibilities, obligations and rights are determined by laws passed by legislatures and regulations issued by the designated officials. That is the essential contractual relationship.

Anyone has the option of accepting employment on the basis of the laws and regulations or not accepting employment. If the legislature demands a loyalty oath, those who reject the loyalty oath have the privilege of resigning. It would seem by the logic of the situation that they have no other alternative.

In privately-owned schools and colleges, other factors enter into the picture except in such institutions as accept tax exemptions. If the legislature makes it a condition of tax exemption that those who teach take an oath of loyalty, it would seem that there are these alternatives: Either to agree to the loyalty oath or to give up the tax exemption. Institutions which refuse to accept tax exemptions cannot be involved in the conditions which accompany such exemptions.

The fallacy of those who advocate revolution is that they refuse to respect the rights of those who oppose revolution. And in a country such as ours, those who oppose revolution have every right to set up legal barriers against revolutions. Acts of Congress and of state legislatures and decisions of the courts are legitimate steps to preserve the traditions and habits of the country.

The revolutionists have always taken the position that they have the right to stand on the barricades, to shoot for their version of liberty, but they reject the right of their opponents to shoot back. They insist upon their right to advocate overthrow, by peaceful means or by violent means, of the existent society but reject the right of the majority of the existent society to adopt peaceful or violent means to defend themselves. This position is utterly untenable.

Mr. Lamont says:

"But we could be wrong; and as democrats we cannot legitimately outlaw either legally or morally those who challenge our position on this issue."

Are we, on the supposition that we are wrong, which we may not be, and that Stalin is right, which he may not be, to permit Stalin to conquer our country either by war, by infiltration, by perversion or by corruption? Are we to give up without a fight because "we could be wrong"?

Matter Of Fact

By STEWART ALSOP

Let's Call The Bluff

BERLIN

Germany today is the land of the astonishing paradox. The Western allies, for example, are now humbly begging the haughty Germans to rearm, when logically the Germans should be begging the West for the means to defend German soil. Again, the Kremlin is reaping extremely important political advantages by loudly demanding a "solution" of the German problem which, taken at face value, would spell intolerable disaster for the Kremlin.

The simple process of passing from the Allied sector of Berlin into the Soviet sector makes this second paradox visible to the naked eye. You go through streets lined with well-filled shops and comfortable cafes, past buildings rebuilt with fierce energy from the rubble, through an atmosphere of reborn vitality amazing in this smashed and encircled city.

Then suddenly you are in another world. Here there is dinginess and ruin, dirty shop fronts half-filled with shoddy good, long weary potato queues, the streets silent and sullenly empty. Only the gigantic, menacing Soviet war memorials, and the endless white-on-red banners (war is peace, freedom is slavery, black is white) lend a note of color.

Now go back to West Berlin, to an address known all over East Germany, where the refugees are received. The tide to the West is an unending flood—16,000 to West Berlin alone, in 18 months. "Three hundred and twenty today", a weary interrogator tells you, interrupting his questioning of a scared German boy "including seven Czechs and nine People's Police. About average." You look at the weary faces, gray with the special pallor of the People's democracy, of the waiting refugees, and suddenly the seemingly optimistic intelligence estimates, of an overwhelming anti-Communist vote in any free election anywhere in East Germany, become real and believable.

Yet the paradox remains. The Kremlin is scoring notable political successes by instructing such stooges as Communist chief Ernst Grotewhol to scream "unity" and "free elections" at suitable intervals. There should be no mistake about it. The Soviet unity line is no mere propaganda maneuver which can be safely laughed off. Grotewhol's latest "unity appeal" had the immediate effect of strengthening the hands of such West German nationalists as Dr. Kurt Schumacher; of causing West German Chancellor Konrad Adenuaer sharply to up his terms for German rearmament; and of threatening the Allied-German negotiations at Bonn with another in a long series of nearly total collapses.

The fact is that German unity is the basic impulse of all Germans, East and West. As long as the Soviets are permitted to dangle the unity prize before German eyes, West German rearmament, if it comes at all is dead certain to be reluctant, ineffective, and indecisive, because it will seem to compromise the chance of unity. And the fact is that it should, logically, be easy to call the Soviet bluff.

For it is a bluff. It can only be a bluff. A really free All-German election would mean such public stripping away of Communist fig leaves as would shake the whole Soviet system to its foundations. Only a basic change of Soviet policy resulting from the extreme pressure of changed circumstances, moreover, could cause the Russians to risk the loss of the colonialized East German industry, the East German uranium mines, and the expensively-built fighter bases and forward positions, which permit the Soviet to theraten all Europe. Above all, the Soviets cannot risk a unified anti-Soviet Germany — and anti-Soviet is precisely what a unified Germany would surely be.

Yet the bluff goes on working. The Soviets and their Communist stooges continue to seize the initiative, while the Western response continues to be defensive and unpersuasive. It is as certain as such things can be that the next Soviet step will be a direct "unity" approach to the Western powers, and equally certain that the West will again be caught on the defensive and off-base.

The basic reason seems to be that the policy makers in the West have been concentrating so exclusively on the elusive West German defensive contribution that no one has decided just what terms for German re-unification would be acceptable. The Soviets have thus been permitted to pose as the patrons, and to portray the West as the enemy, of German unity.

Obviously the West could not agree to German unity on the basis of an American withdrawal across the Atlantic and a Soviet withdrawal to Poland. Obviously we could not agree to a totally unrealistic "neutralization" of Germany. But the vast majority of Germans do not want German unity on these terms either.

Surely it is time to make up our minds on what terms we would accept German unification, and then to launch an all-out political offensive on these terms. The only immediate effect would be to explode the Soviet "unity" line. But until this explosion occurs, a really decisive West German defense contribution is manifestly impossible. But this is not all.

"No one with a sense of history," remarked Berlin's brilliant Mayor Reuter to this reporter, "can believe that the partition of Germany is permanent. Sooner or later, in one way or another, the two halves will come together." This is the fact which, while wisely concentrating on the rearmament of the West, including West Germany, we are unwisely tending to forget. It can be rather safely assumed that the men in the Kremlin, who certainly have a sense of history, are not forgetting it.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Union labor and Senator Taft buried the hatchet long enough to steer through Congress a piece of legislation which labor leaders very much wanted — and to which the Ohio senator wasn't particularly opposed.

It constitutes a bit of political by-play which illustrates the shallowness of the argument that management and labor are destined always to fight each other in Congress.

The new legislation makes it legal for a management and a union to agree, as a matter of contract negotiation, to carry on what is known as a "union shop." The original Taft-Hartley Act stipulated that there could be no "union shop" unless a majority of the employes, by a special election, voted for it. All kinds of inconveniences arose and much money was spent by the National Labor Relations Board in supervising the machinery of such elections. A demand arose to change the law so it would not require elections.

But something else happened far more disconcerting. The Supreme Court held that the officers of the national union federations, such as the AFL and the CIO, and not merely officers of local unions had to sign anti-Communist affidavits before the union could enjoy the privileges of National Labor Relations Board machinery on elections or anything else. The decision really invalidated many previous elections that had been held with unions whose parent organizations had not complied with the law as the court finally construed it because they honestly had believed themselves exempt.

So the amendment which has just been adopted really legalizes all past elections, too, and starts the whole thing off on another basis altogether — namely, by negotiation rather than by the election method.

The "union shop" permits the employer to hire whomever he pleases, but within 30 days the new employe must decide to join the union or quit the job. This differs from a "closed shop," where only union members may be hired by management originally. The "closed shop" is still banned by the Taft-Hartley Act.

The "union shop" is, of course, wrong in principle, too, for it means compulsory unionization as the price of retaining a job in free America. When the Hartley bill was passed by the House and the Taft bill by the Senate, there were differences between the two, and, while the "closed shop" was barred in both bills, the compromise favored the retention of the "union shop." It was a last-minute concession.

So Senator Taft did surrender to the doctrine of compulsory unionization at that time, and now for a second time he has affirmed that same viewpoint. The most significant thing, however, about the episode is the fact that, when labor and management want to get together on labor-management legislation, they can readily do so. Up to now the union leaders have insisted on complete repeal and have fought against any amendments, however meritorious from their own standpoint. There is a bill pending to amend the Taft-Hartley Act in several other respects. While the Senate, under Mr. Taft's leadership, adopted it, thus far, union leaders have not allowed the matter to come to a vote in the House, preferring to save the controversy as an issue for the 1952 campaign.

But Senator Taft comes out pretty well in this latest development because he can say to union voters next year, if he is the nominee for the Presidency, that his attitude toward the amendment just adopted illustrates his readiness to be fair and objective about the protests of labor if he is elected President. Unquestionably the Ohio senator and his friends saw that particular advantage in getting behind the amendment on the "union shop" elections and felt that the difference between an election-granted or a negotiated "union shop" was too insignificant to quarrel about. Also the elections did make a lot of work for the National Labor Relations Board and the unions. To those who believe in compulsory unionization anyway, there is no essential difference whether the objective is attained by negotiation or by an election. For usually the union has a majority when it secures the status of bargaining agent for all employes. The principle of compulsory unionization is neither weakened nor strengthened by the change in the law, as the labor board still retains jurisdiction over the elections held in the first instance to determine whether a union has or has not a majority of employes behind it.

German Unification

Western Germany appears to be steering a course between East and West that is likely to produce the benefits of sovereignty and could even result in the eventual unification of the German nation.

Chancellor Adenauer has flatly rejected an East German demand that all talks on West Germany's integration with the Atlantic powers in mutual defense efforts be broken off. But Adenauer kept the door open for discussion of unity with East Germany.

West Germany demands a three-month period of free campaigning by all political parties before any nation-wide elections. Elections would have to be supervised by international authority. These demands could conceivably be met. What Soviet-dominated East Germany would of necessity stick at would be West German demands for border revision to take in lands beyond the Oder-Neisse line lost to Germany in World War II.

The recent overtures from East Germany for unification of the nation appear to be Soviet-inspired. The Russians apparently fear a contractual agreement with the Atlantic powers that would, in effect, act as a "San Francisco for Germany." West Germany would be given independence amounting to sovereignty in return for cooperation in a mutual assistance effort aimed against possible Russian aggression.

Russian attempts to conciliate West Germany are understandable. Losses of Communist party strength in Western European nations in the past several years have ranged from 30 per cent in France to 84 per cent in Luxembourg, according to the U. S. State Department. Moreover, Western rearmament and the successful conclusion of a peace treaty with Japan have drawn signs from Russia of a change of policy, if not of heart, toward the free world.

I. A. Seleznev, a leading Soviet critic, recently deprecated in the Russian magazine "Questions of Philosophy" the Marxian doctrine that war with capitalist nations is inevitable. "In contemporary conditions," he wrote, "it is impossible simply to speak of the inevitability of not preventing war in an epoch of imperialism. If we limit ourselves only to this thesis, then we distort the actual objective course of history and deal immense harm to the powerful movement of contemporary life and the movement of peace supporters."

Seleznev quoted Stalin's speech of November 6, 1944, in which the Russian dictator said the Allies had not merely to win World War II but also "to make new aggression and new war impossible—if not forever, at least for a long time to come."

Soviet peace offensives are designed to serve Soviet ends. If Russia now wants to spike the plans of Atlantic powers for rearmament, the ground is already prepared for a peace "front." A new fortnightly periodical, obviously aimed for the attention of the West, appeared in Moscow in mid-July. The publication, "News," reaffirmed the possibility of peaceful coexistance with the West. And Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Malik made the same point in his July speech indicating Russia was ready to talk about a peace in Korea.

Westward The Course . . .

When Bishop Berkeley, back in the 18th Century before there was a United States, was prophesying about the course of empire in a new land with whose development he was concerned, he had no thought of population trends. Yet from the first census of 1790, enjoined by the Constitution, that is the way the center of population in the U.S. has gone. Its speed, however, has not been regular, but by fits and starts.

The first census showed the center 23 miles east of Baltimore, the next put it 18 miles west of that city. Virginia had it in 1810, and in the next four decades it was in West Virginia, but ever moving westward. In 1860 and 1870 it was in Ohio, and 10 years later it was in Kentucky, but only eight miles from Cincinnati.

But in the six censuses from 1890 to 1940, inclusive, it was in Indiana, which has just yielded it to Illinois, as it has shifted 42 miles westward and 7.6 miles south. Never has the center been far from the 39th Parallel.

This center is a purely figurative thing. It is assumed to be the point at which, if the United States were a plane and its 150,000,000 population as now distributed were all of identical weight, that plane, if upheld by a pivot, would not teeter in any direction but stay put. So an individual in a western seaboard state far outbalances one in the east.

Economics, of course, is recognized as the principal cause of population shifts. The astounding thing about the center of population is that while in 160 years is has moved westward 644 miles, at present, at its most southern point, it is only 30 miles south of its most northern point, determined by the first census.

What of the coming years? Nobody knows, and geographers are too canny to predict. But continuance of the same trend would carry it, in problematical decades hence, across Illinois, through Missouri and into Kansas. But that is the day nobody now alive is likely to see.

Civil Defense Reversed

Not all the energies of governors at their annual conference were concentrated on politics. Useful hours were devoted to mutual problems, and one of the most urgent to receive official attention was civil defence. At Gatlinburg, Tenn., site of this year's conference, Civil Defense Administrator Millard Caldwell transmitted to the governors the latest federal plan for civil populations in the event of an atomic attack.

Briefly, Mr. Caldwell's latest program contemplates a mass exodus from New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island should their key cities become targets of hostile planes. He further revealed that it is proposed to shift affected populations in those states to Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

It was only a year ago that the National Security Resources Board issued a report on what target areas and their civilians were expected to do when the bomb fell. They were not expected to run. The report placed primary emphasis on the necessity of staying on the job, restoring industrial power and fighting back by getting into war production as swiftly as possible.

How communities and plants could be returned to production by shipping affected populations to Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont is no more clear than what Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont would do with the massed evacuees.

Mr. Caldwell projected at Gatlinburg a departure in home defense that sounds uncomfortably like the civil defense planning which produced the bizarre scheme, now discarded, to build a coast-to-coast chain of underground shelters at fabulous cost to protect one per cent of the population.

Strange Diseases

Several years ago an Alabama physician, Dr. Harvey B. Searcy, cured a child of fever by taking away her chewing gum. He interested a gum manufacturer in the problem and they tried a unique experiment on twenty healthy employes. All chewed gum steadily for five minutes and their temperature readings went up 0.4 to 1.2 degrees F.

It was not the gum but the exercise associated with chewing that raised the temperature. This was demonstrated when parraffin and then soda crackers were substituted for gum and the results were the same. Furthermore, the harder the subjects chewed, the higher the temperature rose. Fortunately, bubble gum was not included in the study. This is something to consider the next time junior runs a fever for which a cause cannot be found.

Fishingpox is another new disease which is reported to be extremely contagious to adult males. Symptoms have been described as "continual complaint as to the need for fresh air, sunshine, and relaxation. Patient has blank expression; sometimes deaf to wife and kids. Has no taste for work of any kind. Frequent checking of tackling catalogs. Hangs out in sporting goods stores longer than usual. Secret night phone calls to fishing pals. Mumbles to self. Lies to everyone." The ailment is not fatal and the victim is cured by going fishing.

Still another malady reported recently in a Pittsburgh medical bulletin is labeled "doctors' chronic fatigue." The typical example centers about the physician who has not had a vacation and is working too hard for his own good. At 3 a. m. he is likely to be awakened by the phone. It might be Mrs. Jones who is calling to tell him that her little Jimmy is having another temper tantrum; or perhaps it is Mrs. Richbody who is having trouble sleeping. The medico is tempted to tell Mrs. Jones to hold Jimmy's head in a bucket of water or Mrs. Richbody that she is a neurotic and not to bother him again. If he feels like doing this, he is suffering from doctors' chronic fatigue but the condition is not limited to the medical profession. Most persons get out of sorts and short tempered after working too hard or going too long without a vacation.

A friend who knew I was heading west on vacation this summer sent me a copy of a poem by Roy Bell, called "Pine Tree Fever." It is too long to quote entirely but the first verses tell of a man who is so tired and depressed his wife insists that he see a physician. It relates the natural fears of most persons who appear for a checkup. After examining the patient, the physician makes the diagnosis and prescribes such a pleasant cure, hope no preventive, antidote, or substitute is ever invented.

"My may, says he, go tell your wife,
You never can deceive her,
If I'm not wrong you've got it bad,
a case of pine tree fever.
The malady attcaks in spring, in
summer, and in fall,
It's just as bad whene'er it hits,
for it always gets them all.
I've had a heap of practice, and
prescribed for many ills,
So I know the stuff to cure you
up, just get out in the hills."

Another unusual condition was described by Navy physicians in World War II. Finger rings were found to be hazardous to personnel descending or jumping from a height. The rings caught on nail heads or other objects and stripped the soft tissue from the bone or caused fracture. Many moderate to severe injuries of this type were noted and several amputations were necessary.

Gov. Gruening Of Alaska Filibustered Governors' Conference For Statehood; Sen. Brewster Almost Tipped His Hand On Free Airplane Rides

WASHINGTON—Ordinarily there is no filibustering at the Governor's conference. However one was staged this time at a closed-door session by Governor Ernest Gruening of Alaska.

Hitherto, the Governors conference has always unanimously adopted a resolution backing statehood for Alaska and Hawaii. The resolution has to be unanimous to pass the governors'; though when the resolutions committee OK's a resolution it usually passes automatically without objection. When the Alaskan-Hawaiian statehood platform came up in executive session this time, however, there was a chorus of "ayes," followed by one lone "no."

The governors looked around to find that the dissenter was "Hummon" Talmadge of Georgia.

Asked for his reasons Gov. Talmadge, explained:

"My state will never consent to the admission of four new senators not pledged to oppose cloture."

What the Georgia governor has done was to express out loud the private reason why most Southern senators recently have opposed Alaskan-Hawaiian statehood — the fear that four new senators might upset the South's ability, through cloture, to filibuster against civil rights.

Immediately Gov. Gruening jumped to his feet. It was near the end of a long meeting. The governors were anxious to get home.

"I should like to point out that the statehood resolution always has been adopted at previous governors' conferences," the Alaskan governor said. "The governor of Georgia has complained of federal abuses. But he has no idea the ordeal the people of Alaska and Hawaii suffer at the hands of the federal government. In effect we are minions of an absentee government.

"I have a great deal to say on this subject," continued Gov. Gruening, as his fellow governors got more restless. "In fact, I think I can speak for about four hours."

At his point Governor Driscoll of New Jersey quietly got up and whispered in Talmadge's ear. There were other whispered conferences. Finally the presiding officer announced: "I understand the governor of Georgia would like to change his vote, provided his views on the principle involved are recorded."

Talmadge assented. Governor Jimmie Byrnes then said that he would like to put South Carolina on record likewise.

This made it unanimous for Alaskan-Hawaiian statehood, and the conference adjourned.

Free Airplane Rides

Senator Owen Brewster, Maine Republican, almost tipped his hand the other day when Senator Paul Douglas, Illinois Democrat, introduced an amendment cutting off federal subsidies to any airline caught offering gifts to government employes.

"If entertainment or gratuities are offered by any airlines to any governmental officer or employe, the subsidy will cease to be paid," Douglas explained his amendment.

Brewster, who has accepted various favors from Pan American Airways, impulsively jumped up.

"I wish the senator from Illinois would interpret the amendment. He refers to governmental officer or employe. I should like to be clear as to whether he includes members of Congress within the scope of the amendment," Brewster blurted.

"I myself would think so," replied Douglas.

Catching himself, Brewster hastily added: "There should be no doubt that the amendment would apply to members of Congress."

This is the same Brewster who used to fly home from Washington on week ends in a private Pan American plane. The plane would circle over his Dexter, Maine, home as a signal to his housekeeper, Mrs. Ellen Jenny Brown, to put dinner on. Sam Pryor, Pan American's vice president, frequently phoned in advance from his Washington office or his home in Greenwich, Conn., to say that Brewster was coming. On One occasion, Pryor flew to Dexter with Brewster, then the two flew to Moosehead Lake for five days of fishing. When Brewster's son, Charles, returned from overseas, a private Pan American plane flew him to Dexter.

The shocking thing is that all these free flights and favors were showered upon Brewster at the same time he was sponsoring special legislation to benefit Pan American. Since Pan American received heavy subsidies from the taxpayers, Brewster's free rides were indirectly paid by the taxpayers.

While explaining his amendment, Sen. Douglas suddenly realized the Maine senator's reputation as a friend of Pan American. For he hastened to explain: "I wish to make it clear that there is no personal implication on the part of the senator from Illinois with respect to anyone, either inside or outside of Congress."

However, there was no question that under Douglas' amendment, airlines could no longer give free flights to their friends in the Senate. The amendment was adopted by a weak voice vote, but with no one dissenting.

Day The Earth Stood Still

Shortly after the war, a British scientist told me that plans were under way to develop a space rocket capable of flying to the moon. I pooh-poohed the idea, thereby passing up a good story.

Last year however, American scientists and defense officials not only admitted that it was feasible to fly to the moon, but that the country which controlled the moon would control the earth, since it would be able to aim guided missiles back at the earth.

The Right Of Revolution

Corliss Lamont once made the point:

"Can a democratic government logically permit totalitarian parties to advocate the violent overthrow of the state? I am convinced that the answer is 'yes' and that the right to advocate revolution is a basic constitutional liberty in a democracy."

If the right to advocate change is inherent in freedom, so is the right to oppose change. This truth, Communists and civil libertarians often choose to disregard. Yet, freedom is not a one-way street upon which only those who are in dissent may walk.

This Corliss Lamont acknowledges. He wrote:

"No doubt practically everyone here today would agree with me that there exists in the United States the necessary political machinery for peaceful and democratic change in either a conservative or a radical direction."

I think we can go further than that. For instance, there are those who are content with the American system of life. They have rights, too. I think that just as any man has the liberty to advocate vast and fundamental changes, so any American has the liberty to prevent such changes from coming into being. Just as anyone may criticize our form of government, and our economic system, and our social institutions, so any American has the liberty to fight the advocacy of such changes and to prevent them from being advocated at his expense, namely, by the use of taxpayers' money without the consent of the majority of the taxpayers. Those who object to school auditoriums being used to advocate the destruction of the system which erected the schools, have as many rights as those who insist that schools must be moral institutions in which the fundamentals of our civilization may not be taught because they emanate from religion.

This comes down to the question of our schools and colleges. In the public schools, the public high schools and the public colleges, the ownership is vested in the people. Such institutions exist on the moneys of the taxpayers, who have the right to determine the nature and purpose and service of these institutions by a majority vote in a legislative body. The teachers, professors and administrators are employes whose nature of service, responsibilities, obligations and rights are determined by laws passed by legislatures and regulations issued by the designated officials. That is the essential contractual relationship.

Anyone has the option of accepting employment on the basis of the laws and regulations or not accepting employment. If the legislature demands a loyalty oath, those who reject the loyalty oath have the privilege of resigning. It would seem by the logic of the situation that they have no other alternative.

In privately-owned schools and colleges, other factors enter into the picture except in such institutions as accept tax exemptions. If the legislature makes it a condition of tax exemption that those who teach take an oath of loyalty, it would seem that there are these alternatives: Either to agree to the loyalty oath or to give up the tax exemption. Institutions which refuse to accept tax exemptions cannot be involved in the conditions which accompany such exemptions.

The fallacy of those who advocate revolution is that they refuse to respect the rights of those who oppose revolution. And in a country such as ours, those who oppose revolution have every right to set up legal barriers against revolutions. Acts of Congress and of state legislatures and decisions of the courts are legitimate steps to preserve the traditions and habits of the country.

The revolutionists have always taken the position that they have the right to stand on the barricades, to shoot for their version of liberty, but they reject the right of their opponents to shoot back. They insist upon their right to advocate overthrow, by peaceful means or by violent means, of the existent society but reject the right of the majority of the existent society to adopt peaceful or violent means to defend themselves. This position is utterly untenable.

Mr. Lamont says:

"But we could be wrong; and as democrats we cannot legitimately outlaw either legally or morally those who challenge our position on this issue."

Are we, on the supposition that we are wrong, which we may not be, and that Stalin is right, which he may not be, to permit Stalin to conquer our country either by war, by infiltration, by perversion or by corruption? Are we to give up without a fight because "we could be wrong"?

Let's Call The Bluff

BERLIN

Germany today is the land of the astonishing paradox. The Western allies, for example, are now humbly begging the haughty Germans to rearm, when logically the Germans should be begging the West for the means to defend German soil. Again, the Kremlin is reaping extremely important political advantages by loudly demanding a "solution" of the German problem which, taken at face value, would spell intolerable disaster for the Kremlin.

The simple process of passing from the Allied sector of Berlin into the Soviet sector makes this second paradox visible to the naked eye. You go through streets lined with well-filled shops and comfortable cafes, past buildings rebuilt with fierce energy from the rubble, through an atmosphere of reborn vitality amazing in this smashed and encircled city.

Then suddenly you are in another world. Here there is dinginess and ruin, dirty shop fronts half-filled with shoddy good, long weary potato queues, the streets silent and sullenly empty. Only the gigantic, menacing Soviet war memorials, and the endless white-on-red banners (war is peace, freedom is slavery, black is white) lend a note of color.

Now go back to West Berlin, to an address known all over East Germany, where the refugees are received. The tide to the West is an unending flood—16,000 to West Berlin alone, in 18 months. "Three hundred and twenty today", a weary interrogator tells you, interrupting his questioning of a scared German boy "including seven Czechs and nine People's Police. About average." You look at the weary faces, gray with the special pallor of the People's democracy, of the waiting refugees, and suddenly the seemingly optimistic intelligence estimates, of an overwhelming anti-Communist vote in any free election anywhere in East Germany, become real and believable.

Yet the paradox remains. The Kremlin is scoring notable political successes by instructing such stooges as Communist chief Ernst Grotewhol to scream "unity" and "free elections" at suitable intervals. There should be no mistake about it. The Soviet unity line is no mere propaganda maneuver which can be safely laughed off. Grotewhol's latest "unity appeal" had the immediate effect of strengthening the hands of such West German nationalists as Dr. Kurt Schumacher; of causing West German Chancellor Konrad Adenuaer sharply to up his terms for German rearmament; and of threatening the Allied-German negotiations at Bonn with another in a long series of nearly total collapses.

The fact is that German unity is the basic impulse of all Germans, East and West. As long as the Soviets are permitted to dangle the unity prize before German eyes, West German rearmament, if it comes at all is dead certain to be reluctant, ineffective, and indecisive, because it will seem to compromise the chance of unity. And the fact is that it should, logically, be easy to call the Soviet bluff.

For it is a bluff. It can only be a bluff. A really free All-German election would mean such public stripping away of Communist fig leaves as would shake the whole Soviet system to its foundations. Only a basic change of Soviet policy resulting from the extreme pressure of changed circumstances, moreover, could cause the Russians to risk the loss of the colonialized East German industry, the East German uranium mines, and the expensively-built fighter bases and forward positions, which permit the Soviet to theraten all Europe. Above all, the Soviets cannot risk a unified anti-Soviet Germany — and anti-Soviet is precisely what a unified Germany would surely be.

Yet the bluff goes on working. The Soviets and their Communist stooges continue to seize the initiative, while the Western response continues to be defensive and unpersuasive. It is as certain as such things can be that the next Soviet step will be a direct "unity" approach to the Western powers, and equally certain that the West will again be caught on the defensive and off-base.

The basic reason seems to be that the policy makers in the West have been concentrating so exclusively on the elusive West German defensive contribution that no one has decided just what terms for German re-unification would be acceptable. The Soviets have thus been permitted to pose as the patrons, and to portray the West as the enemy, of German unity.

Obviously the West could not agree to German unity on the basis of an American withdrawal across the Atlantic and a Soviet withdrawal to Poland. Obviously we could not agree to a totally unrealistic "neutralization" of Germany. But the vast majority of Germans do not want German unity on these terms either.

Surely it is time to make up our minds on what terms we would accept German unification, and then to launch an all-out political offensive on these terms. The only immediate effect would be to explode the Soviet "unity" line. But until this explosion occurs, a really decisive West German defense contribution is manifestly impossible. But this is not all.

"No one with a sense of history," remarked Berlin's brilliant Mayor Reuter to this reporter, "can believe that the partition of Germany is permanent. Sooner or later, in one way or another, the two halves will come together." This is the fact which, while wisely concentrating on the rearmament of the West, including West Germany, we are unwisely tending to forget. It can be rather safely assumed that the men in the Kremlin, who certainly have a sense of history, are not forgetting it.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Union labor and Senator Taft buried the hatchet long enough to steer through Congress a piece of legislation which labor leaders very much wanted — and to which the Ohio senator wasn't particularly opposed.

It constitutes a bit of political by-play which illustrates the shallowness of the argument that management and labor are destined always to fight each other in Congress.

The new legislation makes it legal for a management and a union to agree, as a matter of contract negotiation, to carry on what is known as a "union shop." The original Taft-Hartley Act stipulated that there could be no "union shop" unless a majority of the employes, by a special election, voted for it. All kinds of inconveniences arose and much money was spent by the National Labor Relations Board in supervising the machinery of such elections. A demand arose to change the law so it would not require elections.

But something else happened far more disconcerting. The Supreme Court held that the officers of the national union federations, such as the AFL and the CIO, and not merely officers of local unions had to sign anti-Communist affidavits before the union could enjoy the privileges of National Labor Relations Board machinery on elections or anything else. The decision really invalidated many previous elections that had been held with unions whose parent organizations had not complied with the law as the court finally construed it because they honestly had believed themselves exempt.

So the amendment which has just been adopted really legalizes all past elections, too, and starts the whole thing off on another basis altogether — namely, by negotiation rather than by the election method.

The "union shop" permits the employer to hire whomever he pleases, but within 30 days the new employe must decide to join the union or quit the job. This differs from a "closed shop," where only union members may be hired by management originally. The "closed shop" is still banned by the Taft-Hartley Act.

The "union shop" is, of course, wrong in principle, too, for it means compulsory unionization as the price of retaining a job in free America. When the Hartley bill was passed by the House and the Taft bill by the Senate, there were differences between the two, and, while the "closed shop" was barred in both bills, the compromise favored the retention of the "union shop." It was a last-minute concession.

So Senator Taft did surrender to the doctrine of compulsory unionization at that time, and now for a second time he has affirmed that same viewpoint. The most significant thing, however, about the episode is the fact that, when labor and management want to get together on labor-management legislation, they can readily do so. Up to now the union leaders have insisted on complete repeal and have fought against any amendments, however meritorious from their own standpoint. There is a bill pending to amend the Taft-Hartley Act in several other respects. While the Senate, under Mr. Taft's leadership, adopted it, thus far, union leaders have not allowed the matter to come to a vote in the House, preferring to save the controversy as an issue for the 1952 campaign.

But Senator Taft comes out pretty well in this latest development because he can say to union voters next year, if he is the nominee for the Presidency, that his attitude toward the amendment just adopted illustrates his readiness to be fair and objective about the protests of labor if he is elected President. Unquestionably the Ohio senator and his friends saw that particular advantage in getting behind the amendment on the "union shop" elections and felt that the difference between an election-granted or a negotiated "union shop" was too insignificant to quarrel about. Also the elections did make a lot of work for the National Labor Relations Board and the unions. To those who believe in compulsory unionization anyway, there is no essential difference whether the objective is attained by negotiation or by an election. For usually the union has a majority when it secures the status of bargaining agent for all employes. The principle of compulsory unionization is neither weakened nor strengthened by the change in the law, as the labor board still retains jurisdiction over the elections held in the first instance to determine whether a union has or has not a majority of employes behind it.

DEATHS and FUNERALS

WILLIAMS FUNERAL

A funeral service for Mrs. Bessie Mae Williams, 77, widow of William P. Williams, who died Saturday at her home, 325 Frederick Street, was held yesterday afternoon at the Stein Funeral Home. Rev. Joseph Carner, pastor of Metropolitan A.M.E. Church, officiated, and interment was in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Walter Edwards, William E. Powell, Jr., Robert M. Powell, Jack V. Powell, Howard Wells and Reginald Wells.

MELVIN M. WILT

ECKHART MINES—Services for Melvin McKenzie Wilt, 29, of Eckhart, who was fatally wounded Saturday while hunting squirrels on Dan's Mountain, will be held today at 2 p. m. in the Bittinger Lutheran Church. Burial will take place in Bittinger Cemetery.

Wilt, the first hunting fatality of the year in Allegany county died at Miners' Hospital, Frostburg, from loss of blood due to shotgun wounds of the right thigh and lower abdomen.

State Police said Wilt's gun accidentally went off. The body was taken to the Durst Funeral Home, Frostburg.

Survivors include his widow, the former Miss Dorcas Butler; two children, Nancy and Melvin Wilt; three sisters, Mrs. George Arner, Salisbury; Mrs. Shannon Hoover, Cumberland, and Mrs. John Showalter, Baltimore, and two brothers, Bruce and Silas Wilt, Jr., Clarysville. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Wilt, Clarysville.

COSGROVE BURIAL

LONACONING—A funeral service for Mrs. Elizabeth Cosgrove, 85, widow of John Cosgrove, who died Tuesday, was held Friday at the residence, Front Street. Rev. C. H. Goshorn, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, officiated, and interment was in Frostburg Memorial Park.

Pallbearers were Robert Marshall, Sr., Charles W. Walters, John Gowans, William Duckorth, Joseph Watkinson and James Hadley, Jr.

MRS. ALICE G. JOHNSON

GRAFTON, W. Va.—Mrs. Alice Gertrude Johnson, 69, widow of Homer R. Johnson, died Sunday night at her home, 29 East St. Charles Street. She had been in failing health eight years.

Mrs. Johnson was born April 15, 1882, in Taylor county, a daughter of the late John and Catherine (Shafferman) Cassell. Her husband died in 1928. She held membership in St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Surviving are two sons, Charles H. Johnson Clarksburg, and W. C. Johnson, at home; three daughters, Mrs. Gertrude Pitzer, Grafton; Mrs. Mary Downer, Terra Alta, and Miss Florence Johnson, at home; three brothers, Charles and Edward M. Cassell, both of Grafton, and Arthur F. Cassell, Fairmont; two sisters, Mrs. Carrie Fawcett and Miss Henrietta Cassell, Blueville, and nine grandchildren.

The body is at the Bartlett Funeral Home where rites will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. by Rev. E. F. K. Roof and Rev. Robert E. Cassell. Burial will take place in Bluemont Cemetery.

CHARLES C. SPRING

GREAT CACAPON, W. Va.—Charles C. Spring, 67, died Saturday at his home near here. Although he had been ill for some time his death was unexpected.

He was a son of the late Martin L. and Lavina (Hansrote) Spring.

A member of the Mt. Nebo United Brethren Church, Mr. Spring was a trustee of the church and superintendent of the Sunday School. He was a past president of the Eastern Panhandle Farm Bureau, a supervisor of the Morgan County Soil Conservation Commission and was a member of the Jr. O.U.A.M.

He is survived by three sons, Leslie and Warren Spring, both at home, and Clarence Spring, Great Cacapon; a daughter, Mrs. S. A. Leonardi, at home; four brothers, Irvin Spring, Symrna, Del.; Raymond and Wilson Spring, both of Great Cacapon, and Smith Spring, Washington; two sisters, Mrs. Lottie Clingerman and Mrs. Flora Hutchinson, both of Great Cacapon, and two grandchildren.

The body is at the residence. Services will be conducted today at 2 p. m. at the Mt. Nebo church. Rev. Maurice Petry, pastor, will officiate and interment will be in the church cemetery.

MRS. ELIZABETH A. ROSIER

GRAFTON, W. Va. — Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Rosier, 81, of 302 Barrett Street, widow of Oscar N. Rosier, Sr., who died Saturday, were held yesterday afternoon from the Bartlett Funeral Home. Rev. E. S. K. Roof, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, officiated and interment was in Knottsville Cemetery.

A native of Taylor County, she was born February 12, 1870, a daughter of the late Luke and Elizabeth Scott Kinney. She was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and Naomi Chapter No. 12, Order of Eastern Star.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Iva M. Hanline, Sardia; two sons, Kinney M. and Oscar N. Rosier, Jr., both of Grafton, and one sister, Mrs. Sarah Hession, Cumberland, Md.

Trucker Blamed In Pedestrian Death

A Hampshire County (W. Va.) coroner's jury yesterday found that a 74-year-old Romney man died as a result of being hit by a pickup truck driven by Edward R. Myers, 35, of Clarksburg, W. Va.

Myers is free under $5,000 bond pending trial on charges of hit-and-run driving and negligent homicide in the death of Clifford F. McDonald.

McDonald died in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, of shock and a brain concussion Saturday night. Myers was arrested a few hours later in Petersburg, W. Va. The accident occurred near Romney as McDonald crossed Route 50.

Sevierville, Tenn., has a law requiring Communists wishing to live there to post $1 million bond to keep the peace.

One Defendant Fails To Appear

A man failed to appear in Circuit Court yesterday morning when he was called to trial on three charges of forgery, and Associate Judge George Henderson said no action to order default of the $1,000 bond will be taken at this time.

The accused, William Franklin Radcliffe, is charged with passing forged checks on two local supermarkets. The $1,000 bond for his appearance was posted by relatives.

A three-year sentence in the Maryland Reformatory for Males was handed Ralph Leo Wharton, 19, of 941 Gay Street, but Judge Henderson suspended sentence and placed the youth on parole. He was charged with attempting to break into the Cumberland Motor Express Corporation storehouse on Springdale Street last May. A plea of guilty was entered by Wharton when he was arraigned.

City Police Officers Joseph Stitcher and C. W. Thompson caught Wharton on the night of the attempted entry after a chase from the storehouse.

A guilty plea was entered by Lloyd Long, Jr., Kelly Boulevard, who is accused of robbing Percy Combs, this city, of $150 on July 5 in a tavern on Front Street. Sentence was deferred.

Celanese Honors Four Workers

Four Celanese Corporation of America employes have been presented 25-year service awards at the Amcelle plant, according to H. C. Givens, Jr., plant manager.

Harry G. Eisentrout, Route 1, LaVale, who was employed in the Spinning Department on October 13, 1926, was presented a gold wrist watch by Givens. John Bestwick, superintendent of spinning, presented Eisentrout a certificate attesting to 25 years of service and a five-star emblem indicating over a quarter century of service.

Eisentrout is presently a block foreman in the Spinning Department. He was promoted to the supervisory staff on October 29, 1933.

He is the youngest employe who has ever completed 25 years of service at Amcelle.

Jacob B. Markwood, of Cresaptown, who was employed in the Dyehouse October 13, 1926, received a gold wrist watch, also presented by Givens.

Markwood transferred to the Warp Knitting section during World War II for four years as a needle squarer, but returned to his original department, Color Stores in the Dyehouse, on March 24, 1947.

William J. Cramer, superintendent of the Dyehouse, also presented a 25-year certificate and a five-star emblem indicating over a quarter century of service to Celanese.

Frank W. Scarcelli, of Eckhart, was employed in the Spinning Department on October 12, 1926, where he is still employed as a production examiner.

Givens presented him a gold pocket watch which was engraved as follows: "In recognition of more than a quarter century of loyal service. Celanese Corporation of America."

Bestwick also presented a certificate attesting to 25 years of service and a five-star lapel emblem indicating five years of service for each star.

Irvin E. Lohr, Route 2, Frostburg, who was employed October 14, 1926 in the Bobbin Stores Department, was presented a gold wrist watch by Givens.

Bestwick presented Lohr a five-star emblem and a certificate which indicates more than 25 years of service.

Homecoming Queen Contest Opens At PSS

Three Candidates Vie For Honors

KEYSER, W. Va. — A vigorous campaign was opened yesterday on the campus of Potomac State School to elect Miss Catamount XIII, Homecoming Queen to reign over the festivities at the school Saturday.

Candidates include the Misses Mary Mac Bess, Patricia Hartsfield and Joyce Nelson, all sophomores.

Miss Bess, a Keyser High School graduate, is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Bess, Sr., New Creek Drive. She is a pre-eduction major and a member of Eta Upsilin Gamma sorority. Theta Sigma Chi fraternity is backing her.

Miss Hartsfield is the chaice of Phi Sigma Nu fraternity, another Keyser High School graduate. She is a medical technology major and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hartsfield, 12 Church Street, Keyser. In addition to being a cheerleader, Miss Hartsfield is a member of Sigma Iota Chi sorority, the W.A.A., Medi-Sci-Club, Players' Club, Delta Psi Omega national honorary dramatic fraternity, and Sigma Phi Omega Honor Society.

Miss Nelson, a graduate of Piedmont High School, is majoring in elementary education. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Nelson, 31 East Hampshire Street, Piedmont, and a member of Kappa Delta Pi sorority. She is being sponsored by the brother organization, Phi Kappa Omega. She is also a member of Potomac Singers.

Students will go to the polls on Wednesday to cast their ballots in the contest which is sponsored by Theta Sigma Chi fraternity.

Grand Jury Meets Today

KEYSER, W. Va.—Grand jurors for the October term of Mineral County Circuit Court have been summoned and instructed to appear before Judge Ernest A. See this morning for hearing cases that will be presented for consideration and investigation by Prosecutor Donald C. Hott.

The prosecutor has prepared eight cases, seven of which are for presentation to the grand jury. The eighth case involves a 16-year-old boy charged with arson in four cases. This case is one for the juvenile court but may be turned over to the grand jury and automatically become a criminal action for the Circuit Court. Judge See will determine the disposition of this case before the grand jurors convene.

The following were served with summons as grand jurors by Sheriff F. G. Davis: O. C. Hepner, John Powell and Wayne Dayton, Frankfort District; Laurin Swisher, Raymond Stafford, C. A. Ludwick, Sr., Blake Oss and John K. Sanders, New Creek District; Samuel J. Logsdon and Michael Kuykendall, Cabin Run District; Wesley Duling and Huber Norman, Elk District; Clyde Bonar, Welton District and John F. Rose, Frank Healey and Walter Cook, Piedmont District.

Tri-Towns Personals

Mr. and Mrs. J. George Tonry and daughter, Miss Adeline Tonry, Baltimore, returned home after visiting Mrs. James T. Tonry, Philos Avenue, Westernport.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Grindle and family moved from Church Street, to Vine Street, Westernport.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Kyle, Luke, returned to Providence, R. I., to resume their studies at the Zion Bible School. They will complete their course this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Raines, Pierce, W. Va., announce the birth of a son in Parsons hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wilson have moved into the property of W. McDonald.

Mineral County Sheriff Must Travel To Collect Taxes

SING AT REVIVAL—The Bane Sisters Trio of Cumberland, musicians and singers, are providing music for the revival services at the Moscow Church of the Nazarene, beginning tonight. The musical portion of the services begins at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. R. T. Brohawn, church pastor, will bring the message each night. The services will continue each evening through October 28.

KEYSER, W. Va.—Despite the fact that there are many privately-owned automobiles in Mineral County, and few, if any saddle horses travelling the highways, an old law on the West Virginia Statute books provides that the sheriff and his deputies, must divide their tax collection time between Keyser, the county seat, and various communities outlying in parts of the big, rambling mountainous county.

When the state was a part of Virginia, prior to the Civil War, and since then, the sheriff was and has been required by law to go out and collect tax monies from the land and personal property owners.

When the law was passed, the sheriff had to carry money with him for making change and a sheaf of papers, including tax bills, and he had to call on citizens throughout the county. In more recent times he set up a collection depot in the several communities and the taxpayers called on him. Most of his trips at that time were made on horseback as county roads, especially through the mountain areas, were not suitable to any kind of riding in any comfort in any kind of vehicle.

Now the sheriff or his deputy travels by automobile, and makes trips at special times to seven communities in the county. There were more, a few years ago, but some of the communities were discontinued as tax collection points. They are Ridgeley, Wiley Ford, Fort Ashby, Burlington, Piedmont, Patterson Creek and Elk Garden. At some of these places, collections are worthwhile, but in some others it is questionable. Nevertheless the collection points will be maintained until such time as the state legislature gets around to making a change in the law.

Miss Bean Is Honored By Eckhart Club

Thanksgiving Charity Plans Discussed

ECKHART—A farewell party in honor of Miss Maude A. Bean, retiring county home demonstration agent, was given a recent evening by the Eckhart Homemakers Club at the monthly meeting.

Mrs. Marshall Porter, president, conducted a short business meeting.

The meeting opened with the Lord's Prayer, followed by the group singing the song of the month, "Abide With Me." The history was given by Mrs. Mildred LaPorta. A book entitled "Son of 100 Kings" was reviewed by Mrs. Delores Fatkin. Miss Bean, who was presented a gift by the club, was also made an honorary member.

The club has planned to distribute Thanksgiving food baskets to needy families in the Eckhart area. Mrs. Kate Nelson gave a report on the recent Achievement Day program at Centre Street Methodist Church, Cumberland.

Mrs. Irene MacDonald, county membership chairman, told of her trip to the national convention in Michigan. Accordion selections were played by Mary Catherine Tichey.

Mrs. Gladys Kellar was accepted as a new member of the club. A nominating committee consisting of Mrs. Mary Watkins, Mrs. Stella Bruner and Mrs. Mildred LaPorta were chosen to nominate officers for the 1952 term.

The next meeting will be Achievement Night, with each member bringing a suggestion for Christmas decorations and wrappings. The meeting closed with the group singing "Auld Lang Syne."

Mt. Savage OES To Meet Tonight

MT. SAVAGE — Rebecca Arnold Chapter 57, Order of the Eastern Star, will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the Junior Order Hall with Mrs. Cora Pollock, worthy matron, presiding.

After the business meeting the chapter will observe Advance Night with Mrs. Dora Burch, associate matron, conducting initiatory work.

The associate matron will be honored at a ceremony by the officers. A social will follow the meeting.

Frostburg Briefs

The Ladies Auxiliary of Eckhart Square Circle Sportsmen's Association will meet Wednesday at 8 p. m. Each member is requested to bring a 25-cent gift. The refreshment committee will include Grace Felker, Miranda Ryan, Catherine Rennie, Myrtle Porter and Stella Robertson.

Dr. Steckel Lectures At College

Explains Piano Instruction Method

FROSTBURG—Dr. Edwin Steckel, music lecturer, spoke yesterday at Frostburg State Teachers College to a capacity audience.

His lecture, made up of anecdotes from personal experiences, was centered around a musical theme demonstrating the progressive method of piano instruction, which begins with learning to play a tune on the black keys.

The simplicity of learning to play was made clear by showing how interest and pleasure can be had from the beginning.

Dr. Steckel, at present associated with the Oglebay Institute, is interested in teaching older people how to find artistic and practical hobbies. In addition, he frequently lectures throughout the United States.

Midland Legion Unit Installs

MIDLAND—An installation of officers and naming of committees for the coming year featured a recent meeting of the auxiliary of Midland Post No. 169, American Legion. Mrs. Owen Rhodes, district vice president, installed the officers.

The following committees have been appointed: child welfare, Mrs. Anna Wilson and Mrs. Helen Bluebaugh; community service, Mrs. Tresa Sulser and Mrs. Ginnie Clise; rehabilitation, Mrs. Anna Stakem and Mrs. Catherine Stakem; publicity, Mrs. Anna Stakem.

Ways and Means, Mrs. Tresa Sulser and Mrs. Mary Shearer; Americanism, Mrs. Alice Brinegar and Mrs. Mary Knippenburg; Pan American and Cuba, Mrs. Rose Perkins.

Mrs. Rhodes reminded the members to take an active part in the auxiliary and strive for betterment of the community. The membership drive is now underway and a quota of 19 members is being sought. Members were asked to attend the Mountain District meeting at Grantsville November 4. Guests included Mrs. Mae Cowatch, Mrs. Josephine McBee and Mrs. Lenora Beckman, Westernport.

Mt. Savage Briefs

The Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians will meet tomorrow night at 7:30 in St. Patrick's Hall. Mrs. Anastatia McGann and Mrs. Sarah Carter will be hostesses.

The Teen-age Club will meet at 8 p. m. today in the Legion Home, Main Street.

The Mt. Savage Volunteer Fire Company will hold a social in the Fire Hall at 7:45 p. m. today for the benefit of the fire truck fund.

"Captain Applejack," Sam Harris' satirical comedy, will be remade with Red Skelton as the captain.

How well I remember when "Applejack" opened on Broadway in 1921. I was at the opening night, and I recall, Wallace Eddinger and Mary Nash were the stars. Then it was made in 1923 as a silent movie with Barbara La Marr, the girl a judge once called "too beautiful." The other players were Enid Bennett and Matt Moore.

I'm betting that the 1952 version with Red will be one of his best pictures. This is a natural for him.

Many lose weight on the new, high-protein diet with no loss in energy and nary a hunger pang! Investigate it!

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

The desire for a healthy, attractive longevity drives people to seek ever better and better ways of eating. But because eating is one of the world's greatest pleasures, they want to find a way of preserving their health and energy, keeping their figures young, trim and slim looking, and satisfying their taste cravings at the same time.

Perhaps that way has been found. At any rate, the new high-protein diet that is a combination of protein, starch and fats goes a long way toward the composite goal.

New Diet Theory

Before undertaking it, consult your physician. You may just happen to be one of those persons whose condition makes such a diet decidedly inadvisable. Furthermore, for weight loss and health maintenance, this diet must be scientifically compounded, and that is a doctor's job.

The effectiveness of the high-protein diet depends on the combination of foods served at any one meal. You may eat as large portions of meat as you wish. But . . . you must not trim off the fat! The fat actually helps you to reduce in this combination. Salt is on the restricted list. This naturally precludes most sauces and gravies. Yet, the variety of foods that you like within the permitted group keeps your hunger well controlled. The satiety value of this eating regimen is great. So is the energy production. You can carry on prodigious amounts of physical activity with no flagging of your vim and vigor. But, ask your doctor before trying it; and ask him for the correct proportions and combinations for you.

Here is a modified day's menu, based on the high protein pattern that is generally approved:

Mighty Good Eating

Breakfast: A 6 oz. glass of tomato juice; 2 soft boiled eggs with only a modicum of salt, coffee with no sugar.

Luncheon: Meat, fish or fowl; lettuce and tomato salad with no dressing, skim or buttermilk.

Dinner: Meat, fish, fowl or liver; spinach, brocolli, cabbage or leafy greens; any yellow vegetable; cottage cheese and lettuce; half a grapefruit; tea or coffee without sugar.

This food pattern will work to help you lose two pounds a week, if you are above your normal weight, if you combine foods as indicated, eating all the meat you wish along with its fat — but no more than one average helping of the other foods. Revolutionary as it sounds, it works!

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

May someone else in a dream "mean" you?

Answer: Yes. The central figure in a dream almost invariably stands for the dreamer, even though the dreamer also may appear as an "observer." If you dream of watching somebody commit a crime, for instance, the criminal probably embodies your own repressed lawless impulses, while a "conquering hero" pictures you in the role that you would like to play, if you could. Dreams are basically ways of making your unconscious wishes come true, and by putting someone else in your place in them, you can do at second hand what you literally "would not dream of doing" yourself, however much you might secretly want to.

Can tests detect "accident proneness"?

Answer: No, writes psychologist Frank J. Harris in Personnel Psychology. He relates how 25 industrial "accident repeaters" were compared with 25 otherwise matched persons who were "accident free." A number of personality tests were given to both groups and revealed no significant differences between them. This may mean — as Mr. Harris seems to think—that there is no such thing as "accident proneness," or may merely show that the tests used do not uncover the unconscious self-destructive impulses that make people repeatedly hurt themselves.

Is alcoholism hereditary?

Answer: Certainly not. The most that can be said is that certain people may inherit a "nervous system" which has less than average ability to withstand the effects of drinking. If a drunkard's son becomes an alcoholic, it is because he either consciously imitates his father or unconsciously identifies himself with him, not because of anything that he inherits from him. Some of the strictest abstainers are children of alcoholic parents. "Like father, like son" most often applies where the father impresses the son as a lovable or enviable figure, even though he is taught not to approve of him.

Sounds above and below the range of human beings can be detected by dogs.

What May Be New Source Of Food Developed With Aid Of Sun Power

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—The first "large scale" production of what may be a new source of food, developed with the help of sun power, was announced today by the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

What the food might taste like, or just how it could be used—the basis is a tiny green fresh-water plant—are questions for the future.

The work is now in the "pilot plant" stage, and the institution said the next step would be to determine whether the process is feasible for full-scale commercial production.

If it should prove so, the Carnegie announcement said, the substance involved and others like it "might represent an increase in the world's food supply or a source of industrial raw materials."

Carnegie officials told a reporter that if the process works out, the first possibility would be food for animals, but it might also have possibilities for supplementing the human diet, especially in countries where people don't eat so well now.

The material under study is the one-celled green alga plant, "chlorella," one of a family of plants which, in nature, occur either as seaweeds or as various miscroscopic forms of fresh-water plants. Chlorella is a fresh-water form.

In the Carnegie studies, samples of the natural plants are caused to grow artificially in plastic tubes and troughs which are exposed to the action of the sun.

Many lose weight on the new, high-protein diet with no loss in energy and nary a hunger pang! Investigate it!

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

The desire for a healthy, attractive longevity drives people to seek ever better and better ways of eating. But because eating is one of the world's greatest pleasures, they want to find a way of preserving their health and energy, keeping their figures young, trim and slim looking, and satisfying their taste cravings at the same time.

Perhaps that way has been found. At any rate, the new high-protein diet that is a combination of protein, starch and fats goes a long way toward the composite goal.

New Diet Theory

Before undertaking it, consult your physician. You may just happen to be one of those persons whose condition makes such a diet decidedly inadvisable. Furthermore, for weight loss and health maintenance, this diet must be scientifically compounded, and that is a doctor's job.

The effectiveness of the high-protein diet depends on the combination of foods served at any one meal. You may eat as large portions of meat as you wish. But . . . you must not trim off the fat! The fat actually helps you to reduce in this combination. Salt is on the restricted list. This naturally precludes most sauces and gravies. Yet, the variety of foods that you like within the permitted group keeps your hunger well controlled. The satiety value of this eating regimen is great. So is the energy production. You can carry on prodigious amounts of physical activity with no flagging of your vim and vigor. But, ask your doctor before trying it; and ask him for the correct proportions and combinations for you.

Here is a modified day's menu, based on the high protein pattern that is generally approved:

Mighty Good Eating

Breakfast: A 6 oz. glass of tomato juice; 2 soft boiled eggs with only a modicum of salt, coffee with no sugar.

Luncheon: Meat, fish or fowl; lettuce and tomato salad with no dressing, skim or buttermilk.

Dinner: Meat, fish, fowl or liver; spinach, brocolli, cabbage or leafy greens; any yellow vegetable; cottage cheese and lettuce; half a grapefruit; tea or coffee without sugar.

This food pattern will work to help you lose two pounds a week, if you are above your normal weight, if you combine foods as indicated, eating all the meat you wish along with its fat — but no more than one average helping of the other foods. Revolutionary as it sounds, it works!

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

May someone else in a dream "mean" you?

Answer: Yes. The central figure in a dream almost invariably stands for the dreamer, even though the dreamer also may appear as an "observer." If you dream of watching somebody commit a crime, for instance, the criminal probably embodies your own repressed lawless impulses, while a "conquering hero" pictures you in the role that you would like to play, if you could. Dreams are basically ways of making your unconscious wishes come true, and by putting someone else in your place in them, you can do at second hand what you literally "would not dream of doing" yourself, however much you might secretly want to.

Can tests detect "accident proneness"?

Answer: No, writes psychologist Frank J. Harris in Personnel Psychology. He relates how 25 industrial "accident repeaters" were compared with 25 otherwise matched persons who were "accident free." A number of personality tests were given to both groups and revealed no significant differences between them. This may mean — as Mr. Harris seems to think—that there is no such thing as "accident proneness," or may merely show that the tests used do not uncover the unconscious self-destructive impulses that make people repeatedly hurt themselves.

Is alcoholism hereditary?

Answer: Certainly not. The most that can be said is that certain people may inherit a "nervous system" which has less than average ability to withstand the effects of drinking. If a drunkard's son becomes an alcoholic, it is because he either consciously imitates his father or unconsciously identifies himself with him, not because of anything that he inherits from him. Some of the strictest abstainers are children of alcoholic parents. "Like father, like son" most often applies where the father impresses the son as a lovable or enviable figure, even though he is taught not to approve of him.

Sounds above and below the range of human beings can be detected by dogs.

What May Be New Source Of Food Developed With Aid Of Sun Power

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—The first "large scale" production of what may be a new source of food, developed with the help of sun power, was announced today by the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

What the food might taste like, or just how it could be used—the basis is a tiny green fresh-water plant—are questions for the future.

The work is now in the "pilot plant" stage, and the institution said the next step would be to determine whether the process is feasible for full-scale commercial production.

If it should prove so, the Carnegie announcement said, the substance involved and others like it "might represent an increase in the world's food supply or a source of industrial raw materials."

Carnegie officials told a reporter that if the process works out, the first possibility would be food for animals, but it might also have possibilities for supplementing the human diet, especially in countries where people don't eat so well now.

The material under study is the one-celled green alga plant, "chlorella," one of a family of plants which, in nature, occur either as seaweeds or as various miscroscopic forms of fresh-water plants. Chlorella is a fresh-water form.

In the Carnegie studies, samples of the natural plants are caused to grow artificially in plastic tubes and troughs which are exposed to the action of the sun.

Accident Nears Title • • — • Race Track Nicknames

By C. V. BURNS

When LaSalle plays the West Virginia School for the Deaf on Friday (2:30) at Romney it will mark the first meeting of the Explorers and Silents on the gridiron in ten years.

The schools last met in 1941, concluding a series that lasted six consecutive years.

LaSalle has been returned the victor in five of the six games. The Explorers' only loss (18-6) came in 1938, the only season in which the North Centre Street school failed to win a game.

LaSalle won by scores of 25-6, 7-2, 27-12, 13-0 and 26-0 in the contests played in 1936, 1937, 1939, 1940 and 1941.

• — • — •

Johnstown Catholic High School ran roughshod over St. Wendelin's of Pittsburgh on Friday, 51-0. LaSalle's lone victory of the season was over St. Wendelin's, 13-6.

Altoona Catholic High, scheduled to play LaSalle, November 16 in Altoona, took a 31-6 pasting at the hands of Hollidaysburg last week.

• — • — •

Bedford High is batting .667 to date, having won four and lost two. The Bisons dropped a 13-7 decision to Huntingdon last week.

• — • — •

Allegany High School was well scouted Saturday night when it bumped off Keyser at the stadium.

Coach Frank Wimer and his three assistants blew in from Elkins and Coach Reno Continetti with his four full-time aides were on hand from Montgomery Blair High School, Silver Spring, to give Bob Pence's Campers the "once over."

Montgomery Blair High has a larger student body than either Allegany or Fort Hill. The Silver Spring eleven plays the Campers here Friday night at 8.

• — • — •

Elkins High School, one of the super duper teams in the Class "A" race in West Virginia, has knocked off six opponents since the season got under way.

The Tigers, who have a date with Allegany here Saturday, November 10, have whipped Belington Victory (Clarksburg), Buckhannon, Morgantown, Roosevelt-Wilson (Clarksburg) and Fairmont East, piling up 132 points to the opposition's 60.

Before beating Fairmont East last week, 27-20, the Wimermen held fourth place in the state ratings.

• — • — •

Dorsey Sherman, quarterback of the Randolph countians, is being boomed for the West Virginia All-State team. In last Friday's game against Fairmont, Sherman scored all 27 points.

Here's how he did it:

Took a punt and ran 65 yards to the goal line in the first quarter. Place-kicked the extra point.

Went 45 yards for a touchdown and place-kicked the point to break a 7-7 tie in the second period.

Before the half ended he carried to the pay line from the East Side 30 and again converted on a place-kick.

In the third frame he ran from the Fairmont 15 for a td but the extra point try was futile.

Allegany remembers the name Sherman. Last year, the Elkins back intercepted an AHS pass and won the game by the score of 12-6.

• — • — •

With five consecutive victories over West Virginia schools, Johnny Paugh's Moorefield High Yellowjackets are rated high in the Class "B" grid race in West Virginia.

The Hardy countians have taken the measure of Greenbank, Thomas, Petersburg, Romney and Ridgeley.

Romney copped state Class "B" honors in 1949.

• — • — •

Ridgeley High never has beaten Fort Hill in football and should be a pushover on Saturday night.

Fort Hill has won eight of the nine games. The 1946 contest, played in the rain, was a scoreless tie.

The Hawks have failed to score in six of the nine games.

LaSalle is in the same boat as Ridgeley. The Explorers have lost 18 and played a tie with Fort Hill.

• — • — •

Beall High will be striving for its first win over Romney when the teams tangle Saturday in Frostburg.

The series started in 1946 and Romney won by scores of 21-0, 44-6, 12-0 and 33-7.

There was no game in 1950.

The University of Maryland calls it the "Fort Hill Trio" but it isn't a musical organization.

The league leaders are undefeated in six starts.

Nicknames are so commonplace around the race track that close friends frequently fail to know each other by their real moniker, writes Snowden Carter, Baltimore Sun turf expert.

Three race track men well known to fans at Fairgo, Cumberland's half miler, are among those listed by Carter, namely Lando (Sixty) Bressan, Arthur (Steeples) Richardson and Wilson (Willie Postal) Ford.

Bressan, who is Racing Secretary Cowill's right hand man at Fairgo, says he acquired his nickname when he first came to the tracks in 1935.

"I was," he explains, "wearing a football jersey with No. 60 on the back of it. Nobody knew my name, so they just hollered, 'Hey, you, 60!'"

Richardson, a Negro handyman employed in the racing secretary's office, says:

"I always been 'Steeples' since I was 10 or 12 years old.

"I don't know rightly how I got the name, unless it's my head."

He took off his cap, exposed a cranium which rose sharply to a point, not unlike a steeple.

Ford, who makes the chart at Fairgo for the Racing Form and this paper, tells how he got his nickname.

"I was a messenger boy in the press box for Postal Telegraph and the Western Union messenger was Willie, too. So, to tell us apart, the reporters used the telegraph companies as a sort of last name."

Sentinel Jayvees Win 15th In Row, Top Romney 12-6

Bechtol Intercepts Pass For Winning TD

Neil Bechtol's 60-yard runback on an intercepted pass for a touchdown late in the third quarter gave Coach Ray Hull's Fort Hill High Jayvees a thrilling 12-6 victory over Romney High's Jayvees yesterday at Romney, W. Va.

Moments earlier Bechtol had intercepted a pass thrown by Hartman, Romney quarterback, and raced 55 yards for an apparent tie-breaking score but the play was called back on a penalty.

The victory was the fifth straight this year for the Hullmen and marked the 15th win in succession by the Little Sentinels over a two year period.

Romney scored first in the tight battle when Hartmen hit R. Parker on the 10-yard line with a pass from the 25 and Parker carried it over. The Little Sentinels came back to knot the count moments later on a pass from Charles Widdows to Richard Bittner in the end zone. The play covered 20 yards.

Fort Hill racked up six first downs to Romney's four and completed three of seven passes to the Little Pioneers' four of 16. Two of Romney's tosses were captured by Fort Hill interceptors.

Parker, Hartman and Largent were outstanding for the losers while the defensive play of the Fort Hill line stood out.

Fort Hill will play host to unbeaten Allegany Jayvees Monday at 3:30 p. m. The lineups:

| Pos. | FORT HILL (12) | ROMNEY (6) |
|---|---|---|
| LE | Bittner | Coleman |
| LT | Murphy | Keister |
| LG | Appel | Largent |
| C | Bechtol | Lyons |

Score by periods:

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| FORT HILL | 0 | 6 | 6 | 0 | 12 |
| ROMNEY | 0 | 6 | 0 | 0 | 6 |

Touchdowns—R. Parker, Bittner, Bechtol.

Substitutes—FORT HILL—R. Poling, Weber, Lynn, Williams. ROMNEY—Landes, R. Parker, Wolfe, Snyder, Lynch.

33 Candidates Report For First Practice

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 15 (AP) —Thirty-three candidates turned out today for the first practice of Maryland's basketball team.

Coach Bud Millikan has seven lettermen back, including all of last season's starting lineup.

The squad elected as Co-captains Dick Koffenberger of Wilmington, Del., and Lee Brawley of Duncan, Ariz. Brawley, last year's captain, set an all-time Maryland scoring record last year with 404 points.

The card calls for nine home games out of the 21 scheduled.

The schedule:

Dec. 3—Virginia, away; Dec. 5—Washington and Lee; home; Dec. 8, Pennsylvania, away; Dec. 12—William and Mary, home; Dec. 15—West Virginia, away; Dec. 18—VMI, away; Dec. 19—Washington and Lee, away.

Jan. 3—North Carolina, away; Jan. 5—Navy, away; Jan. 7—Virginia, home; Jan. 10—Georgetown, home; Jan. 12—Rutgers, away; Jan. 18—North Carolina, home;

March 1—Davidson, home.

Ward Suffers Broken Hand In Georgia Tilt

COLLEGE PARK, Oct. 15 (AP) — X-rays disclosed today that Bob Ward, All-America guard last year, broke a bone in his hand during the Maryland-Georgia game Saturday night.

Ward hurt his left hand after about 10 minutes of the game but refused to come out. He was called by both sides the most spectacular lineman on the field.

The hand wasn't any better today, so Coach Jim Tatum called for the X-rays. The prints showed a fracture of the second metatarsal of the index finger.

Trainer Duke Wyre said a specially designed brace is being made which will permit Ward to play without hindrance next Saturday against North Carolina

Cumberland Wins Special .30-Cal. Rifle Team Shoot

GRAND SLAMMER — S. Lua Sykes has scored a "grand slam" in tennis for the 1951 season by winning the Dingle, city and county championships. By defeating Bill Day in the finals of the county tourney on Saturday, Sykes won the first leg on the three-year county tennis trophy offered by the S. T. Little Jewelry Company. Those who have won and retired trophies in recent years were Lawrence Middlekamp, Charles Jones and Russell Ponton. Sykes is teacher of instrumental music and director of the band at Allegany High School.

AHS Jayvees Rally, Defeat LaSalle, 12-7

Rank To Reiber Pass Decides Close Game

Allegany High School's junior varsity griders staged a garrison finish to defeat an inspired LaSalle Jayvee eleven yesterday at Campobello by the score of 12-7.

Trailing 7-0 going into the fourth quarter, the Little Campers scored twice to overcome the opposition.

Dick Rank ran around his own right end thirty-five yards for the Campers' first touchdown. The plunge for the extra point was short.

After holding LaSalle for downs, James Hoffman returned Bobby Christ's punt back to the 20 yard line. Two plays later, Rank passed to Bob Reiber in the end zone for the winning touchdown. Rank's kick was wide.

LaSalle scored on a 45-yard touchdown run by Bob Christ in the opening period. A pass, Shuck to Williams, was good for the point.

Christ, Crowe, Lennox and Shuck were outstanding for the Little Explorers while Rank, Reiber, Wartzack and Reynolds were the best for AHS.

Allegany led in first downs, 16-10 and completed three of six passes. LaSalle failed to connect on six aerials and had one pass intercepted.

| Pos. | Allegany (12) | LaSalle (7) |
|---|---|---|
| LE | Lowery | Williams |
| LT | Goldman | Harris |
| LG | Sisk | Crowe |

Graduates Head Choices For Top Football Jobs

Colleges Turn To Alumni For Mentors

ATLANTA, Oct. 15 (AP)—Before World War II when a college needed a head football coach—as they often did — the college usually checked over the supply of graduates from Notre Dame, Yale, Chicago or Alabama.

Today, when a college needs a coach—as they often do—the college gets out its own alumni list and takes a look.

Usually they find what they want —a homegrown boy with something on the ball.

Of 526 major and minor colleges checked, 121 have one of their own graduates running the football department.

Alumni Now Coaching

This return of the native is almost pronounced at major colleges as it is in smaller schools which play the great bulk of football on fall Saturdays.

Fifty-one large schools out of 250 checked have alumni as head coaches. Among 276 small schools there are 70 men who played and now coach at the same school.

Three large schools—Texas, Auburn and Duke—hired graduates this year: Ed Price at Texas, Ralph Jordan at Auburn and Bill Murray at Duke. Other fairly recent examples of such homecomings are Bill Voights at Northwestern, Mike Holovak at Boston College, Benny Oosterbaan at Michigan and Gus Tinsley at L.S.U.

When Minnesota needed a fill in after Bernie Bierman took his leave first choice was graduate Bud Wilkinson, Oklahoma's greatest coach. Only when Wilkinson said "no" did Minnesota begin an extensive search elsewhere.

The spreading out of football and the return of former players to home colleges have thoroughly broken the monopoly of a handful of colleges supplying practically all head coaches.

Michigan, Notre Dame Lead

Two hundred and 79 schools supplied head coaches for the 526 colleges checked.

Michigan and Notre Dame led the check with 15 head coaches each. During the late 1930's about 50 followers of the late Knute Rockne were spread about the nation preaching the football gospel of Notre Dame.

Minnesota was third with 14. Other schools well represented among head coaches are: Illinois 13; Pittsburgh 12; Tennessee 10; North Carolina and Alabama, eight each; Iowa seven; Northwestern, Ohio State and Missouri, six each, and five each from Southern Cal., Pennsylvania, Vanderbilt, T. C. U. and Stanford.

Three Jockeys Get Prison Terms For Giving Teen-Agers Narcotics

Seven Men Sentenced By Baltimore Judge

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP)—Three jockeys and two exercise riders were among seven men sentenced to prison terms today on charges growing out of parties at which teen-age girls were given narcotics.

Criminal Judge Joseph Sherbow said the circumstances of one case involving a 17-year-old schoolgirl were "too sordid to be repeated."

Charles Richardson, 28-year-old negro exercise rider at race tracks, drew the stiffest term of 10 years in the penitentiary. He could have been sentenced to twice that long for supplying dope to minors under a 1951 Maryland law.

Three-year terms were given Robert Williams, 22-year-old former exercise rider, James McDermott, 20-year-old Glen Cove, N. Y., jockey, and Frank Novella, 21, Lawrence, Mass., jockey.

Thomas Kane, 20, another jockey from Baltimore was sentenced to two years and Wilford Dion, 18-year-old exercise boy, and Albert Rice, 19, to 18 months.

The seven were arrested after police investigated reports of parties around the Pimlico race track section last spring. Five girls were involved, two of them 15 years old.

"These cases," said Judge Sherbow, "must serve as a warning to peddlers, who must know that no matter how much money is involved in this racket, it will never be able to pay for the long years they must spend in prison."

Kane rode at Fairgo in June 1950 and July 1951. Coming here from Ohio last year, the Baltimore lad had 19 mounts at the local half mile oval, booting home two winners, four seconds and three thirds. This year, Kane's record at the Cumberland track was 3-1-3 in 16 mounts.

Griffith Wants Baseball Reserve Clause Retained

Al Widmar Suggests Players' Guild For Salary Disputes

BY ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP) — Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, told congress today he once violated baseball's controversial reserve clause—and thereby helped found the American League.

But, Griffith said, he favors hanging the penalty on any player who does today what he did in 1901.

The penalty now: the player would be barred from the league for five years.

Griffith expressed his views to a house judiciary subcommittee which is trying to find out whether baseball violates the anti-trust laws.

It has been particularly interested in the reserve clause. This, in effect, binds the player to stay with the team with which he first signs.

Today's hearing wandered all over the outfield, from the woes of playing in the minors to the troubles of an umpire.

But Griffith's story seemed to interest the committee the most.

Griffith was a star pitcher for the National League before he jumped to the new American League in 1901. He said he feels his move was justified, because, he said, baseball was dying for want of competition.

But the 82-year-old, and still vigorous, owner of the Washington Senators, supported the reserve clause wholeheartedly, in spite of the way he flouted it 50 years ago.

"We can't have players jumping from one league to another," he said. "It would destroy baseball."

Other developments today:

1. The subcommtitee disclosed it had in its possession a mysterious secret document purportedly written in 1946 by Larry MacPhail, then an owner of the New York Yankees.

All but two copies of this document were destroyed. Not only that. But the document was watered down, and some of the rough spots were cut out. Every copy of this milder version apparently has been destroyed, too.

In general, the MacPhail document is critical of the baseball set-up and urges changes in its structure.

2. Al Widmar, a St. Louis Browns pitcher and one time holdout, suggested that players should be given the right to set up a guild to handle salary disputes.

3. Ernie Stewart, a onetime American League umpire, said he lost his job when caught in a crossfire between former high commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler and the league president, Will Harridge.

Stewart, now a Los Angeles hardware merchant, testified he was discharged by Harridge in 1945 after he undertook to sound out fellow umpires on their salaries and working conditions, at the direction of Chandler.

"I simply don't want him on the American League staff," he quoted Harridge as saying at a hearing at which he was not permitted to testify.

Rep. Hillings (R-Calif), who has been arguing for major league ball on the west coast, got a firm "no" out of Griffith.

Hillings thought maybe a couple of west coast clubs could come into the majors.

No, Griffith said, that would wreck the Pacific Coast League, and pile up all sorts of travel complications.

Why not use airplanes? asked Hillings.

No, said Griffith, "I can't put all my eggs in one basket."

How about making the coast league a major league?

No, Griffith said, too many cities in the league are too small for major league ball.

Yanks Buy Three Minor Leaguers

Obtain First Sacker, Pitchers From Farms

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—The New York Yankees today purchased the contracts of a first baseman and two pitchers from their farm club affiliates in Kansas City and Beaumont, Tex.

They are Don Bollweg, a left-handed hitter and thrower who batted .303 for Kansas City during the season, and pitchers Harry Shaeffer and Tom Gorman, both with Beaumont this year.

Shaeffer's contract was purchased from Kansas City, since he had been on option from that club to Beaumont where he won 19 and lost 9 games. A southpaw, Shaeffer was a workhorse of the Texas League, pitching 261 innings and striking out 122 batters. His home is Shillington, Pa.

Bollweg, from Wheaton, Ill., played in 122 games, had 129 hits, belted 20 home runs, scored 109 runs and batted in 69 runs. He was in the deal that sent third baseman Bill Johnson to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Gorman, in the Yankee farm system since 1946, is from Valley Stream, N. Y. He set a Texas League record by pitching 42 consecutive scoreless innings this year, winning 12 and losing eight games.

Bob Baker Wins

RICHARD BEARD

Beard Is Named Player Of Week For Second Time

Fort Hill Back Star In LaSalle Contest

Richard Beard, hard-running left halfback of the Fort Hill Sentinels, captured the Knights of Columbus Player of the Week award for the second time this season with an outstanding display of running and kicking in Friday night's first intra-city contest with LaSalle.

Beard thus joins former teammate Lynn Beightol and Allegany's Earl "Lefty" Bruce as the only athletes to cop the award more than once during a single season. Bruce won the prize twice in 1948 and then was named Player of the Year while Beightol copped the award once in 1949 and three times in 1950. He was named Player of the Year in both 1949 and 1950. Beard also won last year.

The Fort Hill scatback, this year's leading scorer in the city, sparked with fine running and defensive work and kicked four extra points while scoring two touchdowns in Fort Hill's 40-0 victory over the Explorers.

Also considered in the Sentinel's easy win were Bill Lee, stellar guard, Gene Alderton, center, and Donald Stine, fullback. Outstanding candidates for LaSalle were Earl McKenzie, halfback and Jimmy O'Rourke, tackle.

The K of C committee also selected Ronnie Sisk, Dick Widdows and John Eversole of Allegany for consideration in the Campers' 37-18 verdict over Keyser Saturday.

Beard's selection as the top player is the sixth of the season. Others named for the award are Joe Hager, Allegany, Bobby Arnone and Ray Brown, LaSalle, and Leonard White, Fort Hill.

Marion Through As Active Player

To Discuss Manager Contract With Saigh

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 15 (AP) — In a blanket announcement, the St. Louis Cardinals today revealed deals involving 15 players, with four promising youngsters scheduled to move from minor league orgnaizations to the parent club.

Eight of the players will leave the Cardinals for the minors while Catcher Bob Scheffing and Manager Marty Marion have been handed unconditional releases. Marion's release concerns only his capacity as a player.

Owner Fred Saigh expects to discuss Marion's managerial position when the one-time Cardinal shortstop returns from a hunting trip later this month. Marion was listed as a player in the 1951 season, but didn't enter the lineup.

The four newcomers to the Cards are Pitcher Octavio Rubert from Houston of the Texas League, Second Baseman Earl Weaver from Omaha of the Western League, Outfielder Vincent Moreci from Columbus, Ga., of the South Atlantic League and Pitcher Ralph Beard from Allentown of the Inter-State League.

In exchange, Rochester of the International League will receive Pitchers Fred Martin, Danny Lewandowski and Jack Crimian, and Outfielders Harry Walker and Eldon (Rip) Repulski. Houston gets First Baseman Vernal (Nippy) Jones and Ed Mickelson, and Omaha receives First Baseman Harvey Zernia.

Walker will take over as manager of the Rochester Club, replacing Johnny Keane, who like Scheffing will remain in the Cardinal organization in another position.

Cartier Scores KO

BOSTON, Oct. 15—(INS)—Middleweight contender Walter Cartier of New York tonight knocked out Joe Rindone of Roxbury in just 48 seconds of the first round of a scheduled 10-rounder at Boston Garden.

Cartier's first blow, a left hook, floored the ex-Marine, who bounced up, but was forced to take a nine-count by the referee. Cartier then moved in with a barrage that finished off the Roxbury veteran who had to be carried to his corner.

Terps Advance From Tenth To Seventh Place

Tennessee Is 2nd While Spartans Skid Into Third Place

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—The University of California Golden Bears were voted the No. 1 college football team today in the third weekly nation-wide poll of the Associated Press. Michigan State, the top team for the first two weeks, skidded to third place, as Tennessee moved into the No. 2 spot.

Coach Pappy Waldorf's Bears, winner of four straight games after defeating Washington State last week, 42-35, received 50 first place votes out of a total of 138 ballots sent in by sports writers and sportscasters.

Michigan State, hard-pressed to defeat Marquette Saturday, 20-14, got only 16 first place votes, and a total of 935 points.

Tennessee, which picked on undermanned Chattanooga to the tune of 42-13 last week, received 26 first place votes and 977 points. In a pre-season poll, Tennessee had been tabbed as the probable No. 1 team of the land.

Otherwise, there was considerable scrambling of positions, with two newcomers moving into the select top teams—Princeton and Baylor, nine and ten, respectively.

Irish Take Plunge

They replaced Notre Dame, fifth a week ago, and Ohio State, which was No. 9. Notre Dame dropped out after suffering a 27-20 defeat at the hands of Southern Methodist Saturday. Ohio State, beaten a week ago by Michigan State, and tied by Wisconsin last Saturday, 6-6, fell to No. 17.

Others in the top ten this week:

Texas, No. 4; Georgia Tech, No. 5; Texas A & M, No. 6; Maryland, No. 7; and Illinois, No. 8.

Texas, a 9 to 7 winner over Oklahoma, moved up from sixth place a week ago, while Texas A & M dropped from fourth to sixth. Texas A & M had a breather Saturday, drubbing Trinity (Tex), 52-14.

The Georgia Tech Yellowjackets, a surprise package in the Southeastern Conference, bounced from eighth place to fifth after bumping Louisiana State, 25-7.

Maryland Is 7th

Another Dixie outfit, the Maryland Terrapins who are favored to win the Southern Conference title, moved up from tenth to seventh place. Maryland overpowered Georgia, 43-7.

Illinois, leading in the Big Ten Conference race, defeated Syracuse Saturday, 41-20, but skidded from seventh to eighth place.

Princeton rolled on undefeated, for its 16th straight game, stopping Pennsylvania, 13-7, to move up from a No. 13 rating a week ago. Baylor, the No. 12 team last week, got into the top 10 by squeezing past Arkansas, 9-7.

The first ten with first place votes in parenthesis:

| Team | Points |
|---|---|
| 1. California (50) | 1,129 |
| 2. Tennessee (26) | 977 |
| 3. Michigan State (16) | 935 |
| 4. Texas (6) | 719 |
| 5. Georgia Tech (12) | 689 |
| 6. Texas A & M (8) | 652 |
| 7. Maryland (14) | 634 |
| 8. Illinois (3) | 584 |
| 9. Princeton (1) | 221 |
| 10. Baylor | 148 |

SECOND TEN

|---|---|
| 11. Sou. California | 125 |
| 12. Villanova | 98 |
| 13. Stanford | 97 |
| 14. Cornell | 76 |
| 15. Sou. Methodist | 67 |
| 16. College Of The Pacific (1) | 65 |
| 17. Ohio State | 55 |
| 18. Northwestern | 28 |
| 19. Oklahoma | 26 |
| 20. Washington | 25 |

Others: Notre Dame 24, Wisconsin 20, Cincinnati 18, Auburn (1) 11, Tulane, Kentucky, San Francisco, Colorado, and Michigan 5 each, Columbia, Marquette 4 each, Oregon State 2, Penn State, Kansas, South Dakota State, Washington & Lee, 1 each.

Badminton Club Meets Tonight

Membership Limited To Fifty Persons

The twelfth annual meeting of the Cumberland Badminton Club will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the reception room at the Cumberland Brewing Company, North Centre Street.

This annual get-together meeting is open to former club members and their friends interested in joining this year.

Because of the small number of courts available the club's membership has always been limited to fifty members.

Badminton players in this section wishing to join the club this year should attend the meeting tonight or contact one of the following officers:

Walter S. Eyler, president; Bert A. Mason, vice-president; Mrs. Richard W. Travaskis, secretary; Norman E. Sell, treasurer.

Ortmann Reported Resting "Pretty Good"

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 15 (AP) — Steeler back Chuck Ortmann was reported "resting pretty good" today at a hospital where he is being treated for a concussion.

Ortmann was kicked in the head yesterday after racing 62 yards with an intercepted pass against the San Francisco Forty Niners.

NED SHOWS THEM HOW—Ned Garver, 20-game winner of the St. Louis Browns in the American League, takes time out during the "Ned Garver Day" celebration at Defiance, Ohio, to show Little League pitchers how he does it. Looking on as the youthful Brownie hurler explains his tricks are Charles Shock, Phil Schaufele, Eddie Osborn, Dick Ryan and Gail Wolfrum.

SPORT SLANTS

First Game Since 1941

Sherman Is The Name

Accident Nears Title

Race Track Nicknames

By C. V. BURNS

When LaSalle plays the West Virginia School for the Deaf on Friday (2:30) at Romney it will mark the first meeting of the Explorers and Silents on the gridiron in ten years.

The schools last met in 1941, concluding a series that lasted six consecutive years.

LaSalle has been returned the victor in five of the six games. The Explorers' only loss (18-6) came in 1938, the only season in which the North Centre Street school failed to win a game.

LaSalle won by scores of 25-6, 7-2, 27-12, 13-0 and 26-0 in the contests played in 1936, 1937, 1939, 1940 and 1941.

Johnstown Catholic High School ran roughshod over St. Wendelin's of Pittsburgh on Friday, 51-0. LaSalle's lone victory of the season was over St. Wendelin's, 13-6.

Altoona Catholic High, scheduled to play LaSalle, November 16 in Altoona, took a 31-6 pasting at the hands of Hollidaysburg last week.

●—●—●

Bedford High is batting .667 to date, having won four and lost two. The Bisons dropped a 13-7 decision to Huntingdon last week.

●—●—●

Allegany High School was well scouted Saturday night when it bumped off Keyser at the stadium.

Coach Frank Wimer and his three assistants blew in from Elkins and Coach Reno Continetti with his four full-time aides were on hand from Montgomery Blair High School, Silver Spring, to give Bob Pence's Campers the "once over."

Montgomery Blair High has a larger student body than either Allegany or Fort Hill. The Silver Spring eleven plays the Campers here Friday night at 8.

Elkins High School, one of the super duper teams in the Class "A" race in West Virginia, has knocked off six opponents since the season got under way.

The Tigers, who have a date with Allegany here Saturday, November 10, have whipped Belington Victory (Clarksburg), Buckhannon, Morgantown, Roosevelt-Wilson (Clarksburg) and Fairmont East, piling up 132 points to the opposition's 60.

Before beating Fairmont East last week, 27-20, the Wimermen held fourth place in the state ratings.

Dorsey Sherman, quarterback of the Randolph countians, is being boomed for the West Virginia All-State team. In last Friday's game against Fairmont, Sherman scored all 27 points.

Here's how he did it:

Took a punt and ran 65 yards to the goal line in the first quarter. Place-kicked the extra point.

Went 45 yards for a touchdown and place-kicked the point to break a 7-7 tie in the second period.

Before the half ended he carried to the pay line from the East Side 30 and again converted on a place-kick.

In the third frame he ran from the Fairmont 15 for a td but the extra point try was futile.

Allegany remembers the name Sherman. Last year, the Elkins back intercepted an AHS pass and won the game by the score of 12-6.

With five consecutive victories over West Virginia schools, Johnny Paugh's Moorefield High Yellowjackets are rated high in the Class "B" grid race in West Virginia.

The Hardy countians have taken the measure of Greenbank, Thomas, Petersburg, Romney and Ridgeley.

Romney copped state Class "B" honors in 1949.

Ridgeley High never has beaten Fort Hill in football and should be a pushover on Saturday night.

Fort Hill has won eight of the nine games. The 1946 contest, played in the rain, was a scoreless tie.

The Hawks have failed to score in six of the nine games.

LaSalle is in the same boat as Ridgeley. The Explorers have lost 18 and played a tie with Fort Hill.

Beall High will be striving for its first win over Romney when the teams tangle Saturday in Frostburg.

The series started in 1946 and Romney won by scores of 21-0, 44-6, 12-0 and 33-7.

There was no game in 1950.

The University of Maryland calls it the "Fort Hill Trio" but it isn't a musical organization.

It's the Terps' point-after-touchdown team, all products of Fort Hill High.

Center Charley Lattimer snaps the ball, Quarterback Lynn Beightol holds and Guard Don Decker does the kicking.

Accident High School can sew up its 4th successive championship in the Garrett County Soccer League if it defeats or ties Oakland High School one week from today at Accident.

The league leaders are undefeated in six starts.

Charley Strauss, the well known baseball player, is at the helm for the 5th season.

Nicknames are so commonplace around the race track that close friends frequently fail to know each other by their real moniker, writes Snowden Carter, Baltimore Sun turf expert.

Three race track men well known to fans at Fairgo, Cumberland's half miler, are among those listed by Carter, namely Lando (Sixty) Bressan, Arthur (Steeples) Richardson and Wilson (Willie Postal) Ford.

Bressan, who is Racing Secretary Cowill's right hand man at Fairgo, says he acquired his nickname when he first came to the tracks in 1935.

"I was," he explains, "wearing a football jersey with No. 60 on the back of it. Nobody knew my name, so they just hollered, 'Hey, you, 60!'"

Richardson, a Negro handyman employed in the racing secretary's office, says:

"I always been 'Steeples' since I was 10 or 12 years old.

"I don't know rightly how I got the name, unless it's my head."

He took off his cap, exposed a cranium which rose sharply to a point, not unlike a steeple.

Ford, who makes the chart at Fairgo for the Racing Form and this paper, tells how he got his nickname.

"I was a messenger boy in the press box for Postal Telegraph and the Western Union messenger was Willie, too. So, to tell us apart, the reporters used the telegraph companies as a sort of last name."

12 Shuffleboard Teams In Action On Thursday

Twelve of the 14 teams in the Men's County Shuffleboard League will swing into action on Thursday night.

The schedule for the second week of the season is as follows:

Mt. Savage VFW at Viaduct Inn, Fisher and Robinette at Purple Heart, Frostburg American Legion at Frostburg K. of C., Cumberland V. F. W. at Frostburg Century Club, Goodfellowship Club at Cumberland K. of C. and the Cumberland Amvets at Stadium Inn, Frostburg.

The Alhambra Club will visit the Woodmen of the World Friday night.

Jockeys Suspended

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 15 (AP) — Jockeys Ira Hanford and Emileo Carrillo today were ordered suspended for 10 days for careless riding on last Saturday's program at Laurel Race Track. The suspensions become effective tomorrow.

Sentinel Jayvees Win 15th In Row, Top Romney 12-6

Bechtol Intercepts Pass For Winning TD

Neil Bechtol's 60-yard runback on an intercepted pass for a touchdown late in the third quarter gave Coach Ray Hull's Fort Hill High Jayvees a thrilling 12-6 victory over Romney High's Jayvees yesterday at Romney, W. Va.

Moments earlier Bechtol had intercepted a pass thrown by Hartman, Romney quarterback, and raced 55 yards for an apparent tie-breaking score but the play was called back on a penalty.

The victory was the fifth straight this year for the Hullmen and marked the 15th win in succession by the Little Sentinels over a two year period.

Romney scored first in the tight battle when Hartmen hit R. Parker on the 10-yard line with a pass from the 25 and Parker carried it over. The Little Sentinels came back to knot the count moments later on a pass from Charles Widdows to Richard Bittner in the end zone. The play covered 20 yards.

Fort Hill racked up six first downs to Romney's four and completed three of seven passes to the Little Pioneers' four of 16. Two of Romney's tosses were captured by Fort Hill interceptors.

Parker, Hartman and Largent were outstanding for the losers while the defensive play of the Fort Hill line stood out.

Fort Hill will play host to unbeaten Allegany Jayvees Monday at 3:30 p. m. The lineups:

| Pos. | FORT HILL (12) | ROMNEY (6) |
|---|---|---|
| LE | Bittner | Coleman |
| LT | Murphy | Keister |
| LG | Appel | Largent |
| C | Bechtol | Lyons |

Score by periods:

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| FORT HILL | 0 | 6 | 6 | 0 | —12 |
| ROMNEY | 0 | 6 | 0 | 0 | — 6 |

Touchdowns—R. Parker, Bittner, Bechtol.

Terps Schedule 21 Cage Games

33 Candidates Report For First Practice

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 15 (AP) —Thirty-three candidates turned out today for the first practice of Maryland's basketball team.

Coach Bud Millikan has seven lettermen back, including all of last season's starting lineup.

The squad elected as Co-captains Dick Koffenberger of Wilmington, Del., and Lee Brawley of Duncan, Ariz. Brawley, last year's captain, set an all-time Maryland scoring record last year with 404 points.

The card calls for nine home games out of the 21 scheduled.

The schedule:

Dec. 3—Virginia, away; Dec. 5—Washington and Lee; home; Dec. 8, Pennsylvania, away; Dec. 12—William and Mary, home; Dec. 15—West Virginia, away; Dec. 18—VMI, away; Dec. 19—Washington and Lee, away.

Jan. 3—North Carolina, away; Jan. 5—Navy, away; Jan. 7—Virginia, home; Jan. 10—Georgetown, home; Jan. 12—Rutgers, away; Jan. 18—North Carolina, home;

FEB. 9—VMI, home; Feb. 14—Richmond, home; Feb. 16—William and Mary, away; Feb. 18—Duke, away; Feb. 21—Georgetown, away; Feb. 27—Richmond, away; Feb. 29—George Washington, home.

March 1—Davidson, home.

Ward Suffers Broken Hand In Georgia Tilt

COLLEGE PARK, Oct. 15 (AP) — X-rays disclosed today that Bob Ward, All-America guard last year, broke a bone in his hand during the Maryland-Georgia game Saturday night.

Ward hurt his left hand after about 10 minutes of the game but refused to come out. He was called by both sides the most spectacular lineman on the field.

The hand wasn't any better today, so Coach Jim Tatum called for the X-rays. The prints showed a fracture of the second metatarsal of the index finger.

Trainer Duke Wyre said a specially designed brace is being made which will permit Ward to play without hindrance next Saturday against North Carolina

Cumberland Wins Special .30-Cal. Rifle Team Shoot

H. M. Robertson Cops Individual Honors

Cumberland riflemen defeated teams from Fort Hill and LaVale in a special .30 caliber service rifle match on the Fort Hill club's Bedford Road range Sunday. The 100-yard course was fired with the Garand semi-automatic rifle with the Cumberlanders compiling an aggregate 3,061 points to Fort Hill's 2,963 and LaVale's 2,694.

Hayes M. Robertson of Cumberland captured individual honors with 157 points for ten rounds rapid fire prone and ten rounds slow fire standing, and an aggregate total of 497 of a possible 600 for three matches.

Fort Hill's Frank Simpson posted an 87 and 87 for 174 points of a possible 200 in slow fire and rapid fire in the prone position, while Harold Everline of LaVale scored 92 and 89 for 181 in slow fire sitting and rapid fire prone.

The results of the three individual matches were compiled for team aggregate totals. The scores:

GRAND SLAMMER — S. Lua Sykes has scored a "grand slam" in tennis for the 1951 season by winning the Dingle, city and county championships. By defeating Bill Day in the finals of the county tourney on Saturday, Sykes won the first leg on the three-year county tennis trophy offered by the S. T. Little Jewelry Company. Those who have won and retired trophies in recent years were Lawrence Middlekamp, Charles Jones and Russell Ponton. Sykes is teacher of instrumental music and director of the band at Allegany High School.

AHS Jayvees Rally, Defeat LaSalle, 12-7

Rank To Reiber Pass Decides Close Game

Allegany High School's junior varsity griders staged a garrison finish to defeat an inspired LaSalle Jayvee eleven yesterday at Campobello by the score of 12-7.

Trailing 7-0 going into the fourth quarter, the Little Campers scored twice to overcome the opposition.

Dick Rank ran around his own right end thirty-five yards for the Campers' first touchdown. The plunge for the extra point was short.

After holding LaSalle for downs, James Hoffman returned Bobby Christ's punt back to the 20 yard line. Two plays later, Rank passed to Bob Reiber in the end zone for the winning touchdown. Rank's kick was wide.

LaSalle scored on a 45-yard touchdown run by Bob Christ in the opening period. A pass, Shuck to Williams, was good for the point.

Christ, Crowe, Lennox and Shuck were outstanding for the Little Explorers while Rank, Reiber, Wartzack and Reynolds were the best for AHS.

Allegany led in first downs, 16-10 and completed three of six passes. LaSalle failed to connect on six aerials and had one pass intercepted.

| Pos. | Allegany (12) | LaSalle (7) |
|---|---|---|
| LT | Goldman | Harris |
| LG | Sisk | Crowe |

Seven Men Sentenced By Baltimore Judge

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP)—Three jockeys and two exercise riders were among seven men sentenced to prison terms today on charges growing out of parties at which teen-age girls were given narcotics.

Criminal Judge Joseph Sherbow said the circumstances of one case involving a 17-year-old schoolgirl were "too sordid to be repeated."

Charles Richardson, 28-year-old negro exercise rider at race tracks, drew the stiffest term of 10 years in the penitentiary. He could have been sentenced to twice that long for supplying dope to minors under a 1951 Maryland law.

Three-year terms were given Robert Williams, 22-year-old former exercise rider, James McDermott, 20-year-old Glen Cove, N. Y., jockey, and Frank Novella, 21, Lawrence, Mass., jockey.

Thomas Kane, 20, another jockey from Baltimore was sentenced to two years and Wilford Dion, 18-year-old exercise boy, and Albert Rice, 19, to 18 months.

The seven were arrested after police investigated reports of parties around the Pimlico race track section last spring. Five girls were involved, two of them 15 years old.

"These cases," said Judge Sherbow, "must serve as a warning to peddlers, who must know that no matter how much money is involved in this racket, it will never be able to pay for the long years they must spend in prison."

Griffith Wants Baseball Reserve Clause Retained

Al Widmar Suggests Players' Guild For Salary Disputes

BY ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP) — Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, told congress today he once violated baseball's controversial reserve clause—and thereby helped found the American League.

But, Griffith said, he favors hanging the penalty on any player who does today what he did in 1901.

The penalty now: the player would be barred from the league for five years.

Griffith expressed his views to a house judiciary subcommittee which is trying to find out whether baseball violates the anti-trust laws.

It has been particularly interested in the reserve clause. This, in effect, binds the player to stay with the team with which he first signs.

Today's hearing wandered all over the outfield, from the woes of playing in the minors to the troubles of an umpire.

But Griffith's story seemed to interest the committee the most.

Griffith was a star pitcher for the National League before he jumped to the new American League in 1901. He said he feels his move was justified, because, he said, baseball was dying for want of competition.

But the 82-year-old, and still vigorous, owner of the Washington Senators, supported the reserve clause wholeheartedly, in spite of the way he flouted it 50 years ago.

"We can't have players jumping from one league to another," he said. "It would destroy baseball."

Other developments today:

1. The subcommtitee disclosed it had in its possession a mysterious secret document purportedly written in 1946 by Larry MacPhail, then an owner of the New York Yankees.

All but two copies of this document were destroyed. Not only that. But the document was watered down, and some of the rough spots were cut out. Every copy of this milder version apparently has been destroyed, too.

In general, the MacPhail document is critical of the baseball setup and urges changes in its structure.

2. Al Widmar, a St. Louis Browns pitcher and one time holdout, suggested that players should be given the right to set up a guild to handle salary disputes.

3. Ernie Stewart, a onetime American League umpire, said he lost his job when caught in a crossfire between former high commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler and the league president, Will Harridge.

Stewart, now a Los Angeles hardware merchant, testified he was discharged by Harridge in 1945 after he undertook to sound out fellow umpires on their salaries and working conditions, at the direction of Chandler.

"I simply don't want him on the American League staff," he quoted Harridge as saying at a hearing at which he was not permitted to testify.

Rep. Hillings (R-Calif), who has been arguing for major league ball on the west coast, got a firm "no" out of Griffith.

Hillings thought maybe a couple of west coast clubs could come into the majors.

No, Griffith said, that would wreck the Pacific Coast League, and pile up all sorts of travel complications.

Why not use airplanes? asked Hillings.

No, said Griffith, "I can't put all my eggs in one basket."

How about making the coast league a major league?

No, Griffith said, too many cities in the league are too small for major league ball.

Graduates Head Choices For Top Football Jobs

Colleges Turn To Alumni For Mentors

ATLANTA, Oct. 15 (AP)—Before World War II when a college needed a head football coach—as they often did — the college usually checked over the supply of graduates from Notre Dame, Yale, Chicago or Alabama.

Today, when a college needs a coach—as they often do—the college gets out its own alumni list and takes a look.

Usually they find what they want —a homegrown boy with something on the ball.

Of 526 major and minor colleges checked, 121 have one of their own graduates running the football department.

Alumni Now Coaching

This return of the native is almost pronounced at major colleges as it is in smaller schools which play the great bulk of football on fall Saturdays.

Fifty-one large schools out of 250 checked have alumni as head coaches. Among 276 small schools there are 70 men who played and now coach at the same school.

Three large schools—Texas, Auburn and Duke—hired graduates this year: Ed Price at Texas, Ralph Jordan at Auburn and Bill Murray at Duke. Other fairly recent examples of such homecomings are Bill Voights at Northwestern, Mike Holovak at Boston College, Benny Oosterbaan at Michigan and Gus Tinsley at L.S.U.

When Minnesota needed a fill in after Bernie Bierman took his leave first choice was graduate Bud Wilkinson, Oklahoma's greatest coach. Only when Wilkinson said "no" did Minnesota begin an extensive search elsewhere.

The spreading out of football and the return of former players to home colleges have thoroughly broken the monopoly of a handful of colleges supplying practically all head coaches.

Michigan, Notre Dame Lead

Two hundred and 79 schools supplied head coaches for the 526 colleges checked.

Michigan and Notre Dame led the check with 15 head coaches each. During the late 1930's about 50 followers of the late Knute Rockne were spread about the nation preaching the football gospel of Notre Dame.

Minnesota was third with 14. Other schools well represented among head coaches are: Illinois 13; Pittsburgh 12; Tennessee 10; North Carolina and Alabama, eight each; Iowa seven; Northwestern, Ohio State and Missouri, six each, and five each from Southern Cal., Pennsylvania, Vanderbilt, T. C. U. and Stanford.

RICHARD BEARD

Beard Is Named Player Of Week For Second Time

Fort Hill Back Star In LaSalle Contest

Richard Beard, hard-running left halfback of the Fort Hill Sentinels, captured the Knights of Columbus Player of the Week award for the second time this season with an outstanding display of running and kicking in Friday night's first intra-city contest with LaSalle.

Beard thus joins former teammate Lynn Beightol and Allegany's Earl "Lefty" Bruce as the only athletes to cop the award more than once during a single season. Bruce won the prize twice in 1948 and then was named Player of the Year while Beightol copped the award once in 1949 and three times in 1950. He was named Player of the Year in both 1949 and 1950. Beard also won last year.

The Fort Hill scatback, this year's leading scorer in the city, sparked with fine running and defensive work and kicked four extra points while scoring two touchdowns in Fort Hill's 40-0 victory over the Explorers.

Also considered in the Sentinel's easy win were Bill Lee, stellar guard, Gene Alderton, center, and Donald Stine, fullback. Outstanding candidates for LaSalle were Earl McKenzie, halfback and Jimmy O'Rourke, tackle.

The K of C committee also selected Ronnie Sisk, Dick Widdows and John Eversole of Allegany for consideration in the Campers' 37-18 verdict over Keyser Saturday.

Beard's selection as the top player is the sixth of the season. Others named for the award are Joe Hager, Allegany, Bobby Arnone and Ray Brown, LaSalle, and Leonard White, Fort Hill.

Marion Through As Active Player

To Discuss Manager Contract With Saigh

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 15 (AP) — In a blanket announcement, the St. Louis Cardinals today revealed deals involving 15 players, with four promising youngsters scheduled to move from minor league orgnaizations to the parent club.

Eight of the players will leave the Cardinals for the minors while Catcher Bob Scheffing and Manager Marty Marion have been handed unconditional releases. Marion's release concerns only his capacity as a player.

Owner Fred Saigh expects to discuss Marion's managerial position when the one-time Cardinal shortstop returns from a hunting trip later this month. Marion was listed as a player in the 1951 season, but didn't enter the lineup.

The four newcomers to the Cards are Pitcher Octavio Rubert from Houston of the Texas League, Second Baseman Earl Weaver from Omaha of the Western League, Outfielder Vincent Moreci from Columbus, Ga., of the South Atlantic League and Pitcher Ralph Beard from Allentown of the Inter-State League.

In exchange, Rochester of the International League will receive Pitchers Fred Martin, Danny Lewandowski and Jack Crimian, and Outfielders Harry Walker and Eldon (Rip) Repulski. Houston gets First Baseman Vernal (Nippy) Jones and Ed Mickelson, and Omaha receives First Baseman Harvey Zernia.

Walker will take over as manager of the Rochester Club, replacing Johnny Keane, who like Scheffing will remain in the Cardinal organization in another position.

Cartier Scores KO

BOSTON, Oct. 15—(INS)—Middleweight contender Walter Cartier of New York tonight knocked out Joe Rindone of Roxbury in just 48 seconds of the first round of a scheduled 10-rounder at Boston Garden.

Cartier's first blow, a left hook, floored the ex-Marine, who bounced up, but was forced to take a nine-count by the referee. Cartier then moved in with a barrage that finished off the Roxbury veteran who had to be carried to his corner.

Yanks Buy Three Minor Leaguers

Obtain First Sacker, Pitchers From Farms

NEW YORK. Oct. 15 (AP)—The New York Yankees today purchased the contracts of a first baseman and two pitchers from their farm club affiliates in Kansas City and Beaumont, Tex.

They are Don Bollweg, a left-handed hitter and thrower who batted .303 for Kansas City during the season, and pitchers Harry Shaeffer and Tom Gorman, both with Beaumont this year.

Shaeffer's contract was purchased from Kansas City, since he had been on option from that club to Beaumont where he won 19 and lost 9 games. A southpaw, Shaeffer was a workhorse of the Texas League, pitching 261 innings and striking out 122 batters. His home is Shillington, Pa.

Bollweg, from Wheaton, Ill., played in 122 games, had 129 hits, belted 20 home runs, scored 109 runs and batted in 69 runs. He was in the deal that sent third baseman Bill Johnson to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Gorman, in the Yankee farm system since 1946, is from Valley Stream, N. Y. He set a Texas League record by pitching 42 consecutive scoreless innings this year, winning 12 and losing eight games.

Bob Baker Wins

Terps Advance From Tenth To Seventh Place

Tennessee Is 2nd While Spartans Skid Into Third Place

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—The University of California Golden Bears were voted the No. 1 college football team today in the third weekly nation-wide poll of the Associated Press. Michigan State, the top team for the first two weeks, skidded to third place, as Tennessee moved into the No. 2 spot.

Coach Pappy Waldorf's Bears, winner of four straight games after defeating Washington State last week, 42-35, received 50 first place votes out of a total of 138 ballots sent in by sports writers and sportscasters.

Michigan State, hard-pressed to defeat Marquette Saturday, 20-14, got only 16 first place votes, and a total of 935 points.

Tennessee, which picked on undermanned Chattanooga to the tune of 42-13 last week, received 26 first place votes and 977 points. In a pre-season poll, Tennessee had been tabbed as the probable No. 1 team of the land.

Otherwise, there was considerable scrambling of positions, with two newcomers moving into the select top teams—Princeton and Baylor, nine and ten, respectively.

Irish Take Plunge

They replaced Notre Dame, fifth a week ago, and Ohio State, which was No. 9. Notre Dame dropped out after suffering a 27-20 defeat at the hands of Southern Methodist Saturday. Ohio State, beaten a week ago by Michigan State, and tied by Wisconsin last Saturday, 6-6, fell to No. 17.

Others in the top ten this week:

Texas, No. 4; Georgia Tech, No. 5; Texas A & M, No. 6; Maryland, No. 7; and Illinois, No. 8.

Texas, a 9 to 7 winner over Oklahoma, moved up from sixth place a week ago, while Texas A & M dropped from fourth to sixth. Texas A & M had a breather Saturday, drubbing Trinity (Tex), 52-14.

The Georgia Tech Yellowjackets, a surprise package in the Southeastern Conference, bounced from eighth place to fifth after bumping Louisiana State, 25-7.

Maryland Is 7th

Another Dixie outfit, the Maryland Terrapins who are favored to win the Southern Conference title, moved up from tenth to seventh place. Maryland overpowered Georgia, 43-7.

Illinois, leading in the Big Ten Conference race, defeated Syracuse Saturday, 41-20, but skidded from seventh to eighth place.

Princeton rolled on undefeated, for its 16th straight game, stopping Pennsylvania, 13-7, to move up from a No. 13 rating a week ago. Baylor, the No. 12 team last week, got into the top 10 by squeezing past Arkansas, 9-7.

The first ten with first place votes in parenthesis:

| Team | Points |
|---|---|
| 1. California (50) | 1,129 |
| 2. Tennessee (26) | 977 |
| 3. Michigan State (16) | 935 |
| 4. Texas (6) | 719 |
| 5. Georgia Tech (12) | 689 |
| 6. Texas A & M (8) | 652 |
| 7. Maryland (14) | 634 |
| 8. Illinois (3) | 584 |
| 9. Princeton (1) | 221 |
| 10. Baylor | 148 |

|---|---|
| 11. Sou. California | 125 |
| 12. Villanova | 98 |
| 13. Stanford | 97 |
| 14. Cornell | 76 |
| 15. Sou. Methodist | 67 |
| 16. College Of The Pacific (1) | 65 |
| 17. Ohio State | 55 |
| 18. Northwestern | 28 |
| 19. Oklahoma | 26 |
| 20. Washington | 25 |

Others: Notre Dame 24, Wisconsin 20, Cincinnati 18, Auburn (1) 11, Tulane, Kentucky, San Francisco, Colorado, and Michigan 5 each, Columbia, Marquette 4 each, Oregon State 2, Penn State, Kansas, South Dakota State, Washington & Lee, 1 each.

Badminton Club Meets Tonight

Membership Limited To Fifty Persons

The twelfth annual meeting of the Cumberland Badminton Club will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the reception room at the Cumberland Brewing Company, North Centre Street.

This annual get-together meeting is open to former club members and their friends interested in joining this year.

Because of the small number of courts available the club's membership has always been limited to fifty members.

Badminton players in this section wishing to join the club this year should attend the meeting tonight or contact one of the following officers:

Walter S. Eyler, president; Bert A. Mason, vice-president; Mrs. Richard W. Travaskis, secretary; Norman E. Sell, treasurer.

Ortmann Reported Resting "Pretty Good"

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 15 (AP) — Steeler back Chuck Ortmann was reported "resting pretty good" today at a hospital where he is being treated for a concussion.

Ortmann was kicked in the head yesterday after racing 62 yards with an intercepted pass against the San Francisco Forty Niners.

To Undergo Operation

CLEVELAND, Oct. 15 (AP)—Luke Easter, Cleveland first baseman will undergo an operation on his swollen right knee Nov. 13, the team announced today.

The knee bothered Easter a large part of the 1951 season. He will not be hospitalized until he completes a barnstorming tour with Jackie Robinson's All-Star team.

White, Cumberland, secretary-treasurer.

Cubs Get Wallaesa

CHICAGO, Oct. 15 (AP) — Jack Wallaesa, 31, former White Sox and athletics' short-stop, now an outfielder, was one of two players acquired today by the Chicago Cubs from their Springfield, Mass., club in the International League.

The Cubs also obtained right-handed pitcher Luvern Fear from Springfield. In exchange, the Cubs assigned to Springfield first sacker Fred Richards, who spent most of last season with Des Moines.

To Undergo Operation

CLEVELAND, Oct. 15 (AP)—Luke Easter, Cleveland first baseman will undergo an operation on his swollen right knee Nov. 13, the team announced today.

The knee bothered Easter a large part of the 1951 season. He will not be hospitalized until he completes a barnstorming tour with Jackie Robinson's All-Star team.

Two Garrett Soccer Tilts Today, Ferguson Tops Point Getters

Garrett County High School Soccer League games are scheduled for today at Grantsville and Kitzmiller.

Oakland and Grantsville will battle it out for second place at Grantsville and Kitzmiller will play host to Friendsville.

No games are scheduled for Friday.

Raymond Ferguson, center forward of Accident High School's pace-setters, is far out in front in the scoring race with 10 of the 29 points registered by his team. Ferguson has scored in all of the six games won by Coach Charley Strauss' booters.

Ferguson led Accident's champs of 1950 with 18 points to his credit.

Brucker And Chapman Named Reds' Coaches

CINCINNATI, Oct. 15 (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds today announced that Ben Chapman and Earle Brucker have been added to their coaching staff.

Chapman, former manager of the Philadelphia club of the National League, will work from the third base line, according to Manager Luke Sewell. Brucker will be a pitching coach.

Allie Reynolds Tops Hickok Poll With 296 Points

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—Allie Reynolds, who made American League history by pitching two no-hit, no-run games in one season, has been selected the September winner of the Hickok pro athlete of the year competition.

The New York Yankee righthander stopped the Boston Red Sox cold on Sept. 28 to assure the Yanks of a pennant tie. The Yanks won the second game of a doubleheader that day to clinch the flag.

Reynolds won the September award, announced today by a big margin over middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson, who regained his crown by stopping Britain's Randy Turpin. Reynolds received 86 first place ballots and 296 points (based on 3-2-1 scoring). Robinson collected three first placers and 104 points.

Sal Maglie, New York Giants pitching ace, was third with 98 points followed by teammate Monte Irvin, 72; channel swimmer Florence Chadwick, 67; Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson, 41, and Preacher Roe, 9; Jockey Charley Burr, 5, and Ned Garver, 20-game winner for the St. Louis Browns, 4.

Phils Purchase Four

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15 (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies today purchased four players from minor league affiliates.

They are Jacob Schmitt, a left-handed pitcher who won 10 and lost 14 with Baltimore in the International League last season; Clyde Schel, an outfielder who batted .306 for Baltimore; John Sanford, a righthanded pitcher who won 15 and lost 11 for Schenectady in the Eastern League, and James Command, outfielder-third baseman who batted .318 with Schenectady.

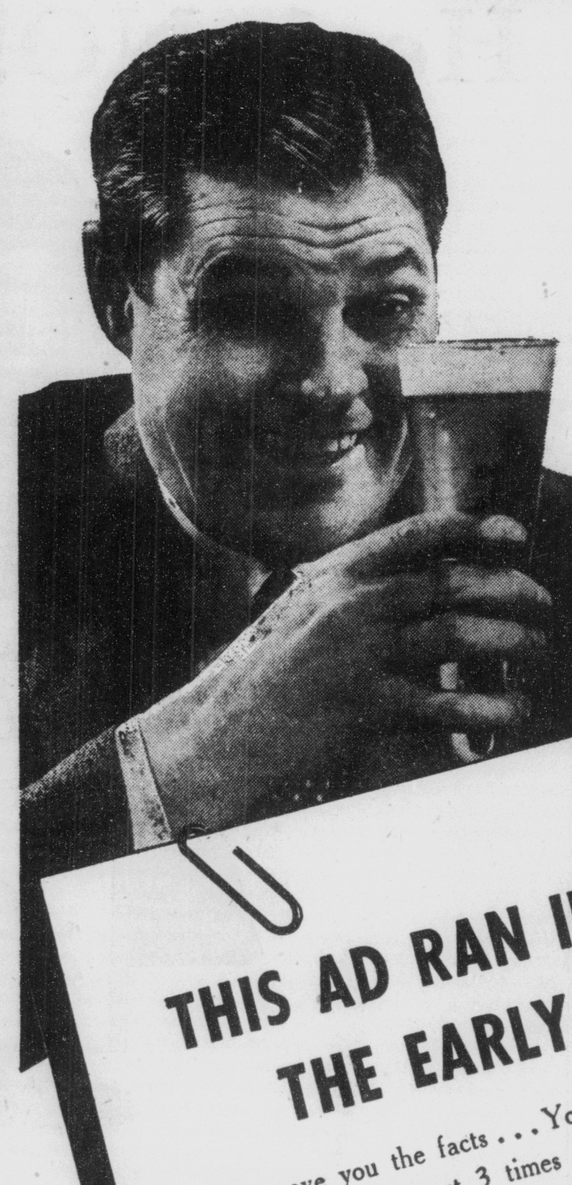
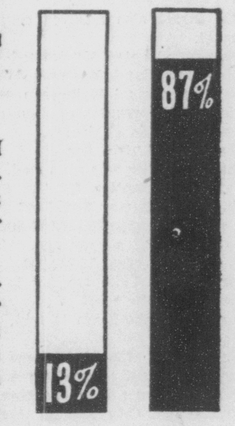
HERE'S THE REAL PAYOFF ON BEER

BEER IS ABOUT 87% WATER--THAT'S WHY THE KIND OF WATER THAT GOES INTO BEER MAKES SO MUCH DIFFERENCE--THESE TWO BARS EXPLAIN WHY THOUSANDS PREFER OLD EXPORT



Every beer drinker has a right to know the true facts about beer and beer flavor—and we're glad to tell them. Here they are. . . . The two bars at the right explain everything. The little one shows the amount of malt, hops, and yeast that goes into a bottle of beer; the big one stands for the amount of water. There's more than six times as much water in beer as all the other things combined. Remember that.

The malt, hops and yeast ARE important. That's why we select ours so carefully. Skill IS important. That's why we have old timers who've been brewing beer for generations. But look how important the water is—(six times as important). You know there's no other water like mountain water. No other has that clear tang, that natural sparkle. And that's OLD EXPORT'S extra . . . that's why "Mountain water makes the difference". That's why OLD EXPORT is different from most beers, that's where it gets its tang, its mellow flavor. Taste for yourself and find out what a difference mountain water makes.



THIS AD RAN IN THE EARLY 30's

We gave you the facts . . . You gave us the proof! Today almost 3 times as many people are drinking Old Export! THANK YOU!

MOUNTAIN WATER MAKES THE DIFFERENCE

THE ANSWER IS IN THE BEER!

Two Garrett Soccer Tilts Today, Ferguson Tops Point Getters

Garrett County High School Soccer League games are scheduled for today at Grantsville and Kitzmiller.

Oakland and Grantsville will battle it out for second place at Grantsville and Kitzmiller will play host to Friendsville.

No games are scheduled for Friday.

Raymond Ferguson, center forward of Accident High School's pace-setters, is far out in front in the scoring race with 10 of the 29 points registered by his team. Ferguson has scored in all of the six games won by Coach Charley Strauss' booters.

Ferguson led Accident's champs of 1950 with 18 points to his credit.

Brucker And Chapman Named Reds' Coaches

CINCINNATI, Oct. 15 (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds today announced that Ben Chapman and Earle Brucker have been added to their coaching staff.

Chapman, former manager of the Philadelphia club of the National League, will work from the third base line, according to Manager Luke Sewell. Brucker will be a pitching coach.

Allie Reynolds Tops Hickok Poll With 296 Points

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—Allie Reynolds, who made American League history by pitching two no-hit, no-run games in one season, has been selected the September winner of the Hickok pro athlete of the year competition.

The New York Yankee righthander stopped the Boston Red Sox cold on Sept. 28 to assure the Yanks of a pennant tie. The Yanks won the second game of a doubleheader that day to clinch the flag.

Reynolds won the September award, announced today by a big margin over middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson, who regained his crown by stopping Britain's Randy Turpin. Reynolds received 86 first place ballots and 296 points (based on 3-2-1 scoring). Robinson collected three first placers and 104 points.

Sal Maglie, New York Giants pitching ace, was third with 98 points followed by teammate Monte Irvin, 72; channel swimmer Florence Chadwick, 67; Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson, 41, and Preacher Roe, 9; Jockey Charley Burr, 5, and Ned Garver, 20-game winner for the St. Louis Browns, 4.

Phils Purchase Four

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15 (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies today purchased four players from minor league affiliates.

They are Jacob Schmitt, a left-handed pitcher who won 10 and lost 14 with Baltimore in the International League last season; Clyde Schel, an outfielder who batted .306 for Baltimore; John Sanford, a righthanded pitcher who won 15 and lost 11 for Schenectady in the Eastern League, and James Command, outfielder-third baseman who batted .318 with Schenectady.

HERE'S THE REAL PAYOFF ON BEER

BEER IS ABOUT 87% WATER--THAT'S WHY THE KIND OF WATER THAT GOES INTO BEER MAKES SO MUCH DIFFERENCE--THESE TWO BARS EXPLAIN WHY THOUSANDS PREFER OLD EXPORT

Every beer drinker has a right to know the true facts about beer and beer flavor—and we're glad to tell them. Here they are. . . . The two bars at the right explain everything. The little one shows the amount of malt, hops, and yeast that goes into a bottle of beer; the big one stands for the amount of water. There's more than six times as much water in beer as all the other things combined. Remember that.

The malt, hops and yeast ARE important. That's why we select ours so carefully. Skill IS important. That's why we have old timers who've been brewing beer for generations. But look how important the water is—(six times as important). You know there's no other water like mountain water. No other has that clear tang, that natural sparkle. And that's OLD EXPORT'S extra . . . that's why "Mountain water makes the difference". That's why OLD EXPORT is different from most beers, that's where it gets its tang, its mellow flavor. Taste for yourself and find out what a difference mountain water makes.

THIS AD RAN IN THE EARLY 30's

We gave you the facts . . . You gave us the proof! Today almost 3 times as many people are drinking Old Export! THANK YOU!

THE ANSWER IS IN THE BEER!

City Will Have New Narcotics Ordinance

The city will follow the suggestions of two local women's groups in writing an anti-narcotics ordinance.

Commissioner of Police and Fire John J. Long said he believed some action should be taken on the requests of the Woman's Civic Club and Exemplar chapter of Beta Sigma Phi which were addressed to the Mayor and Council and referred to the Police Department.

One proposal, contained in a sample ordinance from the Civic Club, would provide for a quarantine period for addicts.

City Attorney W. Earle Cobey was instructed by Mayor Thomas S. Post to prepare an ordinance. Cobey said the ordinance submitted by the group was somewhat broader than the anti-narcotics law the city has, but he "would be glad" to prepare a new statute.

The Cumberland Contracting Company submitted the only bid for resurfacing of Massachusetts Avenue between Oldtown Road and Grant Street. It agreed to furnish 515 tons of approved material at $10.87 a ton plus 30 cents a gallon for tack coat. The bid was referred to Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, for report. The firm was awarded a contract for the resurfacing of certain other streets with 1818 tons of approved materials at $10.86 a ton plus 30 cents a gallon for tack coat.

A check in the amount of $27.31 was ordered for Anita Porter representing an overpayment of taxes.

The application of Safeway Motors by George H. Morris, Route 3, Bedford Road, to operate a used car lot at 303 North Mechanic Street was approved.

D. A. Langer's application to open a parking lot at 501-503 North Centre Street also received council approval.

The council voted $50 toward the South Cumberland Business Men's Association annual Halloween celebration at the request of James F. Scarpelli, parade chairman.

The payroll for the first two weeks of October was approved.

Water consumption for the week ending Sunday was 88,920,000 gallons as compared to 86,130,000 during the same period a year ago. The daily average was 12,702,000. The water level at Lake Gordon is ten inches below the crest of the spillway and at Lake Koon 13 feet, two inches below.

When City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery was asked to produce a city license necessary in a hearing at Circuit Court, City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson took over the duties of clerk for the session.

TWUA Meetings Are Slated This Week

Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), will hold membership meetings Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. and Thursday at 10:30 a. m., Playford Aldridge, president, announced yesterday.

Special business will include discussion and action on proposed changes in the by-laws.

An Executive Board recommendation on rules for the local's annual election will also be discussed and acted upon.

Two Blazes Checked By City Firemen

A fire yesterday morning caused considerable damage to the upholstery of an automobile belonging to Joseph Elliott, 353 Dorn Avenue. East Side firemen went to the scene of the blaze at 11:03. Cause of the fire was unknown, firemen said.

South End firemen extinguished a grass fire at 5:21 p. m. yesterday on Laing Avenue extended. No damage was reported.

Beeman's Trial Delay Sought

A motion to postpone the murder trial of Noah Earl Beeman, 24-year old Midland man, charged with slaying his 18-year old wife, was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The motion, filed by Beeman's court-appointed attorneys, Earl E. Manges and Thomas N. Berry, asks for postponement until Beeman's brother, Sgt. Benjamin Beeman, can return from Korea to testify.

Sgt. Beeman, who was with his brother earlier the night of the slaying in August, is now in a hospital at Pusan, Korea, awaiting evacuation to Japan for further treatment of wounds.

Beeman's trial in the penknife slaying of his estranged wife, Donna L. (Airhart) Beeman, in Frostburg, August 12, has been set for tomorrow.

Associate Judge George Henderson, to whom the motion was made, is holding the matter in abeyance.

Arthur L. Marple Dies In Florida

New Annex Is Dedicated By Fairview Congregation

The new Sunday School and recreation room of Fairview Avenue Methodist Church was dedicated Sunday with the principal speech being made by Rev. Harry C. Marsh, superintendent of the Hagerstown District of the Methodist Church.

The two-story concrete block structure, 21 by 34 feet, is estimated to be worth $7,000, with all of the cost being met through donations and voluntary labor.

During Sunday's dedicatory rally, a fund was started for a heating plant for the building and Rev. B. F. Hartman, pastor, said a total of $531.52 was donated.

The history of the new building dates back to June, 1949, when Rev. Hartman was appointed pastor. Several suggestions were offered as to the solution of a problem of space needed for the Sunday School. One of the suggestions called for the erection of a new church on the corner of Sylvan Avenue and Holland Streets, but Rev. Hartman said an addition to the present structure seemed more logical.

On November 9, 1950, at a meeting of the church board, a building committee, headed by Robert Webster, was named. Other members were John Zimmerman, Jr., Mrs. L. E. Watkins, Mrs. Jesse Baker and Mrs. Elwood Stewart, secretary. Mrs. Hoy Atkinson and Mrs. Jacob Walters were named to assist with the soliciting of funds.

The neighborhood was canvassed for funds, with gold certificates being given those who contributed $5 or more. Rev. Hartman called the response "most gratifying," people of all creeds donating a total of $1,010.06. The Methodist Conference gave the project an added stimulant with a donation of $750.

Actual construction began last spring, with the building permit being obtained December 27, 1950. The ground for the new building was broken March 15.

Members of the congregation teamed with neighbors, friends and students of a G. I. trade school in the construction of the building. Rev. Hartman said a conservative estimate placed the number of volunteer man hours at 1,287 and donation of materials amounting to $245.

The Women's Society of Christian Service sponsored a variety of activities for the building fund which netted $792.49. This money went for the purchase of electric light fixtures, sink and lavatory.

City Will Have New Narcotics Ordinance

The city will follow the suggestions of two local women's groups in writing an anti-narcotics ordinance.

Commissioner of Police and Fire John J. Long said he believed some action should be taken on the requests of the Woman's Civic Club and Exemplar chapter of Beta Sigma Phi which were addressed to the Mayor and Council and referred to the Police Department.

One proposal, contained in a sample ordinance from the Civic Club, would provide for a quarantine period for addicts.

City Attorney W. Earle Cobey was instructed by Mayor Thomas S. Post to prepare an ordinance. Cobey said the ordinance submitted by the group was somewhat broader than the anti-narcotics law the city has, but he "would be glad" to prepare a new statute.

The Cumberland Contracting Company submitted the only bid for resurfacing of Massachusetts Avenue between Oldtown Road and Grant Street. It agreed to furnish 516 tons of approved material at $10.87 a ton plus 30 cents a gallon for tack coat. The bid was referred to Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, for report. The firm was awarded a contract for the resurfacing of certain other streets with 1818 tons of approved materials at $10.86 a ton plus 30 cents a gallon for tack coat.

A check in the amount of $27.31 was ordered for Anita Porter representing an overpayment of taxes.

The application of Safeway Motors by George H. Morris, Route 3, Bedford Road, to operate a used car lot at 303 North Mechanic Street was approved.

D. A. Langer's application to open a parking lot at 501-503 North Centre Street also received council approval.

The council voted $50 toward the South Cumberland Business Men's Association annual Halloween celebration at the request of James F. Scarpelli, parade chairman.

The payroll for the first two weeks of October was approved.

Water consumption for the week ending Sunday was 88,920,000 gallons as compared to 86,130,000 during the same period a year ago. The daily average was 12,702,000. The water level at Lake Gordon is ten inches below the crest of the spillway and at Lake Koon 13 feet, two inches below.

When City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery was asked to produce a city license necessary in a hearing at Circuit Court, City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson took over the duties of clerk for the session.

TWUA Meetings Are Slated This Week

Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), will hold membership meetings Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. and Thursday at 10:30 a. m., Playford Aldridge, president, announced yesterday.

Special business will include discussion and action on proposed changes in the by-laws.

An Executive Board recommendation on rules for the local's annual election will also be discussed and acted upon.

Two Blazes Checked By City Firemen

A fire yesterday morning caused considerable damage to the upholstery of an automobile belonging to Joseph Elliott, 353 Dorn Avenue. East Side firemen went to the scene of the blaze at 11:03. Cause of the fire was unknown, firemen said.

South End firemen extinguished a grass fire at 5:21 p. m. yesterday on Laing Avenue extended. No damage was reported.

Beeman's Trial Delay Sought

A motion to postpone the murder trial of Noah Earl Beeman, 24-year old Midland man, charged with slaying his 18-year old wife, was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The motion, filed by Beeman's court-appointed attorneys, Earl E. Manges and Thomas N. Berry, asks for postponement until Beeman's brother, Sgt. Benjamin Beeman, can return from Korea to testify.

Sgt. Beeman, who was with his brother earlier the night of the slaying in August, is now in a hospital at Pusan, Korea, awaiting evacuation to Japan for further treatment of wounds.

Beeman's trial in the penknife slaying of his estranged wife, Donna L. (Airhart) Beeman, in Frostburg, August 12, has been set for tomorrow.

Associate Judge George Henderson, to whom the motion was made, is holding the matter in abeyance.

Arthur L. Marple Dies In Florida

New Annex Is Dedicated By Fairview Congregation

The new Sunday School and recreation room of Fairview Avenue Methodist Church was dedicated Sunday with the principal speech being made by Rev. Harry C. Marsh, superintendent of the Hagerstown District of the Methodist Church.

The two-story concrete block structure, 21 by 34 feet, is estimated to be worth $7,000, with all of the cost being met through donations and voluntary labor.

During Sunday's dedicatory rally, a fund was started for a heating plant for the building and Rev. B. F. Hartman, pastor, said a total of $531.52 was donated.

The history of the new building dates back to June, 1949, when Rev. Hartman was appointed pastor. Several suggestions were offered as to the solution of a problem of space needed for the Sunday School. One of the suggestions called for the erection of a new church on the corner of Sylvan Avenue and Holland Streets, but Rev. Hartman said an addition to the present structure seemed more logical.

On November 9, 1950, at a meeting of the church board, a building committee, headed by Robert Webster, was named. Other members were John Zimmerman, Jr., Mrs. L. E. Watkins, Mrs. Jesse Baker and Mrs. Elwood Stewart, secretary. Mrs. Hoy Atkinson and Mrs. Jacob Walters were named to assist with the soliciting of funds.

The neighborhood was canvassed for funds, with gold certificates being given those who contributed $5 or more. Rev. Hartman called the response "most gratifying," people of all creeds donating a total of $1,010.06. The Methodist Conference gave the project an added stimulant with a donation of $750.

Actual construction began last spring, with the building permit being obtained December 27, 1950. The ground for the new building was broken March 15.

Members of the congregation teamed with neighbors, friends and students of a G. I. trade school in the construction of the building. Rev. Hartman said a conservative estimate placed the number of volunteer man hours at 1,287 and donation of materials amounting to $245.

The Women's Society of Christian Service sponsored a variety of activities for the building fund which netted $792.49. This money went for the purchase of electric light fixtures, sink and lavatory.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — (INS) — The news dispatches from Korea last week mentioned, in passing that Capt. William D. Clark, commanding Company G, 9th Infantry Regiment, 2nd Infantry Division, had been wounded again.

We bring up the matter because of a complaint, received here once, that military brass which is a product of West Point has a way of picking soft spots for sons in uniform. Capt. Clark is the son of Mark Clark . . . Gen. Mark Clark, chief of the Army field forces.

The mother and father of young Captain Clark learned of their son's second Purple Heart—he was quite badly wounded several months ago—just after learning that their boy had been awarded the Silver Star by Gen. Ridgway.

The citation attached to that award reads: "For gallantry in action on 16 May, 1951, in the vicinity of Chunchon, Korea. On that day—the citation continues in the brisk language of the department of defense—Captain Clark led his company on a routine patrol to probe enemy lines. As the company was crossing open terrain it was subjected to intense enemy fire which forced the men to seek cover.

"Noticing that two wounded men lay in an exposed position, Capt. Clark and the company aid-man went back, braving the deadly enemy fire to pick up the two wounded men. To get these two wounded men to safety, Capt. Clark and the air-man constructed a crude stretcher and carried them out, all the time being subjected to intense enemy fire. Capt. Clark's gallantry and devotion to the members of his command reflect great credit upon himself and the military service."

Must be quite a fellow.

I have a note from Gen. Clark, on another matter, and I quote a portion of it. The General, who has seen a lot of war himself, writes.

"Bill is still over there with his outfit and is getting wonderful experience. Naturally, in my job as head of Army field forces I have a deep, deep interest in the Korean war, but when one's only son is there it becomes sort of a personal interest, too. I get so many letters from mothers and wives with their loved ones over there, and I can deeply sympathize with them in their concern. For I know."

• — • — •

Speaking of the military, there's just no end to its specialization. At Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, D. C., the Army has just graduated a class of 42 enlisted men and 18 WACS . . . all trained to treat anything from a badly wounded man to a baby in need of a fresh diaper. It's the first time since the Civil War that a nursing course has been offered to husky he-men . . . and the waiting line was considerable.

The GIs who graduated—all sergeants, by the way—are now equipped to tackle not only normal and emergency medicine and surgery but also have been trained in the fields of dietetics, sociology, psychology, housekeeping, and the care of ailing infants. The babies program means the works—bathing, oiling, powdering, burping, diapering, sterilization of bottles and preparation of formulas. The boys practiced on life-like 5½ pound dolls.

The course (which will be continued) is designed to relieve the load on the energies of the regular Army Nurse Corps, now sadly shorthanded. Graduates qualify for state practical nurses' licenses. The boys also were taught how to cook, serve, and how to find bargains at the commissary.

Join the Army and roam the range . . . the kitchen range.

"The Authority on Authorities"

DISTRIBUTION AS GOOD

LACK OF HIGH cards is no reason for failing to raise your partner's suit bid, if you have satisfactory assets of another kind. "Another kind" means distribution, in the form of plenty of cards in his trump suit, four or more, together with a blank suit or singleton where those trumps may be used for ruffing. Such a hand, with almost no high card strength at all, can often be more valuable to your partner than one with a pretty fair amount of high card strength, but a more or less balanced distribution.

South, in the rubber game where this hand was dealt, had played the game only a few months and was at the stage where he critically appraised every move he made, since he was a conscientious chap. After he had led a club, and East was set only one trick in the 4-Hearts doubled, he sheepishly apologized to his partner for having made a mistake in the bidding.

Actually he made two mistakes. But, in the three opportunities he received to take action, the only time he was right was the time he thought he had gone wrong. That was when he raised his partner's 1-Club to 2-Clubs after East's intervening bid of 1-Heart. He branded that raise as improper when he had "only half of an honor trick" in his hand.

His distributional values were so splendid, with five trumps and a singleton, that he should have bid 5-Clubs on his second turn over East's 4-Diamonds, especially since his partner had immediately before that made his powerful cue-bid of the opponents' heart suit at 3-Hearts. He had his third chance when North's double of the 4-Hearts reached him, but he passed when he should have bid 5-Clubs for two reasons—first, his fine fit with the clubs and, second, his lack of defensive strength. The 5-Clubs would have been easy to make, with the loss of just one trick in each major suit.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — (INS) — The news dispatches from Korea last week mentioned, in passing that Capt. William D. Clark, commanding Company G, 9th Infantry Regiment, 2nd Infantry Division, had been wounded again.

We bring up the matter because of a complaint, received here once, that military brass which is a product of West Point has a way of picking soft spots for sons in uniform. Capt. Clark is the son of Mark Clark . . . Gen. Mark Clark, chief of the Army field forces.

The mother and father of young Captain Clark learned of their son's second Purple Heart—he was quite badly wounded several months ago—just after learning that their boy had been awarded the Silver Star by Gen. Ridgway.

The citation attached to that award reads: "For gallantry in action on 16 May, 1951, in the vicinity of Chunchon, Korea. On that day—the citation continues in the brisk language of the department of defense—Captain Clark led his company on a routine patrol to probe enemy lines. As the company was crossing open terrain it was subjected to intense enemy fire which forced the men to seek cover.

"Noticing that two wounded men lay in an exposed position, Capt. Clark and the company aid-man went back, braving the deadly enemy fire to pick up the two wounded men. To get these two wounded men to safety, Capt. Clark and the air-man constructed a crude stretcher and carried them out, all the time being subjected to intense enemy fire. Capt. Clark's gallantry and devotion to the members of his command reflect great credit upon himself and the military service."

Must be quite a fellow.

I have a note from Gen. Clark, on another matter, and I quote a portion of it. The General, who has seen a lot of war himself, writes.

"Bill is still over there with his outfit and is getting wonderful experience. Naturally, in my job as head of Army field forces I have a deep, deep interest in the Korean war, but when one's only son is there it becomes sort of a personal interest, too. I get so many letters from mothers and wives with their loved ones over there, and I can deeply sympathize with them in their concern. For I know."

Speaking of the military, there's just no end to its specialization. At Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, D. C., the Army has just graduated a class of 42 enlisted men and 18 WACS . . . all trained to treat anything from a badly wounded man to a baby in need of a fresh diaper. It's the first time since the Civil War that a nursing course has been offered to husky he-men . . . and the waiting line was considerable.

The GIs who graduated—all sergeants, by the way—are now equipped to tackle not only normal and emergency medicine and surgery but also have been trained in the fields of dietetics, sociology, psychology, housekeeping, and the care of ailing infants. The babies program means the works—bathing, oiling, powdering, burping, diapering, sterilization of bottles and preparation of formulas. The boys practiced on life-like 5½ pound dolls.

The course (which will be continued) is designed to relieve the load on the energies of the regular Army Nurse Corps, now sadly shorthanded. Graduates qualify for state practical nurses' licenses. The boys also were taught how to cook, serve, and how to find bargains at the commissary.

Join the Army and roam the range . . . the kitchen range.

DISTRIBUTION AS GOOD

LACK OF HIGH cards is no reason for failing to raise your partner's suit bid, if you have satisfactory assets of another kind. "Another kind" means distribution, in the form of plenty of cards in his trump suit, four or more, together with a blank suit or singleton where those trumps may be used for ruffing. Such a hand, with almost no high card strength at all, can often be more valuable to your partner than one with a pretty fair amount of high card strength, but a more or less balanced distribution.

South, in the rubber game where this hand was dealt, had played the game only a few months and was at the stage where he critically appraised every move he made, since he was a conscientious chap. After he had led a club, and East was set only one trick in the 4-Hearts doubled, he sheepishly apologized to his partner for having made a mistake in the bidding.

Actually he made two mistakes. But, in the three opportunities he received to take action, the only time he was right was the time he thought he had gone wrong. That was when he raised his partner's 1-Club to 2-Clubs after East's intervening bid of 1-Heart. He branded that raise as improper when he had "only half of an honor trick" in his hand.

His distributional values were so splendid, with five trumps and a singleton, that he should have bid 5-Clubs on his second turn over East's 4-Diamonds, especially since his partner had immediately before that made his powerful cue-bid of the opponents' heart suit at 3-Hearts. He had his third chance when North's double of the 4-Hearts reached him, but he passed when he should have bid 5-Clubs for two reasons—first, his fine fit with the clubs and, second, his lack of defensive strength. The 5-Clubs would have been easy to make, with the loss of just one trick in each major suit.

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

What would you consider the best bidding of this deal after North overcalls 1-Club with 1-Diamond?

Some Red troops (in Korea) have shown such a desire for freedom that they have swum across rivers just to give themselves up. And that water is mighty cold at this time of year.—Lt.-Gen. William M. Hoge, C.O., U. S. 9th Corps.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere appreciation for the many kindnesses extended to us during the illness and following the death of our beloved Grandmother, Mary Priscilla Washington. Especially do we thank the pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral, the Minister and the choir.

THE FAMILY

To All Firemen who gave their assistance and services and sent beautiful floral offerings following the death of our chief, G. E. Mosser, we wish to express sincere appreciation.

Market, By Narrow Margin, Advances; Changes Small

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—The stock market advanced today by a very narrow margin. There were only five more advances than there were declines and most price changes were fractions.

Prices wavered between small losses and equally small gains. But throughout the session there was an underlying tendency toward small gains.

Activity was moderate all day and the volume for the session was 1,710,000 shares.

There was no particular group in which issues were especially strong or exceptionally weak.

There were 444 advances and 439 declines out of a total of 1,171 issues traded. New highs were touched by 53 stocks and ten drooped to new lows.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks squeezed ahead 10 cents to $101.50 for a new 21-year high. The industrial and utilities groups each advanced 10 cents and rails remained unchanged.

Just as there was no outstanding group pricewise, there also was no particular group in which the demand was centered. There were a good number of low priced issues among the more active stocks.

The most active stock of the day was Panhandle Producing and Refining, which sold 35,000 shares and moved up ⅛ at 9⅞. The runnerup was Standard Oil (NJ) — 22,000 shares, up ⅞ at 69½.

There were nine advances and four declines among the 15 most active stocks and two remained unchanged.

There were a few outstanding advances. For instance Amrada Petroleum moved ahead 2¼ at 53½.

Phelps Dodge was up ⅛ at 79⅜; Revere Copper and Brass was ahead a point at 32⅜, and American Woolen gained 1¼ at 42.

But most of the gains and losses were of the fractional variety.

Merry-Go-Round

moon is basically that of getting rockets to fly fast enough to attain an "escape" speed—an escape speed being about 23,000 miles an hour—sufficient to escape from the pull of the earth's gravity.

Another problem was to develop a rocket which could carry atomic power in one part of the ship and a human crew in the other part, yet protect the crew from radioactive rays.

The significant fact is that in recent months, a means has been developed to protect the crew from atomic radiation in the rocket.

Simultaneously, 20th Century-Fox and Julian Blaustein have just put out a new picture "The Day the Earth Stood Still" which gives a fascinating account of what might happen in Washington, D. C., if a space ship arrived here from another planet. The efforts to preserve the peace when not mere countries, but plants are involved, as set forth in this picture, are worth considering.

Conclusion Drawn From War Games

By TOM STONE

FRANKFURT, Germany—(AP)—It doesn't take a military expert to see the big difference between American soldiers in Europe and the GIs in Korea.

Gen. Eisenhower's troops in West Germany are finely trained men ready, willing and able to go against a Soviet aggressor.

But they lack one vital element which turns a man into a field soldier—trial by comb

Market, By Narrow Margin, Advances; Changes Small

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—The stock market advanced today by a very narrow margin. There were only five more advances than there were declines and most price changes were fractions.

Prices wavered between small losses and equally small gains. But throughout the session there was an underlying tendency toward small gains.

Activity was moderate all day and the volume for the session was 1,710,000 shares.

There was no particular group in which issues were especially strong or exceptionally weak.

There were 444 advances and 439 declines out of a total of 1,171 issues traded. New highs were touched by 53 stocks and ten drooped to new lows.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks squeezed ahead 10 cents to $101.50 for a new 21-year high. The industrial and utilities groups each advanced 10 cents and rails remained unchanged.

Just as there was no outstanding group pricewise, there also was no particular group in which the demand was centered. There were a good number of low priced issues among the more active stocks.

The most active stock of the day was Panhandle Producing and Refining, which sold 35,000 shares and moved up ⅛ at 9⅞. The runnerup was Standard Oil (NJ) — 22,000 shares, up ⅞ at 69½.

There were nine advances and four declines among the 15 most active stocks and two remained unchanged.

There were a few outstanding advances. For instance Amrada Petroleum moved ahead 2¼ at 53½.

Phelps Dodge was up ⅛ at 79¾; Revere Copper and Brass was ahead a point at 32¾, and American Woolen gained 1¼ at 42.

But most of the gains and losses were of the fractional variety.

Merry-Go-Round

moon is basically that of getting rockets to fly fast enough to attain an "escape" speed—an escape speed being about 23,000 miles an hour—sufficient to escape from the pull of the earth's gravity.

Another problem was to develop a rocket which could carry atomic power in one part of the ship and a human crew in the other part, yet protect the crew from radioactive rays.

The significant fact is that in recent months, a means has been developed to protect the crew from atomic radiation in the rocket.

Simultaneously, 20th Century-Fox and Julian Blaustein have just put out a new picture "The Day the Earth Stood Still" which gives a fascinating account of what might happen in Washington, D. C., if a space ship arrived here from another planet. The efforts to preserve the peace when not mere countries, but plants are involved, as set forth in this picture, are worth considering.

Gen. 'Ike's' Army Good But Lacks Combat Polish

Conclusion Drawn From War Games

By TOM STONE

FRANKFURT, Germany—(AP)—It doesn't take a military expert to see the big difference between American soldiers in Europe and the GIs in Korea.

Gen. Eisenhower's troops in West Germany are finely trained men ready, willing and able to go against a Soviet aggressor.

But they lack one vital element which turns a man into a field soldier—trial by combat.

That could be seen in the big combined Allied war games which ended this week.

16 Allegany Teachers Will Attend Meeting

Baltimore Conclave To Open Thursday

Sixteen Allegany High School teachers will attend the 84th Annual Convention of Maryland Teachers Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Fifth Regiment Armory in Baltimore.

Principal speaker will be Madame Visaya Lokshi Pandit, Indian ambassador to the United States.

Attending from the local school will be Misses Helen McFerran, Olive B. Simpson, Claire Livesay, Dorothy Willison, Jane Grindel, Anna B. Webster, Anna and Theresa Nicht, Mrs. Martha Hamilton, Mrs. Ethel Bruce, Mrs. Elizabeth Burley, Mrs. Ruth Grahame, S. Lua Syckes, Melvin Robb, Morris O'Neill and Boston Sherwood.

Chorus To Sing

The 400 members of the All-Maryland High School Chorus and the All-Maryland High School Orchestra will participate in clinic rehearsals and perform in the general sessions of the convention.

These pupils are selected by their school music teachers on the basis of local rehearsals of the program selections for the convention. They will stay in Baltimore hotels with their teachers serving as chaperones for the three-day training period.

Mrs. Elaine Brown, director of musical activities at Temple University, will conduct the All-Maryland High School Chorus in rehearsals and in a performance before a general session of the convention Thursday at 2 p. m.

The clinic rehearsals and a program appearance of the All-Maryland High School Orchestra Saturday at 10:30 a. m., will be under the direction of Hendrik Essers, conductor of the Washington Civic Orchestra and instructor of instrumental music, Woodrow Wilson High School, Washington. State music teachers will observe the operation of these rehearsal clinics.

College Band To Play

Also featured on the convention program are appearances by the Baltimore City College Concert Band and the Carroll County Elementary School Chorus.

The Baltimore City College Band, conducted by Donald B. Norton, will appear at the second general

Ullery First To Testify Over Court PA System

Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk, established a precedent yesterday.

He was the first person to testify over the new public address system in the Circuit Court room here. He was the first prosecution witness in the horse race betting case against four men arrested last month in a raid at the Scoreboard, 20 North Mechanic Street.

Court jesters commented after the trial that the county should have delayed installing the new system. Included among the property confiscated from the Scoreboard was a public address system.

Rayon Shipments Show Decline In September

Producers' Stocks Jump 49 Per Cent

Shipments of rayon during September totalled 82,100,000 pounds and showed a marked decline from the 97,900,000 pounds shipped in August, according to the Rayon Organon.

The decrease in shipments was 16 per cent compared to August and 25 per cent under the average monthly level of 109,100,000 pounds in the second quarter of 1951.

Viscose high tenacity yarn shipped in September amounted to 27,100,000 pounds compared to 29,500,000 pounds in August and 28,400,000 pounds in July. Viscose-cupra textile yarn shipments in September were 17,200,000 pounds; August 20,500,000 pounds; July 24,900,000 pounds.

Acetate yarn shipments in September totaled 12,200,000 pounds; August 19,800,000 pounds; July 25,500,000 pounds. Viscose-cupra staple plus tow shipments in September were 16,100,000 pounds; August 17,000,000 pounds; July 16,700,000 pounds. Acetate staple plus tow shipments in September were 8,700,000 pounds; August 11,100,000 pounds; July 11,400,000 pounds.

Rayon stock held by producers at the end of September amounted to 62,900,000 pounds, an increase of 49 per cent compared to August 31.

In the third quarter of 1951, producers' stocks of different types of rayon yarn and staple rose as follows:

Viscose high tenacity stocks at the end of July were 1,900,000 pounds; end of August 1,800,000 pounds; and end of September 1,800,000 pounds. Stocks of viscose-cupra textile yarn were: July 10,500,000 pounds; August 19,200,000 pounds; and September 26,700,000 pounds. End of month acetate yarn stocks were: July 7,600,000 pounds; August 15,100,000 pounds and September 25,600,000 pounds. Staple plus tow stocks were: July 4,900,000 pounds; August 6,100,000 pounds; and September 8,700,000 pounds.

Cases Involving 16 Scheduled For Trial Today

Frostburg Moose Trustees Trial Set

Another busy day in Allegany County Circuit Court is anticipated today with 16 persons scheduled to be tried on various charges.

Two of the cases were carried over from yesterday when the defendants requested jury trials. One involves George G. Kennedy, A. J. Green and George Whitfield, trustees of Frostburg Lodge No. 348, Loyal Order of Moose, charged with allowing the operation of a gaming table and slot machine in the Moose Home, Frostburg.

Burglary Charged

Another is the case against Harry Clenton Jackson, this city, charged with statutory burglary in the alleged theft of $15 from the G and W Lunch Room, North Liberty Street.

Two other men are scheduled to be tried today on charges of assault with intent to murder. George H. House, 64-year-old McCoole man, faces two such charges. He is accused of wounding his son, Lenoy, during an argument October 5 and also with firing on State Police when they came to investigate. The other is Arlie Lease, Pinto, accused of assaulting his son, Reuben T. Lease, July 10.

Today's docket also contains the case of Floyd C. Warnick, 35, Piedmont, W. Va., indicted on two charges of arson and two of unlawful brush burning.

Stolen Goods

Three charges of larceny and receipt of stolen goods in the theft of copper wire from the Celanese Corporation of America also are listed on the docket for today. Leo F. Welsh is charged in all three thefts. Joseph Welsh faces charges in two of the three cases and Russell J. Collins, Marvin Collins, Raymond Eugene Duckworth and George C. Leydig are named in only one of the three indictments.

Two National youths are scheduled for trial today on two charges of stealing mine supplies belonging to the Consolidated Fuel Company which were taken from Klondike Mine No. 17. Facing the charges are Glenn Morgan, 19, and William T. Leatherman, 18.

Today's docket also contains the cases against Reon Glessner, oper-

Three Men Fined $1,000 Each And Jailed In Bookie Case

Scoreboard Operators Change Pleas At Trial

Three men who pleaded guilty yesterday afternoon to horse race betting charges midway through their trial in Allegany County Circuit Court, were fined $1,000 each and sentenced to three months each in the County Jail by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris.

Sentenced after they changed their pleas from not guilty to guilty were Robert E. Shrout, Richard Fox and John E. Jenkins. The state dismissed a similar charge against a fourth man, Robert Pirkey. Police said he had been employed at the Scoreboard, 20 North Mechanic Street, only about a week at the time it was raided Friday, September 21.

Three-Hour Witness

Shrout, Fox and Jenkins changed their pleas after Police Lt. Edwin R. Lilya concluded nearly three hours of testimony. The state had not yet presented all of its case. Lilya was only the third witness.

In the face of the altered pleas, Judge Harris dismissed the jury which had been hearing evidence in the case.

Exhibits submitted in evidence included phone contracts for the Scoreboard, photographs taken by Lt. Lilya at the Scoreboard, charts, racing forms and ticker tape.

Jailed Immediately

The three convicted men were taken immediately from the Court House to the County Jail to begin serving the terms which could continue until mid-January.

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, in his opening statement to the jury yesterday morning, stated that the Scoreboard in its operations as a billiard parlor was "a blind and a sham."

Raid Staged September 21

Fletcher recounted the events leading to a raid on the Scoreboard on September 21 by Lieuts. James E. Van and Lilya and Officer Richard Lashley and Detective Thomas See of the Cumberland Police Department.

The state's attorney said that the raid was made on the basis of information obtained by plain-clothes officers of the Police Department and by statements obtained from a local man. The latter said he had placed bets totaling $28 and when he went to collect money allegedly due him was told that all the horses had lost.

Fletcher also charged that Jenkins was "ostensibly the operator of the Scoreboard, but actually, Shrout was the owner and operator." The state's attorney added this would be proven by evidence obtained in the raid on the place. The raid came after a warrant was obtained in Circuit Court by police.

Judge Harris On Bench

Testifying yesterday morning were Wallace Ullery, city clerk, who told of a license being obtained by the Scoreboard to operate as a pool-room. An official of the C. and P. Telephone Company identified contracts for telephone service to the establishment.

Detective Lieut. Lilya identified photographs taken inside the place and also explained a chart showing the floor plan of the establishment and rooms therein.

Judge Harris presided at the trial. Associate Judge George Henderson stepped down after attorneys for the defendants indicated they might ask for a removal of the case to another county.

Attorneys for the four accused men were Thomas Lohr Richards, this city, and H. G. Shores, of Keyser, W. Va. Assisting Fletcher in prosecuting the case was William H. Geppert.

Yearbook Drive At Fort Hill Gets Underway

Sabre Sales Goal Of 800 Expected

The subscription campaign for Fort Hill's yearbook, the Sabre, started yesterday. The price of ink, engraving, printing, paper and covers have been raised, but the price of the Sabre will be $3, the same as last year. This was possible only because last year's staff made arrangements to have the same company produce the 1952 book at the old rates. Each senior is expected to sell four copies if the goal of 800 Sabre is to be reached.

Faculty, classes, and senior pictures are completed and a few activity groups have been taken. The cover design has been decided upon and is already being produced. A few extra surprises are expected to add to the over-all attractiveness and quality of the 1952 Sabre.

Award To Be Given

According to James C. Engle, faculty adviser, beginning with the 1952 graduating class, a cash award will be made to the member of the Sabre staff who in the estimation of the staff has accomplished outstanding work for the yearbook in either layout, literary, business or the field of photography. Requirements for the award will be two years on the staff and a member of the senior class.

The recipient must also show initiative, and dependability and be cooperative with the other staff members and adviser. The winner will be elected by the staff and approved by the faculty advisers. This award was made possible through the cooperation of the principal, Victor D. Heisey.

The 1952 Sabre is being headed by an executive board consisting of Phyllis Alt, Mary Liedy and Joan Minke. Miss Alt and Miss Liedy co-editors, while Miss Minke is senior class editor.

Betty McLaughlin has charge of layout. Two juniors, Joan Schaidt and Dolores Fahey, and Eleanor Jones, a sophomore are aiding her.

Buchanan Says Chest Drive Success Rests With Citizens

Final Report Dinner Set For Tomorrow

The success of the Community Chest-USO campaign for $105,159 rests with each citizen, declared George L. Buchanan, general chairman of the appeal, as he urged workers to devote the next two days to a determined effort to assure the full goal for the final dinner meeting Wednesday at 6:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

"A dollar cash contribution generally does not represent the ability of employed people to support the worthwhile work of the Chest and the USO," Buchanan stated. "There may be some that feel they cannot give more 'out of pocket' cash and that can certainly be true. Few people, however, would miss a few cents per week for the year round work of the Chest here at home and the USO in the Armed Forces."

Members of the Advance Gifts Committee and other leaders in the campaign met at the YMCA Monday noon to review reports and to appraise work still to be completed in each section.

Breakfast Meeting Today

This morning the group chairmen, and their committeemen meet for breakfast to analyze reports and determine the course of action in each situation.

The standings following the last report in the Classified Section are: Group "A", Earl C. Robertson, chairman, $9,199 or 54 per cent of goal for the group; "B", Henry W. Price, chairman, $4,250 or 46 per cent of goal; "C", John A. Kreiling, chairman, $1,125 or 41 per cent of goal; "D", Robert E. Barnard, chairman, $1,481 or 85 per cent of goal; "E", Richard E. Harman, chairman, $370, which is 50 per cent of goal; "F", James Weber, chairman, $238 or 19 per cent of goal; "G" Aden Eerstine, chairman, $321 or 27 per cent; and "H", Harry Flook, chairman, $230 or 21 per cent of goal.

Goals in each of the groups are based on the subscriptions to last year's Community Chest plus 20 per cent for the additional funds needed this year to finance the nine Chest Agencies and the Cumberland budget of the USO.

"A" Group Reports In

The "A" group includes the firms with the largest employment and these in-plant campaigns are miniature Chest-USO appeals in themselves. Reports in the "A" group include the Celanese Corporation employes who have reported $3,634, the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company employes with a report of $4,417, the Western Maryland Railroad employes with $1,147, and the B. & O. Railroad employes with $207. All of these reports are incomplete yet both the Celanese and Kelly-Springfield groups have now secured more than was raised for the single Chest appeal last year.

County Savings Bonds Sales Total $76,887

Treasury Report Gives Oct. Figures

A total of $76,887 in Series E, F, and G United States Savings Bonds was sold in Allegany County during the first week of this month, according to a report of the Treasury Department for the Maryland Division.

The first Defense Bond drive which began September 3 and ends October 27 realized $288,473, here. The Series E sales amounted to $50,887 and the Series F and G totaled $26,000 in the county.

Thus far 76.4 per cent of the quota of $378,400 has been reached in Allegany County. The current standing of the county is fourth among Maryland counties. Heading the list is Howard with 371 per cent of its quota.

Talbot County sales amounted to 89.4 per cent of quota to take second place while Baltimore County placed third with 80.2 per cent of its goal. In fifth place was Dorchester County with 75.5 per cent of its quota. Garrett County is in twelfth place with 61.4 per cent.

Richard H. Dixon, Jr., state director of the current drive, said, "defense is everybody's job and whether we serve in the armed forces, work in defense plants or make other contributions to our Nation's defense the purpose of the drive is three fold."

The initial purpose, according to Dixon, is the preservation of national economy. Other reasons for the public to back the present campaign are the utilization to the fullest of the tremendous productive

The Weather

Yesterday was a perfect washday for the housewife with a bright sun, a clear sky and a strong breeze to dry her line of clothes. Although yesterday morning was a bit chilly, mid-afternoon temperatures climbed into the high 70s. The few clouds in the sky hovered over the cool drafts of surrounding mountain hollows creating a white halo over the Queen City. The high temperature reported by Constitution Park's weather station was 77 degrees, low was 40, and at 8 p. m. mercury was marked at 61 degrees. Humidity was recorded as a healthy 57 per cent. The Weather Bureau reports some cloudiness for today with little change in temperature.

Orchardist Shot In Right Knee

A 23-year-old Romney, W. Va. orchard worker was admitted to Memorial Hospital last night with gunshot wounds in his right knee resulting from an attempt to enter a Purgittsville home, W. Va. State Police said.

Admitted to the hospital was Charles D. Wolford who was allegedly wounded by Joann Kuykendall at her home near Purgittsville, about 14 miles from Romney on U. S. Route 220.

Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell, Romney, said Miss Kuykendall was being questioned by State Police. Wolford went to the Purgittsville home, according to Russell, and attempted to force his way into the residence. After tearing a screen from a window, Wolford was told by Miss Kuykendall to stay away and she threatened to shoot.

Following his persistence, Miss Kuykendall blasted away with a 22 calibre rifle sending Wolford to the hospital. X-Rays were taken last night, according to attaches, but the extent of the injuries was not reported.

Jury Will View Site Needed For Flood Project

A Federal jury will arrive here today to view the site involved in the first condemnation suit brought in connection with the Cumberland-Ridgeley, W. Va., Flood Control project.

The jury is slated to arrive here about noon to make an inspection of the property at the intersection of Johnson and Paca Streets.

The case, instituted by the Department of Justice, opened in the United States district court in Baltimore yesterday.

Following opening statements by counsel for the government, owner and lessee of the property, the court adjourned until after the jury views the property.

The suit was instituted by government authorities against Theodore F. Shaffer and his wife, Edith Shaffer, of Montgomery County, owners of the property, and James F. Straw, 21 Blackiston Avenue, whose lease on the site and its service station does not expire until 1953.

The jury will be asked to assess the value of the property and then to apportion its award between the owner and the lessee.

The Shaffers purchased the site in 1938 for about $6,000 and later erected a service station on the property.

Births

Repair Steam Line

An emergency crew of the Potomac Edison Company is repairing a section of faulty steam pipe line on Baltimore Street. Completion of work on the eight inch pipe is expected sometime today.

Hit And Run Hearing Held

Edward R. Myers, Clarksburg, W. Va., was sentenced to one year in the Hampshire County jail at Romney and fined $250 before Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell yesterday on hit and run charges which resulted in the death of Clifford F. McDonald, W. Va. State Police said last night.

The 35-year-old trucker appealed his case to the January term of Circuit Court, Russell said. At present Myers is released on $5,000 bond and will be given another hearing Monday before Russell on a charge of negligent homicide.

Myers was apprehended Saturday night in Petersburg, W. Va., a few hours after his pickup vehicle allegedly hit and fatally injured an elderly pedestrian near Romney. McDonald died in Memorial Hospital here as the result of shock and a brain concussion. He also suffered other head injuries and a compound fracture of the left ankle.

Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell, Romney, who presided at an inquest yesterday morning, said a jury ruled "McDonald came to his death as the result of injuries sustained when hit by a pickup truck driven by Myers."

The accident occurred on Route 50, just east of Romney, while McDonald was crossing the highway. Witnesses furnished police with information leading to Myers arrest.

Local Bridge Tournament Won By Pittsburgh Couple

A Pittsburgh couple, Miss Mary Tiernan and George M. Lott, Jr., won the open pair event in the finals of the Mason-Dixon sectional championship bridge tournament Sunday at the Cumberland Country Club.

The tournament was sponsored by the Western Maryland Bridge Association.

Runnersup in the open event were Allan Goldberg and James Surrock, both of Baltimore.

The winners in consolation play were Alfred Brett and Isreal Sky, both of Uniontown, Pa.

Saturday night the mixed pairs event was won by Mrs. Rose Robins and James G. Stone, both of Washington. Stone is a life master player.

Second place in mixed pairs went to Charles Dean and Mrs. Mildred Cowell, both of Uniontown, Pa.

Mrs. Dean Weisbach, Cincinnati, directed the four sessions of the sectional chamionship tournament

Also honored were winners of the intracity arts and crafts show, stunt night, swim meet, and checkers, Chinese checkers and tennis tournaments.

16 Allegany Teachers Will Attend Meeting

Baltimore Conclave To Open Thursday

Sixteen Allegany High School teachers will attend the 84th Annual Convention of Maryland Teachers Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Fifth Regiment Armory in Baltimore.

Principal speaker will be Madame Visaya Lokshi Pandit, Indian ambassador to the United States.

Attending from the local school will be Misses Helen McFerran, Olive B. Simpson, Claire Livesay, Dorothy Willison, Jane Grindel, Anna B. Webster, Anna and Theresa Nicht, Mrs. Martha Hamilton, Mrs. Ethel Bruce, Mrs. Elizabeth Burley, Mrs. Ruth Grahame, S. Lua Syckes, Melvin Robb, Morris O'Neill and Boston Sherwood.

Chorus To Sing

The 400 members of the All-Maryland High School Chorus and the All-Maryland High School Orchestra will participate in clinic rehearsals and perform in the general sessions of the convention.

These pupils are selected by their school music teachers on the basis of local rehearsals of the program selections for the convention. They will stay in Baltimore hotels with their teachers serving as chaperones for the three-day training period.

Mrs. Elaine Brown, director of musical activities at Temple University, will conduct the All-Maryland High School Chorus in rehearsals and in a performance before a general session of the convention Thursday at 2 p. m.

The clinic rehearsals and a program appearance of the All-Maryland High School Orchestra Saturday at 10:30 a. m., will be under the direction of Hendrik Essers, conductor of the Washington Civic Orchestra and instructor of instrumental music, Woodrow Wilson High School, Washington. State music teachers will observe the operation of these rehearsal clinics.

College Band To Play

Also featured on the convention program are appearances by the Baltimore City College Concert Band and the Carroll County Elementary School Chorus.

The Baltimore City College Band, conducted by Donald B. Norton, will appear at the second general

Ullery First To Testify Over Court PA System

Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk, established a precedent yesterday.

He was the first person to testify over the new public address system in the Circuit Court room here. He was the first prosecution witness in the horse race betting case against four men arrested last month in a raid at the Scoreboard, 20 North Mechanic Street.

Court jesters commented after the trial that the county should have delayed installing the new system. Included among the property confiscated from the Scoreboard was a public address system.

Rayon Shipments Show Decline In September

Producers' Stocks Jump 49 Per Cent

Shipments of rayon during September totalled 82,100,000 pounds and showed a marked decline from the 97,900,000 pounds shipped in August, according to the Rayon Organon.

The decrease in shipments was 16 per cent compared to August and 25 per cent under the average monthly level of 109,100,000 pounds in the second quarter of 1951.

Viscose high tenacity yarn shipped in September amounted to 27,100,000 pounds compared to 29,500,000 pounds in August and 28,400,000 pounds in July. Viscose-cupra textile yarn shipments in September were 17,200,000 pounds; August 20,500,000 pounds; July 24,900,000 pounds.

Acetate yarn shipments in September totaled 12,200,000 pounds; August 19,800,000 pounds; July 25,500,000 pounds. Viscose-cupra staple plus tow shipments in September were 16,100,000 pounds; August 17,000,000 pounds; July 16,700,000 pounds. Acetate staple plus tow shipments in September were 8,700,000 pounds; August 11,100,000 pounds; July 11,400,000 pounds.

Rayon stock held by producers at the end of September amounted to 62,900,000 pounds, an increase of 49 per cent compared to August 31.

In the third quarter of 1951, producers' stocks of different types of rayon yarn and staple rose as follows:

Viscose high tenacity stocks at the end of July were 1,900,000 pounds; end of August 1,800,000 pounds; and end of September 1,800,000 pounds. Stocks of viscose-cupra textile yarn were: July 10,500,000 pounds; August 19,200,000 pounds; and September 26,700,000 pounds. End of month acetate yarn stocks were: July 7,600,000 pounds; August 15,100,000 pounds and September 25,600,000 pounds. Staple plus tow stocks were: July 4,900,000 pounds; August 6,100,000 pounds; and September 8,700,000 pounds.

Cases Involving 16 Scheduled For Trial Today

Frostburg Moose Trustees Trial Set

Another busy day in Allegany County Circuit Court is anticipated today with 16 persons scheduled to be tried on various charges.

Two of the cases were carried over from yesterday when the defendants requested jury trials. One involves George G. Kennedy, A. J. Green and George Whitfield, trustees of Frostburg Lodge No. 348, Loyal Order of Moose, charged with allowing the operation of a gaming table and slot machine in the Moose Home, Frostburg.

Burglary Charged

Another is the case against Harry Clenton Jackson, this city, charged with statutory burglary in the alleged theft of $15 from the G and W Lunch Room, North Liberty Street.

Two other men are scheduled to be tried today on charges of assault with intent to murder. George H. House, 64-year-old McCoole man, faces two such charges. He is accused of wounding his son, Lenoy, during an argument October 5 and also with firing on State Police when they came to investigate. The other is Arlie Lease, Pinto, accused of assaulting his son, Reuben T. Lease, July 10.

Today's docket also contains the case of Floyd C. Warnick, 35, Piedmont, W. Va., indicted on two charges of arson and two of unlawful brush burning.

Stolen Goods

Three charges of larceny and receipt of stolen goods in the theft of copper wire from the Celanese Corporation of America also are listed on the docket for today. Leo F. Welsh is charged in all three thefts. Joseph Welsh faces charges in two of the three cases and Russell J. Collins, Marvin Collins, Raymond Eugene Duckworth and George C. Leydig are named in only one of the three indictments.

Two National youths are scheduled for trial today on two charges of stealing mine supplies belonging to the Consolidated Fuel Company which were taken from Klondike Mine No. 17. Facing the charges are Glenn Morgan, 19, and William T. Leatherman, 18.

Today's docket also contains the cases against Reon Glessner, oper-

Scoreboard Operators Change Pleas At Trial

Three men who pleaded guilty yesterday afternoon to horse race betting charges midway through their trial in Allegany County Circuit Court, were fined $1,000 each and sentenced to three months each in the County Jail by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris.

Sentenced after they changed their pleas from not guilty to guilty were Robert E. Shrout, Richard Fox and John E. Jenkins. The state dismissed a similar charge against a fourth man, Robert Pirkey. Police said he had been employed at the Scoreboard, 20 North Mechanic Street, only about a week at the time it was raided Friday, September 21.

Three-Hour Witness

Shrout, Fox and Jenkins changed their pleas after Police Lt. Edwin R. Lilya concluded nearly three hours of testimony. The state had not yet presented all of its case. Lilya was only the third witness.

In the face of the altered pleas, Judge Harris dismissed the jury which had been hearing evidence in the case.

Exhibits submitted in evidence included phone contracts for the Scoreboard, photographs taken by Lt. Lilya at the Scoreboard, charts, racing forms and ticker tape.

Jailed Immediately

The three convicted men were taken immediately from the Court House to the County Jail to begin serving the terms which could continue until mid-January.

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, in his opening statement to the jury yesterday morning, stated that the Scoreboard in its operations as a billiard parlor was "a blind and a sham."

Raid Staged September 21

Fletcher recounted the events leading to a raid on the Scoreboard on September 21 by Lieuts. James E. Van and Lilya and Officer Richard Lashley and Detective Thomas See of the Cumberland Police Department.

The state's attorney said that the raid was made on the basis of information obtained by plain-clothes officers of the Police Department and by statements obtained from a local man. The latter said he had placed bets totaling $28 and when he went to collect money allegedly due him was told that all the horses had lost.

Fletcher also charged that Jenkins was "ostensibly the operator of the Scoreboard, but actually, Shrout was the owner and operator." The state's attorney added this would be proven by evidence obtained in the raid on the place. The raid came after a warrant was obtained in Circuit Court by police.

Judge Harris On Bench

Testifying yesterday morning were Wallace Ullery, city clerk, who told of a license being obtained by the Scoreboard to operate as a poolroom. An official of the C. and P. Telephone Company identified contracts for telephone service to the establishment.

Detective Lieut. Lilya identified photographs taken inside the place and also explained a chart showing the floor plan of the establishment and rooms therein.

Judge Harris presided at the trial. Associate Judge George Henderson stepped down after attorneys for the defendants indicated they might ask for a removal of the case to another county.

Attorneys for the four accused men were Thomas Lohr Richards, this city, and H. G. Shores, of Keyser, W. Va. Assisting Fletcher in prosecuting the case was William H. Geppert.

Yearbook Drive At Fort Hill Gets Underway

Sabre Sales Goal Of 800 Expected

The subscription campaign for Fort Hill's yearbook, the Sabre, started yesterday. The price of ink, engraving, printing, paper and covers have been raised, but the price of the Sabre will be $3, the same as last year. This was possible only because last year's staff made arrangements to have the same company produce the 1952 book at the old rates. Each senior is expected to sell four copies if the goal of 800 Sabre is to be reached.

Faculty, classes, and senior pictures are completed and a few activity groups have been taken. The cover design has been decided upon and is already being produced. A few extra surprises are expected to add to the over-all attractiveness and quality of the 1952 Sabre.

Award To Be Given

According to James C. Engle, faculty adviser, beginning with the 1952 graduating class, a cash award will be made to the member of the Sabre staff who in the estimation of the staff has accomplished outstanding work for the yearbook in either layout, literary, business or the field of photography. Requirements for the award will be two years on the staff and a member of the senior class.

The recipient must also show initiative, and dependability and be cooperative with the other staff members and adviser. The winner will be elected by the staff and approved by the faculty advisers. This award was made possible through the cooperation of the principal, Victor D. Heisey.

The 1952 Sabre is being headed by an executive board consisting of Phyllis Alt, Mary Liedy and Joan Minke. Miss Alt and Miss Liedy co-editors, while Miss Minke is senior class editor.

Betty McLaughlin has charge of layout. Two juniors, Joan Schaidt and Dolores Fahey, and Eleanor Jones, a sophomore are aiding her.

Buchanan Says Chest Drive Success Rests With Citizens

Final Report Dinner Set For Tomorrow

The success of the Community Chest-USO campaign for $105,159 rests with each citizen, declared George L. Buchanan, general chairman of the appeal, as he urged workers to devote the next two days to a determined effort to assure the full goal for the final dinner meeting Wednesday at 6:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

"A dollar cash contribution generally does not represent the ability of employed people to support the worthwhile work of the Chest and the USO," Buchanan stated. "There may be some that feel they cannot give more 'out of pocket' cash and that can certainly be true. Few people, however, would miss a few cents per week for the year round work of the Chest here at home and the USO in the Armed Forces."

Members of the Advance Gifts Committee and other leaders in the campaign met at the YMCA Monday noon to review reports and to appraise work still to be completed in each section.

Breakfast Meeting Today

This morning the group chairmen and their committeemen meet for breakfast to analyze reports and determine the course of action in each situation.

The standings following the last report in the Classified Section are: Group "A", Earl C. Robertson, chairman, $9,199 or 54 per cent of goal for the group; "B", Henry W. Price, chairman, $4,250 or 46 per cent of goal; "C", John A. Kreiling, chairman, $1,125 or 41 per cent of goal; "D", Robert E. Barnard, chairman, $1,481 or 85 per cent of goal; "E", Richard E. Harman, chairman, $370, which is 50 per cent of goal; "F", James Weber, chairman, $238 or 19 per cent of goal; "G" Aden Eerstine, chairman, $321 or 27 per cent; and "H", Harry Flook, chairman, $230 or 21 per cent of goal.

Goals in each of the groups are based on the subscriptions to last year's Community Chest plus 20 per cent for the additional funds needed this year to finance the nine Chest Agencies and the Cumberland budget of the USO.

"A" Group Reports In

The "A" group includes the firms with the largest employment and these in-plant campaigns are miniature Chest-USO appeals in themselves. Reports in the "A" group include the Celanese Corporation employes who have reported $3,634, the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company employes with a report of $4,417, the Western Maryland Railroad employes with $1,147, and the B. & O. Railroad employes with $207. All of these reports are incomplete yet both the Celanese and Kelly-Springfield groups have now secured more than was raised for the single Chest appeal last year.

County Savings Bonds Sales Total $76,887

Treasury Report Gives Oct. Figures

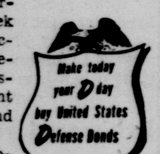
A total of $76,887 in Series E, F, and G United States Savings Bonds was sold in Allegany County during the first week of this month, according to a report of the Treasury Department for the Maryland Division.



The first Defense Bond drive which began September 3 and ends October 27 realized $288,473, here. The Series E sales amounted to $50,887 and the Series F and G totaled $26,000 in the county.

Thus far 76.4 per cent of the quota of $378,400 has been reached in Allegany County. The current standing of the county is fourth among Maryland counties. Heading the list is Howard with 371 per cent of its quota.

Talbot County sales amounted to 89.4 per cent of quota to take second place while Baltimore County placed third with 80.2 per cent of its goal. In fifth place was Dorchester County with 75.5 per cent of its quota. Garrett County is in twelfth place with 61.4 per cent.

Richard H. Dixon, Jr., state director of the current drive, said, "defense is everybody's job and whether we serve in the armed forces, work in defense plants or make other contributions to our Nation's defense the purpose of the drive is three fold."

The initial purpose, according to Dixon, is the preservation of national economy. Other reasons for the public to back the present campaign are the utilization to the fullest of the tremendous productive

The Weather

Yesterday was a perfect washday for the housewife with a bright sun, a clear sky and a strong breeze to dry her line of clothes. Although yesterday morning was a bit chilly, mid-afternoon temperatures climbed into the high 70s. The few clouds in the sky hovered over the cool drafts of surrounding mountain hollows creating a white halo over the Queen City. The high temperature reported by Constitution Park's weather station was 77 degrees, low was 40, and at 8 p. m. mercury was marked at 61 degrees. Humidity was recorded as a healthy 57 per cent. The Weather Bureau reports some cloudiness for today with little change in temperature.

Orchardist Shot In Right Knee

A 23-year-old Romney, W. Va. orchard worker was admitted to Memorial Hospital last night with gunshot wounds in his right knee resulting from an attempt to enter a Purgittsville home, W. Va. State Police said.

Admitted to the hospital was Charles D. Wolford who was allegedly wounded by Joann Kuykendall at her home near Purgittsville, about 14 miles from Romney on U. S. Route 220.

Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell, Romney, said Miss Kuykendall was being questioned by State Police. Wolford went to the Purgittsville home, according to Russell, and attempted to force his way into the residence. After tearing a screen from a window, Wolford was told by Miss Kuykendall to stay away and she threatened to shoot.

Following his persistence, Miss Kuykendall blasted away with a 22 calibre rifle sending Wolford to the hospital. X-Rays were taken last night, according to attaches, but the extent of the injuries was not reported.

Jury Will View Site Needed For Flood Project

A Federal jury will arrive here today to view the site involved in the first condemnation suit brought in connection with the Cumberland-Ridgeley, W. Va., Flood Control project.

The jury is slated to arrive here about noon to make an inspection of the property at the intersection of Johnson and Paca Streets.

The case, instituted by the Department of Justice, opened in the United States district court in Baltimore yesterday.

Following opening statements by counsel for the government, owner and lessee of the property, the court adjourned until after the jury views the property.

The suit was instituted by government authorities against Theodore F. Shaffer and his wife, Edith Shaffer, of Montgomery County, owners of the property, and James F. Straw, 21 Blackiston Avenue, whose lease on the site and its service station does not expire until 1953.

The jury will be asked to assess the value of the property and then to apportion its award between the owner and the lessee.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil L. Abe, 243 West Side Avenue, Hagerstown, announce the birth of a daughter Sunday at Washington County Hospital there. Mrs. Abe is the former Miss Mary Lee Weber, R. N., this city.

Memorial Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Winebrenner, Bowling Green, a daughter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack L. VanMeter, 16 John Street, Ridgeley, a daughter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton McDonald, Little Orleans, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Welton A. Carr, RFD 1, Gormania, W. Va., a son yesterday.

Repair Steam Line

An emergency crew of the Potomac Edison Company is repairing a section of faulty steam pipe line on Baltimore Street. Completion of work on the eight inch pipe is expected sometime today.

Hit And Run Hearing Held

Edward R. Myers, Clarksburg, W. Va., was sentenced to one year in the Hampshire County jail at Romney and fined $250 before Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell yesterday on hit and run charges which resulted in the death of Clifford F. McDonald, W. Va. State Police said last night.

The 35-year-old trucker appealed his case to the January term of Circuit Court, Russell said. At present Myers is released on $5,000 bond and will be given another hearing Monday before Russell on a charge of negligent homicide.

Myers was apprehended Saturday night in Petersburg, W. Va., a few hours after his pickup vehicle allegedly hit and fatally injured an elderly pedestrian near Romney. McDonald died in Memorial Hospital here as the result of shock and a brain concussion. He also suffered other head injuries and a compound fracture of the left ankle.

Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell, Romney, who presided at an inquest yesterday morning, said a jury ruled "McDonald came to his death as the result of injuries sustained when hit by a pickup truck driven by Myers."

The accident occurred on Route 50, just east of Romney, while McDonald was crossing the highway. Witnesses furnished police with information leading to Myers arrest.

Mosner Joins Reserve Bank

John H. Mosner, Jr., 213 Central Avenue, has accepted a position with the Federal Reserve Bank in Baltimore. He will report to Baltimore next Monday.

Mosner is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Mosner, 743 Fayette Street. His father is cashier of the Second National Bank.

A 1943 graduate of LaSalle High School, Mosner served two years in in the Navy during World War II. He was formerly employed at the Second National Bank.

After his graduation from Baltimore Institute of Accounting, Mosner was employed by the Treasury Department as a bank examiner in the Comptroller General's Office in Washington. He has held that position for the past two years until his resignation last week.

Mosner and his wife and son plan to move to Baltimore soon.

WEST REBUFFED BY EGYPT, IRAN

Allies Closing In On Big Red Base

Parliament Cuts Ties With British

CAIRO, Oct. 15 (AP)—Egypt rejected the Western Power plan to make the Suez an international defense bastion tonight and her parliament slashed old ties with Britain for defense and for rule of the vast Sudan.

Wildly cheering these historic acts, parliament voted that the British must get out of the Suez Canal area—and also the Sudan where they have ruled jointly with Egypt for more than half a century.

Official sources in London said Britain would ignore the one-sided denunciation of Suez and Sudan treaty rights and would use force if necessary against any eviction efforts.

Against a backstop of tumult inside and outside the building, parliament moved overwhelmingly to make the necessary constitutional changes to absorb the Sudan and proclaim King Farouk I the king of Egypt and the Sudan.

U. S. Due To Support British

The actual proclamation of his expanded title and other details were deferred until tomorrow to give Farouk time to sign the preliminary decrees.

Annexation of the Sudan would add nearly a million square miles and 8,000,000 people to Egyptian sovereignty and triple the land area of Farouk's realm. He would reign from the Mediterranean nearly to the equator and control a long Sudanese front on the Red Sea.

(American officials in Washington indicated the United States would support Britain if she decides to keep troops in the Suez Canal area. They indicated the Western Powers would press forward with their plan to create a Middle East defense command as proposed to Egypt Saturday by the U. S., Britain, France and Turkey. These officials said it was unlikely an uncooperative Egypt could qualify for American Arms aid.)

British Troops Stand By

Troubleshooter British troop formations, including parachuters in brigade strength, are standing by in Cyprus, Malta and Aden in readiness for any need in the Suez and Sudan.

Thus Britain's problems multiplied in the effort to maintain a foothold in the Middle East stamping ground of the Victorian and post-Victorian empire builders.

Iran's oil is gone. Britain lost her best friend and ally in the Middle East when King Abdullah was assassinated last summer. Egypt now has moved to erase the last British influence.

Booms Warm Up For Taft And 'Ike'

[By The Associated Press]

Pre-campaign fireworks were set off yesterday as separate Republican booms warmed up for Sen. Robert A. Taft, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and California's Gov. Earl Warren.

Taft is widely expected to announce his candidacy at a news conference (11 a. m., E. S. T.), today.

At Supreme Allied headquarters in Europe, Gen. Eisenhower received an Ike-for-president button with a smile but without any comment on his political intentions.

Aides said Eisenhower has deep political convictions, but is anxious to avoid any statement that might interfer with the task of bolstering Europe's defenses.

Lester Allen, chief editorial writer for the Boston Post, presented the lapel button to Ike during a luncheon attended by 16 American newsmen at Eisenhower's headquarters.

The button carried the legend "Be right with Ike" and bore a picture of the five-star general against a red, white and blue background.

Mrs. Nancy Sinatra Files Divorce Suit

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Oct. 15 (INS)—Mrs. Nancy Sinatra paved the way for the marriage of Crooner Frank Sinatra to Film Star Ava Gardner by filing suit for divorce today in Santa Monica Superior Court.

She based her suit on a charge of "mental cruelty" in the accepted Hollywood tradition.

Sinatra has announced he plans to marry Ava as soon as he is free to do so.

U. N. Still To Demand Warfront Truce Line

Ridgway To Give Correspondents All Possible News About Parleys

TOKYO, Tuesday, Oct. 16 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said today the United Nations still would demand a cease-fire along the present battle line if truce talks are resumed.

The supreme Allied commander, in a news conference, announced plans to disclose to Allied correspondents all "substantiative matter" in the truce talks as soon as it is available to the U. N. command delegation.

HE BLAMES "JOE"—C. Donald Furlow, 47, a trusted postal employe for 25 years, was free on $12,000 bail today after he was charged with stealing $85,000 from registered mail. Furlow was quoted by Postal Inspector Harry Kimbell as saying he didn't steal the money, but that he got it from a friend he knew only as "Joe" and that he gave "Joe" a receipt for the money. (AP Wirephoto)

He said his headquarters had not been giving enough information about the armistice talks.

Ridgway said his decision to make all news possible available to U. N. correspondents was reached because "we have been leaning over backwards not to publish matters" pertaining to the truce talks.

He said Communist correspondents had been given more information but he declared theirs was tinged with malicious propaganda.

Ridgway added that his decision did not reflect a belief that the Communists were insincere in wanting an armistice.

Regarding a cease-fire line which was the issue in debate when the truce talks broke up last Aug. 23, Ridgway said that "within our capability we want ground that we can defend."

"In principle," he said, "we want a cease-fire line more or less along the present battle line."

"The purpose of the Eighth Army," Ridgway added, "is still to repel aggression."

He said Gen. James A. Van Fleet's command would continue to drive forward in Korea and to take as much ground as possible.

Ridgway also disclosed that Allied airmen who strafed the neutral Panmunjom area Friday had been reprimanded. A Korean youth was killed and another was wounded in the strafing.

German Election Commission Gets Support Of U. S.

Would Make Check Throughout Nation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—The State Department said today the United States would support creation of a United Nations commission to determine whether nationwide elections in Germany are possible.

It was emphasized that a commission of that kind would have to have power to make inspections in both Eastern and Western Germany.

"Such an investigation of the Soviet Zone is obviously indispensible before elections can be held," Press Official Michael J. McDermott said.

At the same time, the State Department made public a letter the three Allied high commissioners in Germany have sent to West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer which informed him of the Western attitude.

Adenauer had proposed setting up "a neutral international commission" under U. N. control to check on whether free elections are possible throughout all Germany.

In his acompanying remarks, McDermott told a news conference:

"The United States is prepared to support in the United Nations a proposal for the making of such an investigation by a United Nations commission simultaneously in the federal republic and in the Soviet zone."

McDermott said nothing about which country would make such a proposal before the U. N.

His statement and the Allied High Commission's letter to Adenauer obviously were intended as a reply to the East German Communist regime's call for nationwide elections throughout Germany.

Reds Demand 'Cast Iron' Neutrality Agreement

TOKYO, Tuesday, Oct. 16 (AP)—The Red China radio today called for a "cast iron" agreement on the neutrality of the site for resuming talks on a Korean cease-fire. It insisted that Allied aircraft be barred from the area.

Allied and Communist liaison officers met at 10 a. m. today (8 p. m., EST, Monday) for their fifth session at Panmunjom seeking to draw neutral zones for the armistice talks.

Panmunjom is the proposed new site for renewed truce conferences.

The major question is the size of the neutral zone around Kaesong, former location of the negotiations. The Reds want the five-mile neutral zone retained while the Allies want it reduced to 3,000 yards. Panmunjom is a Red outpost six miles east of Kaesong on the fringe of the neutral zone.

Bomber Crashes In Japan, Killing Eight U. S. Fliers

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 15 (AP)—A B-29 bomber returning from a combat mission over Korea crashed in Japan Sunday, killing eight men and seriously injuring three others, Fairchild Air Force Base announced today.

The Superfort was attached to the 98th Bomb Group which was formerly based here. The 98th maintains an administrative headquarters element at Fairchild. Its bombers went to Japan last year.

The Spokane base had no details of the crash. The B-29 joined the 97th as a replacement in Japan and had not been based here, Fairchild said.

Plane, 16 Aboard, Missing

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Oct. 15 (AP)—A South African Airways airliner with 16 persons aboard was missing today on a flight from Port Elizabeth to Durban.

Yanks May Be Able To Quit Europe By '54, Editors Told

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED POWERS IN EUROPE, Oct. 15. (AP)—A group of visiting American editors was told today that the withdrawal of American troops from Europe might begin in late 1953 or early 1954 if Western Europe's defensive buildup continues at the present rate.

The 14 newsmen visited this headquarters to start a tour of nations receiving mutual defense aid from the United States. No official source could be identified with the information they obtained.

The editors were told that in a matter of two and a half or three years Western Europe should be in a good defensive position, and the withdrawal of American forces might begin then.

This possibility, it was understood, depends upon a continuation of the buildup at its present rate—and also whether Russian and Communist power appears more menacing by then.

Meanwhile, staff officers said today, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is counting heavily on aircraft carriers to compensate for a shortage of airfields in Western Europe and the Middle East should war break out.

The supreme commander went to Naples, Italy, late today to spend three days with the U. S. Sixth Fleet during its maneuvers in the Mediterranean.

Foe Pushed From Two More Hills

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Tuesday, Oct. 16 (AP)—Three Allied divisions today captured two more hills in their central front offensive and were within easy artillery range of Kumsong, the Reds' central front assembly area some 30 miles north of parallel 38.

The fourth day of the attack on a 22-mile front brought the United Nations line forward five and one half miles from its jumping off point on the morning of Oct. 13.

AP Photographer Bob Schutz reported from the front that Chinese resistance stiffened yesterday but two Red probing attacks were repulsed during the night.

Chinese artillery and mortars, however, poured out about 4,000 rounds of fire daily, he said.

American and South Korean infantrymen were driving ahead in hilly country but there still was no sign of the "traditional Communist diehard stands," Schutz said.

Thirty-one hill positions have fallen to the advancing United Nations forces in four days.

In the first three days of the offensive the Allies fighters won nearly 100 square miles of Communist Korean territory.

The U. S. Second Division's 38th Regiment Monday successfully stormed the highest mountain peak between Heartbreak Ridge and the Pukhan River on the eastern front. The crest towers 4,000 feet high. The gain was announced as the North Korean army communique boasted that Red troops had annihilated the 38th Regiment.

The strongest Red resistance appeared to be almost directly south of Kumsong, where the veteran U. S. 24th Division and the Colombian battalion were attacking. The Colombians, fighting their first major action, won praise from Allied officers as "tough, hardy infantry."

Commenting on the drive, an Allied officer said:

"It's like wading out into the water. The farther you go, the deeper it gets."

Schutz said the 24th Division claimed 760 Chinese casualties Monday, including 261 counted dead.

Although Chinese infantry resistance was still comparatively light, Red artillery continued heavy. An average of 4,000 rounds fell on Allied positions each day since the attack began.

Allied officers told Schutz that the Chinese are believed to have committed all their local reserves and have only three regiments left to plug holes along the 22-mile central front.

Over-Optimism Is Hit By Lovett

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 15 (AP)—Defense Secretary Robert A. Lovett declared today the United States does not yet have a stockpile of atomic super-weapons which can bring a cheap victory in war. And he warned the nation against any foolhardy optimism over new weapons.

He told the American Legion national convention there is grave danger the American people are pinning their hopes for security on new weapons which haven't even been proved to be reliable.

He added such over-optimism can lead to pessimism and despair.

Lovett spoke after President Truman had called on the Legion to support a program of GI benefits for the veterans of the Korean war.

Mr. Truman's request was in a letter to Legion National Commander Erle Cocke, Jr., which said the GI Bill of Rights of 1944 "points the way we should go in providing benefits for these new veterans."

Moran Is Indicted

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—James J. Moran, bosom pal of former Mayor William O'Dwyer, was indicted today as alleged master mind of a $500,000 a year city-wide shakedown racket.

He was named in 51 counts of extortion and one count of conspiracy, accused of directing a squeeze in fuel oil men who needed city permits to install equipment.

At the time the alleged shakedown reached its height, Moran was O'Dwyer's hand-picked first deputy fire commissioner.

Cortege Leaves Mine Blast Scene

Five ambulances, carrying the bodies of 10 miners killed in a gas explosion at the Trotter Coal Company near Morgantown, W. Va., yesterday, move out slowly from the mine entrance en route to the morgue. A state policeman and an unidentified miner prepare to open a traffic lane.

Gas Explosion In West Va. Mine Claims 10 Lives

Bodies Recovered; Investigation Opens

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 15 (AP)—A gas explosion killed 10 men in a coal mine today just as they were about to start for the surface after working an overnight shift.

Wiped out by the blast was an entire crew working in a section two and one-half miles underground from the entrance of the Trotter Coal Company's Bunker mine, about 10 miles northwest of here.

Thirty or 40 more miners were at work in other sections of the mine which were not affected. They were evacuated to the surface immediately after the explosion at 7:05 a. m. (EST).

Cause Of Blast Unknown

Company President James F. Trotter of Morgantown said the accident was the first major one at the mine since it opened in 1918.

The State Mines Department at Charleston said, however, that three men suffered burns at the Bunker mine in a "gas ignition" on September 13. The operation employs a total of about 250 men.

Trotter said "the cause of the explosion was unknown, but a broken cable or almost anything else could have touched off the gas."

The explosion followed a "normal fall" where the men were cutting down coal at the working face, Trotter said. He added that this apparently opened up a gas pocket.

Bodies Of Victims Recovered

Nearly four hours passed before rescue crews, their progress hampered by an accumulation of gas after the explosion, could reach the scene and locate the bodies of all the dead miners. The last bodies were brought to the surface early in the afternoon.

None of the 10 victims was badly burned. They apparently were killed outright by the concussion.

State and federal mine officials, including State Mines Department Chief Arch J. Alexander, began an immediate investigation on the scene.

Nurse Sought In Case Of Abducted Infant

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Oct. 15 (AP)—Police asked the FBI today to locate a practical nurse who disappeared Saturday night shortly after a newborn baby was stolen from St. Anthony Hospital.

The nurse was fired by a Michigan City doctor Saturday night but he refused to say why. He reported the nurse told him she wanted off early to take a trip. She left his office, about a mile from the hospital, at 4:15 p. m.

Police said the nurses' daughter found a note saying she had gone to Milwaukee. The daughter said she didn't know her mother was planning a trip.

Stratofreighter With 11 Aboard Presumed Ditched

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass., Oct. 14 (AP)—Westover Air Force Base said tonight that a Military Air Transport Service Stratofreighter missing since leaving the Azores before dawn, was "presumed" ditched in the Atlantic.

The base said the big MATS plane had only enough gas to stay in the air until 6:20 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time). It carried an 11-man crew and no passengers.

The craft, Westover said, apparently sent out an SOS at 2.56 p. m. Kindley Air Force Base at Bermuda reported it picked up a call from an unidentified source at that time.

Rescue craft swarmed out from several sources in an effort to locate the plane.

Probers Delay Vote On Jessup

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—A Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee put off a vote tonight on Ambassador Philip C. Jessup's nomination as a United Nations delegate to give him a second chance to reply to charges against him.

The delay underscored a possibility that Congress may adjourn without any Senate action on the controversial nomination.

Jessup tonight advised Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala), the subcommittee chairman, that he is "eager to set the record straight on Stassen charges," but that he would have to have to study the committee's record.

Because of a New York speaking engagement tomorrow, he asked Sparkman's permission to appear Wednesday.

Sparkman said Jessup is "entitled to be heard" although his request "certainly appears to blow up our plans to vote tomorrow."

Sparkman said the subcommittee decided Jessup be given an opportunity to reply to new charges levelled at him today by Harold E. Stassen. Stassen testified today that even if Jessup did not attend a White House conference on a proposal to stop U. S. aid to the Chinese nationalists, he certainly had a hand in it. Jessup denied it.

Taft Asks All-Out GOP Drive To Win 'Crucial' Election

Senator May Toss Hat In Ring Today

DETROIT, Oct. 15 (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) told Michigan Republicans tonight the next presidential election will be the most crucial in "our times."

In a scorching attack on the Truman administration, Taft said it was proceeding in its efforts to halt the spread of communism with "no intelligent program" and with plans that "change from day to day."

He urged the people to elect a Republican administration which "alone offers hope and leadership."

Taft's address was prepared for delivery before a Founders' Day banquet of the Michigan Republican Party, with tickets at $100 a plate. A total of about 1,500 persons attended.

May Announce Candidacy

The Ohio Republican's address had been billed as a major one, and some observers thought he might announce his intentions for the forthcoming presidential campaign. But Taft took off some of the pressure with an announcement that he would hold a press conference in Washington tomorrow morning.

There was speculation that tomorrow's announcement would deal with his possible candidicy.

Far East Policy Assailed

"Never in our times will we see as crucial an election as that of this year," he declared. "You must decide then whether we continue to its logical conclusion our present policies to totalitarian government and war, or whether we turn again to American principals and resume our progress in freedom and in peace."

Slapping at the Truman administration for "the disastrous policy of Yalta and Potsdam," Taft said the administration caused the loss of China by "turning Manchuria over to Soviet Russia."

Terming the Korean war a "tragic example of the results of wavering and weakness," he again questioned President Truman's authority to send American troops into action.

Americans, Canadians Greet Princess, Duke At Windsor

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 15 (AP)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh thrilled possibly half a million Canadians and Americans in this border city today before flying into Canada's gold-mining back country.

And what impressed them most was the friendly relations between the two countries separated here only by the peaceful Detroit River.

Estimates of the crowd that lined the 21-mile procession route to see the next ruler of the British Empire and her husband ranged from 200,000 to 500,000.

The royal couple, continuing their gruelling minute-by-minute schedule made five major platform appearances along the route. Then they boarded a silver, blue and red four-engined transport plane of the Royal Canadian Air Force and headed for their next stop at Kapuskasing, Ont., some 400 air miles away in Northern Ontario.

Highlight of the three-hour-plus Windsor tour was an international ceremony on the river front, only few thousand feet from Detroit.

With Detroit's skyline providing a backdrop on a brilliantly clear, warm day, the princess and duke met the first American officials. In fact, Michigan's Gov. G. Mennen Williams presented the duke a bow tie from his own big collection.

Will Discuss Only Sales, Compensation

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—Iran's aged and ailing premier, Mohammed Mossadegh, told the U. N. Security Council today to keep hands off in the British-Iranian oil dispute and let Iran shape its own economic destiny.

At the same time, he barred any further direct negotiations with Britain except on two questions: Compensation for British investments in the now nationalized Anglo-Iranian Oil Company and possible sale of oil to Britain.

Mossadegh, speaking slowly and calmly in French, warned:

"We will not be coerced whether by foreign governments or by international authorities."

No Emotional Oratory

He displayed none of the emotional oratory nor the outbursts of sobbing which frequently have marked his speeches on oil nationalization in his own country. The gist of his argument was that the oil question was an internal problem and, therefore, not within the jurisdiction of the Security Council.

Mossadegh spoke immediately after Britain's veteran diplomat, Sir Gladwyn Jebb, appealed to him in a short speech "not to take up an aggressively nationalistic and, indeed, isolationist attitude." Jebb said Britain is seeking an agreement at least on a provisional scheme enabling the flow of oil to be resumed without prejudice to an ultimate agreed solution of the dispute.

After a two-hour session, devoted mostly to Mossadegh's speech, the council adjourned until 3 p. m. (E. S. T.) tomorrow.

Exploitation Changed

At the start of his speech, the premier said his government feels that the Security Council "has no jurisdiction to hear this complaint." He repeated his charges, often made in Tehran, that the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company had exploited his country and its people.

He said Iran had adopted a conciliatory attitude at the beginning of the long negotiations with Britain but that this attitude "proved fruitless and resulted only in a waste of time."

Jebb took the floor at the beginning of the session to explain Britain's toned-down resolution, which had been revised to drop any condemnation of Iran. In its present form, it merely calls upon the two parties to resume negotiations and to refrain from any actions which might aggravate the situation.

Truman Offers To Talk Peace With Russians

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Oct. 15 (AP)—President Truman pointedly called upon Soviet Russia today to agree upon disarmament terms which would "free the world from the scourge of atomic warfare."

He again offered to "sit down with the Soviet Union" and other nations to work out agreements to relieve mankind of "the horror of another world war" and provide the basis for "a durable peace."

Mr. Truman, speaking at groundbreaking ceremonies of multi-million dollar buildings of a new and expanded Baptist Wake Forest College here, steered entirely clear of past controversies with southern Democrats over civil rights and other "Fair Deal legislation."

He pitched his address largely on foreign policy as the aftermath of his recent announcement of Russia's explosion of a second atomic bomb.

The President spoke from a flag draped improvished stand on the campus of the big Baptist College that will be moved here from Wake Forest, N. C. The enthusiastic crowd was estimated by Jasper Memory, professor of education, at close to 20,000 persons.

American foreign policy the President declared, is "based upon the hope that it will be possible to live, without a war, in the same world as the Soviet Union—if the free nations have adequate defenses."

In his first major foreign policy talk since Russia's explosion of a second atomic bomb Mr. Truman renewed his suggestion that control of atomic energy be placed under control of a United Nations commission with authority to keep tab on all nations.

Rail Benefits Bill OK'd

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—The Senate today approved by voice vote a bill increasing railroad retirement benefits by 15 per cent.

The bill now goes to the House, which plans to start consideration tomorrow of a rival measure.

Trolley Radio Case Accepted By High Court

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15. (AP)—The Supreme Court agreed today to look over a lower court decision saying that people riding street cars and buses shouldn't have to listen to commercial radio broadcasts.

And, in an action denounced by Justice Jackson as "a dangerous and novel importation into American criminal law," it refused to consider the appeal of a Texas constable convicted of beating a negro prisoner.

Jackson said the danger arose from the high court allowing to stand the trial court's statement that intent to violate a federal constitutional guarantee "is presumed and inferred from the result of the action" complained of. The negro was beaten after he had been arrested when his car struck the constable's dog.

In still another case, the Supreme Court ordered a hearing for four negroes seeking admission to the University of Tennessee. The four asked the court to overturn a decision by a three-judge district court at Knoxville.

The streetcar radio case came up from a Court of Appeals decision against Capital Transit Co., here; other cities have similar broadcasts.

Dock Workers' Wildcat Strike Hits Army Piers

NEW YORK, Oct. 15. (AP)—A swift dock workers rebellion today tied up five Brooklyn Army piers that channel vital troops and arms to Korea and other American military outposts.

The wildcat strike caught four Army ships in port, ships that reportedly carry "everything from beans to cannons."

Union leaders, their stevedore members out of hand, blamed Communists for endangering the Army's world-wide lifeline.

More than 1,000 dock workers quit as a contract revolt spread like wildfire along the busy piers of Manhattan and Brooklyn. They were disgruntled with terms of a new contract.

Eight non-military piers also were affected.

Street Is Repaired

Greene Street was closed for a short time yesterday afternoon while additional repairs were made on the area between Lee and Allegany Streets. The street was opened last week, immediately after flood control work was completed, with a covering of gravel and oil.

Jesse Jones, In Memoirs, Says FDR 'Total Politician'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP) — Jesse Jones says Franklin D. Roosevelt was a ruthless "total politician" who was eager to get this country into World War II so that it would assure his election for a third term.

Furthermore, Jones says in his memoirs, released today, Mr. Roosevelt once tried to get the government to buy the Empire State building at what Jones considered an inflated price—to bail Al Smith and other Democratic bigwigs out of a financial hole.

A self-styled "country boy," Jones headed the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for 12 tumultous years and was a wartime secretary of commerce.

He was ousted in 1945, and obviously this break left some hurts and some scars. Mr. Roosevelt replaced Jones with former Vice-President Henry A. Wallace.

Jones' opinion of the man who succeeded him: Wallace, he says, was an incompetent meddler with "screwball" ideas.

A banker, a financial wizard and owner of the Houston Chronicle, Jones now is 77. But the years haven't mellowed him.

Jones came to Washington at the depths of his depression. Under his guidance, the RFC loaned or spent $50,000,000,000 (which, incidentally, gave him his title for his book, "Fifty Billion Dollars.")

Jones' opinions of Roosevelt, his longtime boss, are scattered throughout the book. Sample quotes:

"He had no intention of leaving the White House until voted out—or carried out."

"Regardless of his oft-repeated statement, 'I hate war,' he was eager to get into the fighting since that would insure a third term."

"In the beginning his purposes were undoubtedly high; but as the years went by and the mill seemed to require a new kind of grist to keep him in the driver's seat, he never hesitated to provide it."

Hurricane Spotted Off Georgia Coast

MIAMA. Fla., Oct. 15 (AP)—A new hurricane sprang up in the Atlantic off the Georgia coast today, while the tropical storm that died down in the Caribbean Sea appeared to be re-forming.

A Navy hurricane hunter plane discovered the Atlantic storm this afternoon 400 miles east of the coast between Jacksonville, Fla., and Brunswick, Ga.

Strongest winds were estimated at 70 to 80 miles an hour near the center and gales extended outward 300 miles to the north and northeast.

Work On Ships Halted Due To Steel Quota Cut

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—The Maritime Administration today ordered the suspension of construction of 14 fast "Mariner class" cargo ships in six shipyards because of cuts in the steel quota for shipbuilding.

The original construction program called for 35 of the ships to be built. Congress authorized $350,000,000 for the work.

Ten keels already have been laid.

The Defense Production Administration authorized only 100,000 tons of steel for ocean-going vessels in the first quarter of 1952. The Maritime Administration had originally asked 183,000 tons, then scaled the request to 135,000.

Revelation Of Visions Surprises Vatican

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 15 (AP) — Sources close to Pope Pius XII said today the announcement at Fatima, Portugal, that the pontiff had had visions of the Virgin Mary during the 1950 Holy Year had struck Vatican circles "like lightning."

Except for a very few persons, the news had been a closely guarded secret.

The revelation was made at Fatima Saturday by Federico Cardinal Tedeschini, archpriest of St. Peter's Basilica and the pope's delegate.

Insofar as the Vatican was concerned, all other news today was relegated to secondary importance. But little official or semi-official elaboration was available.

Vatican sources agreed that Cardinal Tedeschini's revelation could only have been made with the consent and permission of the pontiff.

Group To Probe State's Purchase Of Race Track

BALTIMORE, Oct. 15 (AP)—A Legislative Council was named today to review the state purchase of Havre De Grace race track for a national Guard camp.

Sen. Della (D-Balto 6th), council president, named Sens. Turnbull (D-Baltimore) and Turner (D-Queen Annes) and Delegate Barnes (R-Carroll) to look into the purchase.

The committee was instructed to report to the council Nov. 14.

The state paid $500,000 last week for the track which was closed this year. It was bought from the owners of the Pimlico and Laurel tracks which paid $1,800,000 for it early this year and then divided Havre De Grace's 25 racing days.

The Board of Public Works bought the track property on the recommendation of a board of National Guard officers.

Questions about the purchase were raised by Sen. Turnbull and others who recalled Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord told a General Assembly committee last March that purchase of the track was not contemplated by the military department.

Reckord is military adjutant of the state. He had been president of Havre De Grace and as such recommended its sale to Pimlico and Laurel. Nine days after the sale he was named president of Pimlico.

Trial Officials Challenged By Five Indicted Newsmen

LAKE CHARLES, La., Oct. 15 (AP) —Five crusading Lake Charles newspapermen challenged today the appointment of an outside special prosecutor and judge named to try them on charges they defamed 16 public officials and three admitted gamblers.

The newsmen, indicted while leading an anti-gambling campaign, contended they should be tried before a local district judge, and by a regular district attorney or a local attorney appointed as prosecutor.

Special Judge Bernard Cocke of New Orleans set next Monday for arguing the motions made by defense attorneys.

The newsmen were indicted Aug. 27 on charges of defaming Sheriff Henry Reid, District Attorney Griffin Hawkins, Assistant District Attorney Melvin Wetherill, 13 members of the parish (county) police jury—parish governing body—and the trio of admitted gamblers.

The indictments were based on stories appearing in the Lake Charles American Press—only daily newspaper in this Southwest Louisiana city with a population of 50,000.

The five newspaper men indicted are Thomas B. Shearman, publisher; his son, Hugh Shearman, co-publisher; Kenneth L. Dixon, managing editor; James Norton, city editor, and Carter George, reporter.

The newspaper and a citizens committee, spearheaded the crusade which closed casino doors.

Typhoon Loses Punch; U. N. Troops Rescued

TOKYO, Tuesday, Oct. 16 (AP) — Japan's most destructive typhoon of the year lost its punch today and headed out to sea, leaving more than 350 Japanese civilians dead, nearly 1,000 injured and property damage exceeding $55,500,000.

Approximately 500 Allied troops, endangered since early Sunday morning when their troopship to Korea was driven aground off Sasebo, Southwest Japan, were rescued Monday night by a U. S. Navy transport.

There was no loss of life, the Navy said.

Inspector Suspended

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—A veteran inspector in the alcohol tax unit at Newark, N. J., was suspended today on "serious charges"—the latest in a series of accusations and indictments which have rocked the Internal Revenue Service.

Commissioner John B. Dunlap said Dominic Vita, chief of the inspection division in the Newark tax unit, has been relieved of his duties pending a fuller investigation. Others may be involved in the case, an Internal Revenue Bureau spokesman added.

Long Answers Traffic Charge; Hits "Sniping"

Commissioner of Police and Fire John J. Long angrily took to task yesterday those who "snipe" at him while he is away, and asserted "I plead guilty to the charge of standing behind the Police Department in their efforts to enforce all laws—not only traffic regulations."

The commissioner's heated answer was the result of an attack by Richard J. Diamond, North Mechanic Street restaurant owner, who last week took exception to restrictions on parking near his place of business and accused Long of using dictatorial powers.

Long was not present at that meeting. He was in Chicago attending a National Safety Congress session.

Yesterday Long said in a prepared statement:

"I am sorry that Mr. Richard Diamond chose to make his accusations last week when I was attending the National Safety Congress in Chicago; however, it's just as well for Mr. Diamond that I was out of town. x x x x x x x

"As for my assuming dictatorial powers in enforcing traffic regulations, I plead guilty to the charge of standing behind the Police Department in their efforts to enforce all laws—not only traffic regulations. The traffic regulation to which Mr. Diamond refers—the enforcement of the 'red' line on the west side of North Mechanic Street—was enacted during a previous administration. The difference may be now that when a policeman tags a car the recipient isn't likely to tear it up insolently in the face of the officer, nor is there any chance of its being stuffed into the pockets of the commissioner. If by dictatorial powers Mr. Diamond means treating every one alike with special privileges for no one—not even the gamblers—again, I plead guilty.

"Consultations with other men in the restaurant business downtown and observation of the standees in restaurants where customers have no more parking privileges than Mr. Diamond do not bear out his statement that a $25,000 loss in business is due to our strict enforcement of the parking regulations.

"The parking problem in Cumberland has been acute for a number of years. Surveys have been made, all types of suggestions have been made, but solution of the problem, based on factual studies of other communities, who have answered their problems, have been ignored. Criticism from all sources has been showered on the Police Department for attempting to regulate the street parking and keep the streets open for the movement of traffic—the primary purpose of the streets.

"The issuing of tickets by the police for illegal parking in no way answers the problem. It indicates what the problem is, but in no way relieves it. From time to time complaints are registered by citizens and mainly the merchants, who complain the police are attempting to enforce the regulations and insist the police are driving business away from their establishments. These same merchants have in no way made any attempt to relieve the situation by creating off-street parking areas. South End merchants are delighted with the results of this experience," he said, veering from his prepared statement long enough to add "with parking lots."

"A suggestion was made recently to widen the streets in the downtown area. If the widening of the streets is to be done just to accommodate a few parked cars, it will be found to be the most expensive type parking to be found. The parking problem will never be answered at the curb. Off-street parking areas is the only solution. This has been recognized for years."

Long said he agreed with Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, on a long-range program for streets.

He said the Police Department would continue to do as it has in the past and never take any stringent measures without consulting the merchants.

Long said he understood the merchants suggested the North Mechanic Street setup and followed that with a suggestion that "we call a meeting of merchants and any interested" to discuss the problems.

Mrs. Roeder seconded Long's proposal and Mayor Thomas S. Post told Long to arrange the meeting.

Cobey Says Beall Plant Smoke Is Not "Private"

The city attorney has disagreed with the smoke abatement engineer on what constitutes a private or public nuisance under the city abatement ordinance.

City Attorney W. Earle Cobey said at the meeting of the Mayor and Council yesterday he did not agree with Engineer George M. Hitchcock in terming conditions at the Ray Beall cleaning establishment on Pennsylvania Avenue a "private nuisance."

"It is a public nuisance and falls within the ordinance and should have been investigated as the council ordered him (Hitchcock) to do."

Hitchcock submitted a report on complaints against the firm last week. He also said effort was being made to correct the situation.

Cobey pointed out that Beall has purchased an oil burner installation which is being delayed because a boiler has not arrived. He added that the installation will eliminate smoke and dust and expressed the opinion the problem has been solved.

About 35 residents of the area signed a petition asking that action be taken about dust and dirt conditions at the plant.

In other action, the council appointed Miss Frances Flynn, 619 Patterson Avenue, a temporary employe to assist in setting up the continuing registration system at a salary of $150 a month. She succeeds Mrs. Annie S. Leith who resigned.

John C. Spiker, a probationary member of the Fire Department, and Roy C. Hawse, a probationary member of the Police Department, have completed training periods and were confirmed as regular department members.

A petition signed by 12 residents asked that an alley between Louisiana Avenue and Memorial Avenue, the south end of which adjoins Oldtown Road, be opened. The open end of the alley is a steep grade and hazardous in winter, the petitioners said. The request was referred to Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of Streets and Public Property.

Mrs. Clementina DeArcangelis, 217 Hay Street, asked that the street be paved and was referred to Mrs. Roeder as was Louis M. Schade, 510 Franklin Street, who inquired about oiling or paving an alley beside his property. Schade cited a dust condition but was told no alleys have been oiled or paved by the city except in two instances because of illness.

Bodies Of War Dead Brought Home For Burial

The bodies of four area veterans who lost their lives in Korea arrived Sunday in San Francisco aboard the Malden Victory.

Among 600 war dead returned were Pfc. Forrest C. Poling, 24, son of Jonas F. Poling, Route 3, St. George, W. Va.; Master Sgt. Owen L. Claycomb, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Claycomb, Route 1, Imler, Pa.; Pfc. Alvey Smith, Jr., 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvey Smith, Sr., St. Clairsville, Pa., and Pfc. Michael J. Czarniewsky, son of Michael J. Czarniewsky, Route 1, Central City, Pa.

Next of kin have been notified, and the bodies will be sent with a military escort to the point designated by relatives.

Pfc. Poling was killed in action June 6. Before going overseas in February, he received training at Fort Knox, Ky., and Camp Atterbury, Ind. Survivors include four brothers, Woodrow Poling, Dayton, Ohio; Willis Poling, Augusta, W. Va.; Lonnie and David Poling, at home, and five sisters, Mrs. Marshall Nestor, Keyser, W. Va.; Mrs. G. W. Phillips and Mary Ann Poling, Baltimore; Ruth and Jean Poling, at home.

Sgt. Claycomb, who previously was reported missing, paid the supreme sacrifice May 13. He was slated to receive a battlefield commission to the rank of second lieutenant.

Born March 16, 1928, he graduated from Bedford High School in 1945 and worked on his father's farm prior to entering the Army May 11, 1946. He served two years in Italy and Trieste before being discharged in 1948. He reenlisted May 11, 1949, and was assigned to United Nations forces in Korea in March, 1950, as a member of the 87th Airborne Division.

Pfc. Smith lost his life May 31 while serving with the Third Battalion, Second Marine Division. He entered service May 20, 1948, and underwent boot training at Parris Island, S. C. Later he served at Camp Lejeune, N. C., and in Washington before leaving for Korea in January.

Juvenile Trio Caught In Store

Alert police late Sunday nabbed three West Side boys in Hill's Toy Store, 45 North Centre Street, after the trio climbed over a roof-top to gain entrance through a window.

Detective E. M. Powell and Officer Richard W. Lashley arrested the boys, ranging from 13 to 14 years old, shortly after 7 o'clock and released them into the custody of their parents. Hearings were set for Saturday in Juvenile Court.

Authorities said nothing was taken from the store.

Local Men Take Part In Program

Two Cumberland men participated in ceremonies Sunday honoring a Frederick concern for its part in "Employ the Physically Handicapped Week."

The Price Electric Corporation was honored by the Disabled American Veterans' Department of Maryland as the Maryland firm contributing the most encouragement to physically handicapped workers.

In addition to employing a large number of handicapped workers, the Frederick firm sponsored an attractive "Employ the Physically Handicapped Week" display.

Cumberlanders participating in Sunday's program were C. William Spangler and William B. Orndorff. As Maryland chairman of the DAV's employment committee, Spangler gave the address of welcome. Orndorff was a member of the committee arranging the event.

Tire Rims Stolen

John Kastner, 617 Patterson Avenue, notified police Sunday that four white sidewall tire rims were stolen from his car parked on Canal Street. The theft occurred during the night hours.

German Unification

Western Germany appears to be steering a course between East and West that is likely to produce the benefits of sovereignty and could even result in the eventual unification of the German nation.

Chancellor Adenauer has flatly rejected an East German demand that all talks on West Germany's integration with the Atlantic powers in mutual defense efforts be broken off. But Adenauer kept the door open for discussion of unity with East Germany.

West Germany demands a three-month period of free campaigning by all political parties before any nation-wide elections. Elections would have to be supervised by international authority. These demands could conceivably be met. What Soviet-dominated East Germany would of necessity stick at would be West German demands for border revision to take in lands beyond the Oder-Neisse line lost to Germany in World War II.

The recent overtures from East Germany for unification of the nation appear to be Soviet-inspired. The Russians apparently fear a contractual agreement with the Atlantic powers that would, in effect, act as a "San Francisco for Germany." West Germany would be given independence amounting to sovereignty in return for cooperation in a mutual assistance effort aimed against possible Russian aggression.

Russian attempts to conciliate West Germany are understandable. Losses of Communist party strength in Western European nations in the past several years have ranged from 30 per cent in France to 84 per cent in Luxembourg, according to the U. S. State Department. Moreover, Western rearmament and the successful conclusion of a peace treaty with Japan have drawn signs from Russia of a change of policy, if not of heart, toward the free world.

I. A. Seleznev, a leading Soviet critic, recently deprecated in the Russian magazine "Questions of Philosophy" the Marxian doctrine that war with capitalist nations is inevitable. "In contemporary conditions," he wrote, "it is impossible simply to speak of the inevitability of not preventing war in an epoch of imperialism. If we limit ourselves only to this thesis, then we distort the actual objective course of history and deal immense harm to the powerful movement of contemporary life and the movement of peace supporters."

Seleznev quoted Stalin's speech of November 6, 1944, in which the Russian dictator said the Allies had not merely to win World War II but also "to make new aggression and new war impossible—if not forever, at least for a long time to come."

Soviet peace offensives are designed to serve Soviet ends. If Russia now wants to spike the plans of Atlantic powers for rearmament, the ground is already prepared for a peace "front." A new fortnightly periodical, obviously aimed for the attention of the West, appeared in Moscow in mid-July. The publication, "News," reaffirmed the possibility of peaceful coexistance with the West. And Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Malik made the same point in his July speech indicating Russia was ready to talk about a peace in Korea.

Westward The Course . . .

When Bishop Berkeley, back in the 18th Century before there was a United States, was prophesying about the course of empire in a new land with whose development he was concerned, he had no thought of population trends. Yet from the first census of 1790, enjoined by the Constitution, that is the way the center of population in the U.S. has gone. Its speed, however, has not been regular, but by fits and starts.

The first census showed the center 23 miles east of Baltimore, the next put it 18 miles west of that city. Virginia had it in 1810, and in the next four decades it was in West Virginia, but ever moving westward. In 1860 and 1870 it was in Ohio, and 10 years later it was in Kentucky, but only eight miles from Cincinnati.

But in the six censuses from 1890 to 1940, inclusive, it was in Indiana, which has just yielded it to Illinois, as it has shifted 42 miles westward and 7.6 miles south. Never has the center been far from the 39th Parallel.

This center is a purely figurative thing. It is assumed to be the point at which, if the United States were a plane and its 150,000,000 population as now distributed were all of identical weight, that plane, if upheld by a pivot, would not teeter in any direction but stay put. So an individual in a western seaboard state far outbalances one in the east.

Economics, of course, is recognized as the principal cause of population shifts. The astounding thing about the center of population is that while in 160 years is has moved westward 644 miles, at present, at its most southern point, it is only 30 miles south of its most northern point, determined by the first census.

What of the coming years? Nobody knows, and geographers are too canny to predict. But continuance of the same trend would carry it, in problematical decades hence, across Illinois, through Missouri and into Kansas. But that is the day nobody now alive is likely to see.

Civil Defense Reversed

Not all the energies of governors at their annual conference were concentrated on politics. Useful hours were devoted to mutual problems, and one of the most urgent to receive official attention was civil defence. At Gatlinburg, Tenn., site of this year's conference, Civil Defense Administrator Millard Caldwell transmitted to the governors the latest federal plan for civil populations in the event of an atomic attack.

Briefly, Mr. Caldwell's latest program contemplates a mass exodus from New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island should their key cities become targets of hostile planes. He further revealed that it is proposed to shift affected populations in those states to Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

It was only a year ago that the National Security Resources Board issued a report on what target areas and their civilians were expected to do when the bomb fell. They were not expected to run. The report placed primary emphasis on the necessity of staying on the job, restoring industrial power and fighting back by getting into war production as swiftly as possible.

How communities and plants could be returned to production by shipping affected populations to Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont is no more clear than what Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont would do with the massed evacuees.

Mr. Caldwell projected at Gatlinburg a departure in home defense that sounds uncomfortably like the civil defense planning which produced the bizarre scheme, now discarded, to build a coast-to-coast chain of underground shelters at fabulous cost to protect one per cent of the population.

Scientists, not content to let bad enough alone, are searching in the stratosphere for mesons, a ray more powerful than the atom bomb

How To Keep Well

Strange Diseases

Several years ago an Alabama physician, Dr. Harvey B. Searcy, cured a child of fever by taking away her chewing gum. He interested a gum manufacturer in the problem and they tried a unique experiment on twenty healthy employes. All chewed gum steadily for five minutes and their temperature readings went up 0.4 to 1.2 degrees F.

It was not the gum but the exercise associated with chewing that raised the temperature. This was demonstrated when parraffin and then soda crackers were substituted for gum and the results were the same. Furthermore, the harder the subjects chewed, the higher the temperature rose. Fortunately, bubble gum was not included in the study. This is something to consider the next time junior runs a fever for which a cause cannot be found.

Fishingpox is another new disease which is reported to be extremely contagious to adult males. Symptoms have been described as "continual complaint as to the need for fresh air, sunshine, and relaxation. Patient has blank expression; sometimes deaf to wife and kids. Has no taste for work of any kind. Frequent checking of tackling catalogs. Hangs out in sporting goods stores longer than usual. Secret night phone calls to fishing pals. Mumbles to self. Lies to everyone." The ailment is not fatal and the victim is cured by going fishing.

Still another malady reported recently in a Pittsburgh medical bulletin is labeled "doctors' chronic fatigue." The typical example centers about the physician who has not had a vacation and is working too hard for his own good. At 3 a. m. he is likely to be awakened by the phone. It might be Mrs. Jones who is calling to tell him that her little Jimmy is having another temper tantrum; or perhaps it is Mrs. Richbody who is having trouble sleeping. The medico is tempted to tell Mrs. Jones to hold Jimmy's head in a bucket of water or Mrs. Richbody that she is a neurotic and not to bother him again. If he feels like doing this, he is suffering from doctors' chronic fatigue but the condition is not limited to the medical profession. Most persons get out of sorts and short tempered after working too hard or going too long without a vacation.

A friend who knew I was heading west on vacation this summer sent me a copy of a poem by Roy Bell, called "Pine Tree Fever." It is too long to quote entirely but the first verses tell of a man who is so tired and depressed his wife insists that he see a physician. It relates the natural fears of most persons who appear for a checkup. After examining the patient, the physician makes the diagnosis and prescribes such a pleasant cure, hope no preventive, antidote, or substitute is ever invented.

"My may, says he, go tell your wife,
You never can deceive her,
If I'm not wrong you've got it bad,
a case of pine tree fever.
The malady attcaks in spring, in
summer, and in fall,
It's just as bad whene'er it hits,
for it always gets them all.
I've had a heap of practice, and
prescribed for many ills,
So I know the stuff to cure you
up, just get out in the hills."

Another unusual condition was described by Navy physicians in World War II. Finger rings were found to be hazardous to personnel descending or jumping from a height. The rings caught on nail heads or other objects and stripped the soft tissue from the bone or caused fracture. Many moderate to severe injuries of this type were noted and several amputations were necessary.

Gov. Gruening Of Alaska Filibustered Governors' Conference For Statehood; Sen. Brewster Almost Tipped His Hand On Free Airplane Rides

WASHINGTON—Ordinarily there is no filibustering at the Governor's conference. However one was staged this time at a closed-door session by Governor Ernest Gruening of Alaska.

Hitherto, the Governors conference has always unanimously adopted a resolution backing statehood for Alaska and Hawaii. The resolution has to be unanimous to pass the governors'; though when the resolutions committee OK's a resolution it usually passes automatically without objection. When the Alaskan-Hawaiian statehood platform came up in executive session this time, however, there was a chorus of "ayes," followed by one lone "no."

The governors looked around to find that the dissenter was "Hummon" Talmadge of Georgia.

Asked for his reasons Gov. Talmadge, explained:

"My state will never consent to the admission of four new senators not pledged to oppose cloture."

What the Georgia governor has done was to express out loud the private reason why most Southern senators recently have opposed Alaskan-Hawaiian statehood — the fear that four new senators might upset the South's ability, through cloture, to filibuster against civil rights.

Immediately Gov. Gruening jumped to his feet. It was near the end of a long meeting. The governors were anxious to get home.

"I should like to point out that the statehood resolution always has been adopted at previous governors' conferences," the Alaskan governor said. "The governor of Georgia has complained of federal abuses. But he has no idea the ordeal the people of Alaska and Hawaii suffer at the hands of the federal government. In effect we are minions of an absentee government.

"I have a great deal to say on this subject," continued Gov. Gruening, as his fellow governors got more restless. "In fact, I think I can speak for about four hours."

At his point Governor Driscoll of New Jersey quietly got up and whispered in Talmadge's ear. There were other whispered conferences. Finally the presiding officer announced: "I understand the governor of Georgia would like to change his vote, provided his views on the principle involved are recorded."

Talmadge assented. Governor Jimmie Byrnes then said that he would like to put South Carolina on record likewise.

This made it unanimous for Alaskan-Hawaiian statehood, and the conference adjourned.

Free Airplane Rides

Senator Owen Brewster, Maine Republican, almost tipped his hand the other day when Senator Paul Douglas, Illinois Democrat, introduced an amendment cutting off federal subsidies to any airline caught offering gifts to government employes.

"If entertainment or gratuities are offered by any airlines to any governmental officer or employe, the subsidy will cease to be paid," Douglas explained his amendment.

Brewster, who has accepted various favors from Pan American Airways, impulsively jumped up.

"I wish the senator from Illinois would interpret the amendment. He refers to governmental officer or employe. I should like to be clear as to whether he includes members of Congress within the scope of the amendment," Brewster blurted.

"I myself would think so," replied Douglas.

Catching himself, Brewster hastily added: "There should be no doubt that the amendment would apply to members of Congress."

This is the same Brewster who used to fly home from Washington on week ends in a private Pan American plane. The plane would circle over his Dexter, Maine, home as a signal to his housekeeper, Mrs. Ellen Jenny Brown, to put dinner on. Sam Pryor, Pan American's vice president, frequently phoned in advance from his Washington office or his home in Greenwich, Conn., to say that Brewster was coming. On One occasion, Pryor flew to Dexter with Brewster, then the two flew to Moosehead Lake for five days of fishing. When Brewster's son, Charles, returned from overseas, a private Pan American plane flew him to Dexter.

The shocking thing is that all these free flights and favors were showered upon Brewster at the same time he was sponsoring special legislation to benefit Pan American. Since Pan American received heavy subsidies from the taxpayers, Brewster's free rides were indirectly paid by the taxpayers.

While explaining his amendment, Sen. Douglas suddenly realized the Maine senator's reputation as a friend of Pan American. For he hastened to explain: "I wish to make it clear that there is no personal implication on the part of the senator from Illinois with respect to anyone, either inside or outside of Congress."

However, there was no question that under Douglas' amendment, airlines could no longer give free flights to their friends in the Senate. The amendment was adopted by a weak voice vote, but with no one dissenting.

Day The Earth Stood Still

Shortly after the war, a British scientist told me that plans were under way to develop a space rocket capable of flying to the moon. I pooh-poohed the idea, thereby passing up a good story.

Last year however, American scientists and defense officials not only admitted that it was feasible to fly to the moon, but that the country which controlled the moon would control the earth, since it would be able to aim guided missiles back at the earth.

The Right Of Revolution

Corliss Lamont once made the point:

"Can a democratic government logically permit totalitarian parties to advocate the violent overthrow of the state? I am convinced that the answer is 'yes' and that the right to advocate revolution is a basic constitutional liberty in a democracy."

If the right to advocate change is inherent in freedom, so is the right to oppose change. This truth, Communists and civil libertarians often choose to disregard. Yet, freedom is not a one-way street upon which only those who are in dissent may walk.

This Corliss Lamont acknowledges. He wrote:

"No doubt practically everyone here today would agree with me that there exists in the United States the necessary political machinery for peaceful and democratic change in either a conservative or a radical direction."

I think we can go further than that. For instance, there are those who are content with the American system of life. They have rights, too. I think that just as any man has the liberty to advocate vast and fundamental changes, so any American has the liberty to prevent such changes from coming into being. Just as anyone may criticize our form of government, and our economic system, and our social institutions, so any American has the liberty to fight the advocacy of such changes and to prevent them from being advocated at his expense, namely, by the use of taxpayers' money without the consent of the majority of the taxpayers. Those who object to school auditoriums being used to advocate the destruction of the system which erected the schools, have as many rights as those who insist that schools must be moral institutions in which the fundamentals of our civilization may not be taught because they emanate from religion.

This comes down to the question of our schools and colleges. In the public schools, the public high schools and the public colleges, the ownership is vested in the people. Such institutions exist on the moneys of the taxpayers, who have the right to determine the nature and purpose and service of these institutions by a majority vote in a legislative body. The teachers, professors and administrators are employes whose nature of service, responsibilities, obligations and rights are determined by laws passed by legislatures and regulations issued by the designated officials. That is the essential contractual relationship.

Anyone has the option of accepting employment on the basis of the laws and regulations or not accepting employment. If the legislature demands a loyalty oath, those who reject the loyalty oath have the privilege of resigning. It would seem by the logic of the situation that they have no other alternative.

In privately-owned schools and colleges, other factors enter into the picture except in such institutions as accept tax exemptions. If the legislature makes it a condition of tax exemption that those who teach take an oath of loyalty, it would seem that there are these alternatives: Either to agree to the loyalty oath or to give up the tax exemption. Institutions which refuse to accept tax exemptions cannot be involved in the conditions which accompany such exemptions.

The fallacy of those who advocate revolution is that they refuse to respect the rights of those who oppose revolution. And in a country such as ours, those who oppose revolution have every right to set up legal barriers against revolutions. Acts of Congress and of state legislatures and decisions of the courts are legitimate steps to preserve the traditions and habits of the country.

The revolutionists have always taken the position that they have the right to stand on the barricades, to shoot for their version of liberty, but they reject the right of their opponents to shoot back. They insist upon their right to advocate overthrow, by peaceful means or by violent means, of the existent society but reject the right of the majority of the existent society to adopt peaceful or violent means to defend themselves. This position is utterly untenable.

Mr. Lamont says:

"But we could be wrong; and as democrats we cannot legitimately outlaw either legally or morally those who challenge our position on this issue."

Are we, on the supposition that we are wrong, which we may not be, and that Stalin is right, which he may not be, to permit Stalin to conquer our country either by war, by infiltration, by perversion or by corruption? Are we to give up without a fight because "we could be wrong"?

By STEWART ALSOP

Let's Call The Bluff

BERLIN

Germany today is the land of the astonishing paradox. The Western allies, for example, are now humbly begging the haughty Germans to rearm, when logically the Germans should be begging the West for the means to defend German soil. Again, the Kremlin is reaping extremely important political advantages by loudly demanding a "solution" of the German problem which, taken at face value, would spell intolerable disaster for the Kremlin.

The simple process of passing from the Allied sector of Berlin into the Soviet sector makes this second paradox visible to the naked eye. You go through streets lined with well-filled shops and comfortable cafes, past buildings rebuilt with fierce energy from the rubble, through an atmosphere of reborn vitality amazing in this smashed and encircled city.

Then suddenly you are in another world. Here there is dinginess and ruin, dirty shop fronts half-filled with shoddy good, long weary potato queues, the streets silent and sullenly empty. Only the gigantic, menacing Soviet war memorials, and the endless white-on-red banners (war is peace, freedom is slavery, black is white) lend a note of color.

Now go back to West Berlin, to an address known all over East Germany, where the refugees are received. The tide to the West is an unending flood—16,000 to West Berlin alone, in 18 months. "Three hundred and twenty today", a weary interrogator tells you, interrupting his questioning of a scared German boy "including seven Czechs and nine People's Police. About average." You look at the weary faces, gray with the special pallor of the People's democracy, of the waiting refugees, and suddenly the seemingly optimistic intelligence estimates, of an overwhelming anti-Communist vote in any free election anywhere in East Germany, become real and believable.

Yet the paradox remains. The Kremlin is scoring notable political successes by instructing such stooges as Communist chief Ernst Grotewhol to scream "unity" and "free elections" at suitable intervals. There should be no mistake about it. The Soviet unity line is no mere propaganda maneuver which can be safely laughed off. Grotewhol's latest "unity appeal" had the immediate effect of strengthening the hands of such West German nationalists as Dr. Kurt Schumacher; of causing West German Chancellor Konrad Adenuaer sharply to up his terms for German rearmament; and of threatening the Allied-German negotiations at Bonn with another in a long series of nearly total collapses.

The fact is that German unity is the basic impulse of all Germans, East and West. As long as the Soviets are permitted to dangle the unity prize before German eyes, West German rearmament, if it comes at all is dead certain to be reluctant, ineffective, and indecisive, because it will seem to compromise the chance of unity. And the fact is that it should, logically, be easy to call the Soviet bluff.

For it is a bluff. It can only be a bluff. A really free All-German election would mean such public stripping away of Communist fig leaves as would shake the whole Soviet system to its foundations. Only a basic change of Soviet policy resulting from the extreme pressure of changed circumstances, moreover, could cause the Russians to risk the loss of the colonialized East German industry, the East German uranium mines, and the expensively-built fighter bases and forward positions, which permit the Soviet to theraten all Europe. Above all, the Soviets cannot risk a unified anti-Soviet Germany — and anti-Soviet is precisely what a unified Germany would surely be.

Yet the bluff goes on working. The Soviets and their Communist stooges continue to seize the initiative, while the Western response continues to be defensive and unpersuasive. It is as certain as such things can be that the next Soviet step will be a direct "unity" approach to the Western powers, and equally certain that the West will again be caught on the defensive and off-base.

The basic reason seems to be that the policy makers in the West have been concentrating so exclusively on the elusive West German defensive contribution that no one has decided just what terms for German re-unification would be acceptable. The Soviets have thus been permitted to pose as the patrons, and to portray the West as the enemy, of German unity.

Obviously the West could not agree to German unity on the basis of an American withdrawal across the Atlantic and a Soviet withdrawal to Poland. Obviously we could not agree to a totally unrealistic "neutralization" of Germany. But the vast majority of Germans do not want German unity on these terms either.

Surely it is time to make up our minds on what terms we would accept German unification, and then to launch an all-out political offensive on these terms. The only immediate effect would be to explode the Soviet "unity" line. But until this explosion occurs, a really decisive West German defense contribution is manifestly impossible. But this is not all.

"No one with a sense of history," remarked Berlin's brilliant Mayor Reuter to this reporter, "can believe that the partition of Germany is permanent. Sooner or later, in one way or another, the two halves will come together." This is the fact which, while wisely concentrating on the rearmament of the West, including West Germany, we are unwisely tending to forget. It can be rather safely assumed that the men in the Kremlin, who certainly have a sense of history, are not forgetting it.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Union labor and Senator Taft buried the hatchet long enough to steer through Congress a piece of legislation which labor leaders very much wanted — and to which the Ohio senator wasn't particularly opposed.

It constitutes a bit of political by-play which illustrates the shallowness of the argument that management and labor are destined always to fight each other in Congress.

The new legislation makes it legal for a management and a union to agree, as a matter of contract negotiation, to carry on what is known as a "union shop." The original Taft-Hartley Act stipulated that there could be no "union shop" unless a majority of the employes, by a special election, voted for it. All kinds of inconveniences arose and much money was spent by the National Labor Relations Board in supervising the machinery of such elections. A demand arose to change the law so it would not require elections.

But something else happened far more disconcerting. The Supreme Court held that the officers of the national union federations, such as the AFL and the CIO, and not merely officers of local unions had to sign anti-Communist affidavits before the union could enjoy the privileges of National Labor Relations Board machinery on elections or anything else. The decision really invalidated many previous elections that had been held with unions whose parent organizations had not complied with the law as the court finally construed it because they honestly had believed themselves exempt.

So the amendment which has just been adopted really legalizes all past elections, too, and starts the whole thing off on another basis altogether — namely, by negotiation rather than by the election method.

The "union shop" permits the employer to hire whomever he pleases, but within 30 days the new employe must decide to join the union or quit the job. This differs from a "closed shop," where only union members may be hired by management originally. The "closed shop" is still banned by the Taft-Hartley Act.

The "union shop" is, of course, wrong in principle, too, for it means compulsory unionization as the price of retaining a job in free America. When the Hartley bill was passed by the House and the Taft bill by the Senate, there were differences between the two, and, while the "closed shop" was barred in both bills, the compromise favored the retention of the "union shop." It was a last-minute concession.

So Senator Taft did surrender to the doctrine of compulsory unionization at that time, and now for a second time he has affirmed that same viewpoint. The most significant thing, however, about the episode is the fact that, when labor and management want to get together on labor-management legislation, they can readily do so. Up to now the union leaders have insisted on complete repeal and have fought against any amendments, however meritorious from their own standpoint. There is a bill pending to amend the Taft-Hartley Act in several other respects. While the Senate, under Mr. Taft's leadership, adopted it, thus far, union leaders have not allowed the matter to come to a vote in the House, preferring to save the controversy as an issue for the 1952 campaign.

But Senator Taft comes out pretty well in this latest development because he can say to union voters next year, if he is the nominee for the Presidency, that his attitude toward the amendment just adopted illustrates his readiness to be fair and objective about the protests of labor if he is elected President. Unquestionably the Ohio senator and his friends saw that particular advantage in getting behind the amendment on the "union shop" elections and felt that the difference between an election-granted or a negotiated "union shop" was too insignificant to quarrel about. Also the elections did make a lot of work for the National Labor Relations Board and the unions. To those who believe in compulsory unionization anyway, there is no essential difference whether the objective is attained by negotiation or by an election. For usually the union has a majority when it secures the status of bargaining agent for all employes. The principle of compulsory unionization is neither weakened nor strengthened by the change in the law, as the labor board still retains jurisdiction over the elections held in the first instance to determine whether a union has or has not a majority of employes behind it.

MRS. ELIZABETH A. ROSIER

GRAFTON, W. Va. — Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Rosier, 81, of 302 Barrett Street, widow of Oscar N. Rosier, Sr., who died Saturday, were held yesterday afternoon from the Bartlett Funeral Home. Rev. E. S. K. Roof, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, officiated and interment was in Knottsville Cemetery.

A native of Taylor County, she was born February 12, 1870, a daughter of the late Luke and Elizabeth Scott Kinney. She was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and Naomi Chapter No. 12, Order of Eastern Star.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Iva M. Hanline, Sardia; two sons, Kinney M. and Oscar N. Rosier, Jr., both of Grafton, and one sister, Mrs. Sarah Hession, Cumberland, Md.

Trucker Blamed In Pedestrian Death

A Hampshire County (W. Va.) coroner's jury yesterday found that a 74-year-old Romney man died as a result of being hit by a pickup truck driven by Edward R. Myers, 35, of Clarksburg, W. Va.

Myers is free under $5,000 bond pending trial on charges of hit-and-run driving and negligent homicide in the death of Clifford F. McDonald.

McDonald died in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, of shock and a brain concussion Saturday night. Myers was arrested a few hours later in Petersburg, W. Va. The accident occurred near Romney as McDonald crossed Route 50.

Sevierville, Tenn., has a law requiring Communists wishing to live there to post $1 million bond to keep the peace.

One Defendant Fails To Appear

A man failed to appear in Circuit Court yesterday morning when he was called to trial on three charges of forgery, and Associate Judge George Henderson said no action to order default of the $1,000 bond will be taken at this time.

The accused, William Franklin Radcliffe, is charged with passing forged checks on two local supermarkets. The $1,000 bond for his appearance was posted by relatives.

A three-year sentence in the Maryland Reformatory for Males was handed Ralph Leo Wharton, 19, of 941 Gay Street, but Judge Henderson suspended sentence and placed the youth on parole. He was charged with attempting to break into the Cumberland Motor Express Corporation storehouse on Springdale Street last May. A plea of guilty was entered by Wharton when he was arraigned.

City Police Officers Joseph Stitcher and C. W. Thompson caught Wharton on the night of the attempted entry after a chase from the storehouse.

A guilty plea was entered by Lloyd Long, Jr., Kelly Boulevard, who is accused of robbing Percy Combs, this city, of $150 on July 5 in a tavern on Front Street. Sentence was deferred.

Celanese Honors Four Workers

Four Celanese Corporation of America employes have been presented 25-year service awards at the Amcelle plant, according to H. C. Givens, Jr., plant manager.

Harry G. Eisentrout, Route 1, LaVale, who was employed in the Spinning Department on October 13, 1926, was presented a gold wrist watch by Givens. John Bestwick, superintendent of spinning, presented Eisentrout a certificate attesting to 25 years of service and a five-star emblem indicating over a quarter century of service.

Eisentrout is presently a block foreman in the Spinning Department. He was promoted to the supervisory staff on October 29, 1933.

He is the youngest employe who has ever completed 25 years of service at Amcelle.

Jacob B. Markwood, of Cresaptown, who was employed in the Dyehouse October 13, 1926, received a gold wrist watch, also presented by Givens.

Markwood transferred to the Warp Knitting section during World War II for four years as a needle squarer, but returned to his original department, Color Stores in the Dyehouse, on March 24, 1947.

William J. Cramer, superintendent of the Dyehouse, also presented a 25-year certificate and a five-star emblem indicating over a quarter century of service to Celanese.

Frank W. Scarcelli, of Eckhart, was employed in the Spinning Department on October 12, 1926, where he is still employed as a production examiner.

Givens presented him a gold pocket watch which was engraved as follows: "In recognition of more than a quarter century of loyal service. Celanese Corporation of America."

Bestwick also presented a certificate attesting to 25 years of service and a five-star lapel emblem indicating five years of service for each star.

Irvin E. Lohr, Route 2, Frostburg, who was employed October 14, 1926 in the Bobbin Stores Department, was presented a gold wrist watch by Givens.

Bestwick presented Lohr a five-star emblem and a certificate which indicates more than 25 years of service.

Lohr is now working as a nash buffing machine operator in Bobbin Stores. He attended school in Mt. Savage before his employment at Amcelle.

Nelson, 31 East Hampshire Street, Piedmont, and a member of Kappa Delta Pi sorority. She is being sponsored by the brother organization, Phi Kappa Omega. She is also a member of Potomac Singers.

Students will go to the polls on Wednesday to cast their ballots in the contest which is sponsored by Theta Sigma Chi fraternity.

Grand Jury Meets Today

KEYSER, W. Va.—Grand jurors for the October term of Mineral County Circuit Court have been summoned and instructed to appear before Judge Ernest A. See this morning for hearing cases that will be presented for consideration and investigation by Prosecutor Donald C. Hott.

The prosecutor has prepared eight cases, seven of which are for presentation to the grand jury. The eighth case involves a 16-year-old boy charged with arson in four cases. This case is one for the juvenile court but may be turned over to the grand jury and automatically become a criminal action for the Circuit Court. Judge See will determine the disposition of this case before the grand jurors convene.

The following were served with summons as grand jurors by Sheriff F. G. Davis: O. C. Hepner, John Powell and Wayne Dayton, Frankfort District; Laurin Swisher, Raymond Stafford, C. A. Ludwick, Sr., Blake Oss and John K. Sanders, New Creek District; Samuel J. Logsdon and Michael Kuykendall, Cabin Run District; Wesley Duling and Huber Norman, Elk District; Clyde Bonar, Welton District and John F. Rose, Frank Healey and Walter Cook, Piedmont District.

Mineral County Sheriff Must Travel To Collect Taxes

SING AT REVIVAL—The Bane Sisters Trio of Cumberland, musicians and singers, are providing music for the revival services at the Moscow Church of the Nazarene, beginning tonight. The musical portion of the services begins at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. R. T. Brohawn, church pastor, will bring the message each night. The services will continue each evening through October 28.

KEYSER, W. Va.—Despite the fact that there are many privately-owned automobiles in Mineral County, and few, if any saddle horses travelling the highways, an old law on the West Virginia Statute books provides that the sheriff and his deputies, must divide their tax collection time between Keyser, the county seat, and various communities outlying in parts of the big, rambling mountainous county.

When the state was a part of Virginia, prior to the Civil War, and since then, the sheriff was and has been required by law to go out and collect tax monies from the land and personal property owners.

When the law was passed, the sheriff had to carry money with him for making change and a sheaf of papers, including tax bills, and he had to call on citizens throughout the county. In more recent times he set up a collection depot in the several communities and the taxpayers called on him. Most of his trips at that time were made on horseback as county roads, especially through the mountain areas, were not suitable to any kind of riding in any comfort in any kind of vehicle.

Now the sheriff or his deputy travels by automobile, and makes trips at special times to seven communities in the county. There were more, a few years ago, but some of the communities were discontinued as tax collection points. They are Ridgeley, Wiley Ford, Fort Ashby, Burlington, Piedmont, Patterson Creek and Elk Garden. At some of these places, collections are worthwhile, but in some others it is questionable. Nevertheless the collection points will be maintained until such time as the state legislature gets around to making a change in the law.

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 15—(INS)—Shelley Winters and Farley Granger arrived home from Europe today—unwed. And I don't think anybody is interested in whether they are engaged or not. Shelley has given out too many conflicting stories about their matrimonial plans.

However, it is interesting she reported immediately to Universal International for "Whip Hand," a western which is her next picture. It's to be in technicolor and it's ticketed as a Leonard Goldstein production.

"Captain Applejack," Sam Harris' satirical comedy, will be remade with Red Skelton as the captain.

How well I remember when "Applejack" opened on Broadway in 1921. I was at the opening night, and I recall, Wallace Eddinger and Mary Nash were the stars. Then it was made in 1923 as a silent movie with Barbara La Marr, the girl a judge once called "too beautiful." The other players were Enid Bennett and Matt Moore.

I'm betting that the 1952 version with Red will be one of his best pictures. This is a natural for him.

The town of Pecos, New Mexico, has something more than its shoot-'em-up history to brag about these days. It's also got the highest priced bus driver in the world!

Pecos, it seems, is just a few miles from Fork Lightning, the Greer Garson-Buddy Fogelson ranch. Usually the parish priest collects up the children and drives them to school in the school bus, but when he's too busy with other affairs he gives Greer a ring.

"Coming up!" Greer always answers, and takes over the driving duty for the day. The kids love it, and the town enjoys the sight too.

Here's a sentimental gesture that's so typical of Lou Costello.

It was in P. S. 15 in Paterson, N. J., that Lou first read the fairy tale of "Jack And The Beanstalk." So while he is in the East for his TV shows, he is going to re-visit his old school and give the kids a special showing of the movie, "Jack And The Beanstalk," which he has just finished. And as an extra treat for the boys and girls in his old classroom, he'll read them the story in person, just before the movie starts.

"If we can work it out," Lou writes, "Bud and I will make a regular tour of other schools later showing the picture and doing readings of fairy tales a la Charles Laughton and his Bible readings. And for free."

Orry Kelly's new collection has caused so much comment he's branching out and his clothes will soon be available in stores throughout the country. Orry claims the days of fashion designers being dictators is over. "Well-dressed women can't be stampeded into wearing styles they don't really care for today," says Orry. "Princess Elizabeth is an example. You know well Norman Hartnell never created the simple shirt waist and skirt she wears with such beautiful simplicity."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Johnny Meyer who is, at the moment in Washington, is carrying a torch for his wife, Patty Lydon, but she won't relent.

Tony Carroll, the girl who dyed her hair purple for "The Merry Widow," and is Jimmy Durante's protegee, was George Jessel's girl friend for a night. He took her to LaRue and the Mocambo.

Mickey Rooney—good heavens, is he back?—at the Cafe Gala with Diane Garrett.

Richard Anderson, the young MGM leading man, has discovered Vera Ellen and vice versa.

Ralph Moecker seems to be the one. He divides himself between Betty Hutton and Denise Darcel—and that aint' bad dividing.

Sheila Ryan and Pat Buttram, who parted after many harsh words about a year ago, are back where they left off. Pat is with the Gene Autry company.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

The desire for a healthy, attractive longevity drives people to seek ever better and better ways of eating. But because eating is one of the world's greatest pleasures, they want to find a way of preserving their health and energy, keeping their figures young, trim and slim looking, and satisfying their taste cravings at the same time.

Perhaps that way has been found. At any rate, the new high-protein diet that is a combination of protein, starch and fats goes a long way toward the composite goal.

New Diet Theory

Before undertaking it, consult your physician. You may just happen to be one of those persons whose condition makes such a diet decidedly inadvisable. Furthermore, for weight loss and health maintenance, this diet must be scientifically compounded, and that is a doctor's job.

The effectiveness of the high-protein diet depends on the combination of foods served at any one meal. You may eat as large portions of meat as you wish. But . . . you must not trim off the fat! The fat actually helps you to reduce in this combination. Salt is on the restricted list. This naturally precludes most sauces and gravies. Yet, the variety of foods that you like within the permitted group keeps your hunger well controlled. The satiety value of this eating regimen is great. So is the energy production. You can carry on prodigious amounts of physical activity with no flagging of your vim and vigor. But, ask your doctor before trying it; and ask him for the correct proportions and combinations for you.

Here is a modified day's menu, based on the high protein pattern that is generally approved:

Mighty Good Eating

Breakfast: A 6 oz. glass of tomato juice; 2 soft boiled eggs with only a modicum of salt, coffee with no sugar.

Luncheon: Meat, fish or fowl; lettuce and tomato salad with no dressing, skim or buttermilk.

Dinner: Meat, fish, fowl or liver; spinach, brocolli, cabbage or leafy greens; any yellow vegetable; cottage cheese and lettuce; half a grapefruit; tea or coffee without sugar.

This food pattern will work to help you lose two pounds a week, if you are above your normal weight, if you combine foods as indicated, eating all the meat you wish along with its fat — but no more than one average helping of the other foods. Revolutionary as it sounds, it works!

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

May someone else in a dream "mean" you?

Answer: Yes. The central figure in a dream almost invariably stands for the dreamer, even though the dreamer also may appear as an "observer." If you dream of watching somebody commit a crime, for instance, the criminal probably embodies your own repressed lawless impulses, while a "conquering hero" pictures you in the role that you would like to play, if you could. Dreams are basically ways of making your unconscious wishes come true, and by putting someone else in your place in them, you can do at second hand what you literally "would not dream of doing" yourself, however much you might secretly want to.

Can tests detect "accident proneness"?

Answer: No, writes psychologist Frank J. Harris in Personnel Psychology. He relates how 25 industrial "accident repeaters" were compared with 25 otherwise matched persons who were "accident free." A number of personality tests were given to both groups and revealed no significant differences between them. This may mean — as Mr. Harris seems to think—that there is no such thing as "accident proneness," or may merely show that the tests used do not uncover the unconscious self-destructive impulses that make people repeatedly hurt themselves.

Is alcoholism hereditary?

Answer: Certainly not. The most that can be said is that certain people may inherit a "nervous system" which has less than average ability to withstand the effects of drinking. If a drunkard's son becomes an alcoholic, it is because he either consciously imitates his father or unconsciously identifies himself with him, not because of anything that he inherits from him. Some of the strictest abstainers are children of alcoholic parents. "Like father, like son" most often applies where the father impresses the son as a lovable or enviable figure, even though he is taught not to approve of him.

Sounds above and below the range of human beings can be detected by dogs.

What May Be New Source Of Food Developed With Aid Of Sun Power

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—The first "large scale" production of what may be a new source of food, developed with the help of sun power, was announced today by the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

What the food might taste like, or just how it could be used—the basis is a tiny green fresh-water plant—are questions for the future.

The work is now in the "pilot plant" stage, and the institution said the next step would be to determine whether the process is feasible for full-scale commercial production.

If it should prove so, the Carnegie announcement said, the substance involved and others like it "might represent an increase in the world's food supply or a source of industrial raw materials."

Carnegie officials told a reporter that if the process works out, the first possibility would be food for animals, but it might also have possibilities for supplementing the human diet, especially in countries where people don't eat so well now.

The material under study is the one-celled green alga plant, "chlorella," one of a family of plants which, in nature, occur either as seaweeds or as various miscroscopic forms of fresh-water plants. Chlorella is a fresh-water form.

In the Carnegie studies, samples of the natural plants are caused to grow artificially in plastic tubes and troughs which are exposed to the action of the sun.

First Game Since 1941 Sherman Is The Name

Accident Nears Title Race Track Nicknames

By C. V. BURNS

When LaSalle plays the West Virginia School for the Deaf on Friday (2:30) at Romney it will mark the first meeting of the Explorers and Silents on the gridiron in ten years.

The schools last met in 1941, concluding a series that lasted six consecutive years.

LaSalle has been returned the victor in five of the six games. The Explorers' only loss (18-6) came in 1938, the only season in which the North Centre Street school failed to win a game.

LaSalle won by scores of 25-6, 7-2, 27-12, 13-0 and 26-0 in the contests played in 1936, 1937, 1939, 1940 and 1941.

• — • — •

Johnstown Catholic High School ran roughshod over St. Wendelin's of Pittsburgh on Friday, 51-0. LaSalle's lone victory of the season was over St. Wendelin's, 13-6.

Altoona Catholic High, scheduled to play LaSalle, November 16 in Altoona, took a 31-6 pasting at the hands of Hollidaysburg last week.

• — • — •

Bedford High is batting .667 to date, having won four and lost two. The Bisons dropped a 13-7 decision to Huntingdon last week.

• — • — •

Allegany High School was well scouted Saturday night when it bumped off Keyser at the stadium.

Coach Frank Wimer and his three assistants blew in from Elkins and Coach Reno Continetti with his four full-time aides were on hand from Montgomery Blair High School, Silver Spring, to give Bob Pence's Campers the "once over."

Montgomery Blair High has a larger student body than either Allegany or Fort Hill. The Silver Spring eleven plays the Campers here Friday night at 8.

• — • — •

Elkins High School, one of the super duper teams in the Class "A" race in West Virginia, has knocked off six opponents since the season got under way.

The Tigers, who have a date with Allegany here Saturday, November 10, have whipped Belington Victory (Clarksburg), Buckhannon, Morgantown, Roosevelt-Wilson (Clarksburg) and Fairmont East, piling up 132 points to the opposition's 60.

Before beating Fairmont East last week, 27-20, the Wimermen held fourth place in the state ratings.

• — • — •

Dorsey Sherman, quarterback of the Randolph countians, is being boomed for the West Virginia All-State team. In last Friday's game against Fairmont, Sherman scored all 27 points.

Here's how he did it:

Took a punt and ran 65 yards to the goal line in the first quarter. Place-kicked the extra point.

Went 45 yards for a touchdown and place-kicked the point to break a 7-7 tie in the second period.

Before the half ended he carried to the pay line from the East Side 30 and again converted on a place-kick.

In the third frame he ran from the Fairmont 15 for a td but the extra point try was futile.

Allegany remembers the name Sherman. Last year, the Elkins back intercepted an AHS pass and won the game by the score of 12-6.

• — • — •

With five consecutive victories over West Virginia schools, Johnny Paugh's Moorefield High Yellowjackets are rated high in the Class "B" grid race in West Virginia.

The Hardy countians have taken the measure of Greenbank, Thomas, Petersburg, Romney and Ridgeley.

Romney copped state Class "B" honors in 1949.

• — • — •

Ridgeley High never has beaten Fort Hill in football and should be a pushover on Saturday night.

Fort Hill has won eight of the nine games. The 1946 contest, played in the rain, was a scoreless tie.

The Hawks have failed to score in six of the nine games.

LaSalle is in the same boat as Ridgeley. The Explorers have lost 18 and played a tie with Fort Hill.

• — • — •

Beall High will be striving for its first win over Romney when the teams tangle Saturday in Frostburg.

The series started in 1946 and Romney won by scores of 21-0, 44-6, 12-0 and 33-7.

There was no game in 1950.

Nicknames are so commonplace around the race track that close friends frequently fail to know each other by their real moniker, writes Snowden Carter, Baltimore Sun turf expert.

Three race track men well known to fans at Fairgo, Cumberland's half miler, are among those listed by Carter, namely Lando (Sixty) Bressan, Arthur (Steeples) Richardson and Wilson (Willie Postal) Ford.

Bressan, who is Racing Secretary Cowill's right hand man at Fairgo, says he acquired his nickname when he first came to the tracks in 1935.

"I was," he explains, "wearing a football jersey with No. 60 on the back of it. Nobody knew my name, so they just hollered, 'Hey, you, 60!'"

Richardson, a Negro handyman employed in the racing secretary's office, says:

"I always been 'Steeples' since I was 10 or 12 years old.

"I don't know rightly how I got the name, unless it's my head."

He took off his cap, exposed a cranium which rose sharply to a point, not unlike a steeple.

Ford, who makes the chart at Fairgo for the Racing Form and this paper, tells how he got his nickname.

"I was a messenger boy in the press box for Postal Telegraph and the Western Union messenger was Willie, too. So, to tell us apart, the reporters used the telegraph companies as a sort of last name."

Bechtol Intercepts Pass For Winning TD

Neil Bechtol's 60-yard runback on an intercepted pass for a touchdown late in the third quarter gave Coach Ray Hull's Fort Hill High Jayvees a thrilling 12-6 victory over Romney High's Jayvees yesterday at Romney, W. Va.

Moments earlier Bechtol had intercepted a pass thrown by Hartman, Romney quarterback, and raced 55 yards for an apparent tie-breaking score but the play was called back on a penalty.

The victory was the fifth straight this year for the Hullmen and marked the 15th win in succession by the Little Sentinels over a two year period.

Romney scored first in the tight battle when Hartmen hit R. Parker on the 10-yard line with a pass from the 25 and Parker carried it over. The Little Sentinels came back to knot the count moments later on a pass from Charles Widdows to Richard Bittner in the end zone. The play covered 20 yards.

Fort Hill racked up six first downs to Romney's four and completed three of seven passes to the Little Pioneers' four of 16. Two of Romney's tosses were captured by Fort Hill interceptors.

Parker, Hartman and Largent were outstanding for the losers while the defensive play of the Fort Hill line stood out.

Fort Hill will play host to unbeaten Allegany Jayvees Monday at 3:30 p. m. The lineups:

| Pos.—FORT HILL (12) | ROMNEY (6) |
|---|---|
| LE—Bittner | Coleman |

March 1—Davidson, home.

12 Shuffleboard Teams In Action On Thursday

Twelve of the 14 teams in the Men's County Shuffleboard League will swing into action on Thursday night.

The schedule for the second week of the season is as follows:

Mt. Savage VFW at Viaduct Inn, Fisher and Robinette at Purple Heart, Frostburg American Legion at Frostburg K. of C., Cumberland V. F. W. at Frostburg Century Club, Goodfellowship Club at Cumberland K. of C. and the Cumberland Amvets at Stadium Inn, Frostburg.

The Alhambra Club will visit the Woodmen of the World Friday night.

Jockeys Suspended

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 15 (AP)—Jockeys Ira Hanford and Emileo Carrillo today were ordered suspended for 10 days for careless riding on last Saturday's program at Laurel Race Track. The suspensions become effective tomorrow.

Ward Suffers Broken Hand In Georgia Tilt

COLLEGE PARK, Oct. 15 (AP)—X-rays disclosed today that Bob Ward, All-America guard last year, broke a bone in his hand during the Maryland-Georgia game Saturday night.

Ward hurt his left hand after about 10 minutes of the game but refused to come out. He was called by both sides the most spectacular lineman on the field.

The hand wasn't any better today, so Coach Jim Tatum called for the X-rays. The prints showed a fracture of the second metatarsal of the index finger.

Trainer Duke Wyre said a specially designed brace is being made which will permit Ward to play without hindrance next Saturday against North Carolina

Cumberland Wins Special .30-Cal. Rifle Team Shoot

H. M. Robertson Cops Individual Honors

Cumberland riflemen defeated teams from Fort Hill and LaVale in a special .30 caliber service rifle match on the Fort Hill club's Bedford Road range Sunday. The 100-yard course was fired with the Garand semi-automatic rifle with the Cumberlanders compiling an aggregate 3,061 points to Fort Hill's 2,963 and LaVale's 2,694.

Hayes M. Robertson of Cumberland captured individual honors with 157 points for ten rounds rapid fire prone and ten rounds slow fire standing, and an aggregate total of 497 of a possible 600 for three matches.

Fort Hill's Frank Simpson posted an 87 and 87 for 174 points of a possible 200 in slow fire and rapid fire in the prone position, while Harold Everline of LaVale scored 92 and 89 for 181 in slow fire sitting and rapid fire prone.

The results of the three individual matches were compiled for team aggregate totals. The scores:

AHS Jayvees Rally, Defeat LaSalle, 12-7

Rank To Reiber Pass Decides Close Game

Allegany High School's junior varsity griders staged a garrison finish to defeat an inspired LaSalle Jayvee eleven yesterday at Campobello by the score of 12-7.

Trailing 7-0 going into the fourth quarter, the Little Campers scored twice to overcome the opposition.

Dick Rank ran around his own right end thirty-five yards for the Campers' first touchdown. The plunge for the extra point was short.

After holding LaSalle for downs, James Hoffman returned Bobby Christ's punt back to the 20 yard line. Two plays later, Rank passed to Bob Reiber in the end zone for the winning touchdown. Rank's kick was wide.

LaSalle scored on a 45-yard touchdown run by Bob Christ in the opening period. A pass, Shuck to Williams, was good for the point.

Christ, Crowe, Lennox and Shuck were outstanding for the Little Explorers while Rank, Reiber, Wartzack and Reynolds were the best for AHS.

Allegany led in first downs, 16-10 and completed three of six passes. LaSalle failed to connect on six aerials and had one pass intercepted.

The victory was the third in a row for Coach James Hosack's eleven.

GRAND SLAMMER — S. Lua Syckes has scored a "grand slam" in tennis for the 1951 season by winning the Dingle, city and county championships. By defeating Bill Day in the finals of the county tourney on Saturday, Syckes won the first leg on the three-year county tennis trophy offered by the S. T. Little Jewelry Company. Those who have won and retired trophies in recent years were Lawrence Middlekamp, Charles Jones and Russell Ponton. Syckes is teacher of instrumental music and director of the band at Allegany High School.

Graduates Head Choices For Top Football Jobs

Colleges Turn To Alumni For Mentors

ATLANTA, Oct. 15 (AP)—Before World War II when a college needed a head football coach—as they often did — the college usually checked over the supply of graduates from Notre Dame, Yale, Chicago or Alabama.

Today, when a college needs a coach—as they often do—the college gets out its own alumni list and takes a look.

Usually they find what they want—a homegrown boy with something on the ball.

Of 526 major and minor colleges checked, 121 have one of their own graduates running the football department.

Alumni Now Coaching

This return of the native is almost pronounced at major colleges as it is in smaller schools which play the great bulk of football on fall Saturdays.

Fifty-one large schools out of 250 checked have alumni as head coaches. Among 276 small schools there are 70 men who played and now coach at the same school.

Three large schools—Texas, Auburn and Duke—hired graduates this year: Ed Price at Texas, Ralph Jordan at Auburn and Bill Murray at Duke. Other fairly recent examples of such homecomings are Bill Voights at Northwestern, Mike Holovak at Boston College, Benny Oosterbaan at Michigan and Gus Tinsley at LSU.

When Minnesota needed a fill in after Bernie Bierman took his leave first choice was graduate Bud Wilkinson, Oklahoma's greatest coach. Only when Wilkinson said "no" did Minnesota begin an extensive search elsewhere.

The spreading out of football and the return of former players to home colleges have thoroughly broken the monopoly of a handful of colleges supplying practically all head coaches.

Michigan, Notre Dame Lead

Two hundred and 79 schools supplied head coaches for the 526 colleges checked.

Michigan and Notre Dame led the check with 15 head coaches each. During the late 1930's about 50 followers of the late Knute Rockne were spread about the nation preaching the football gospel of Notre Dame.

Minnesota was third with 14. Other schools well represented among head coaches are: Illinois 13; Pittsburgh 12; Tennessee 10; North Carolina and Alabama, eight each; Iowa seven; Northwestern, Ohio State and Missouri, six each, and five each from Southern Cal., Pennsylvania, Vanderbilt, T. C. U. and Stanford.

Three Jockeys Get Prison Terms For Giving Teen-Agers Narcotics

Seven Men Sentenced By Baltimore Judge

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP)—Three jockeys and two exercise riders were among seven men sentenced to prison terms today on charges growing out of parties at which teen-age girls were given narcotics.

Criminal Judge Joseph Sherbow said the circumstances of one case involving a 17-year-old schoolgirl were "too sordid to be repeated."

Charles Richardson, 28-year-old negro exercise rider at race tracks, drew the stiffest term of 10 years in the penitentiary. He could have been sentenced to twice that long for supplying dope to minors under a 1951 Maryland law.

Three-year terms were given Robert Williams, 22-year-old former exercise rider, James McDermott, 20-year-old Glen Cove, N. Y., jockey, and Frank Novella, 21, Lawrence, Mass., jockey.

Thomas Kane, 20, another jockey from Baltimore was sentenced to two years and Wilford Dion, 18-year-old exercise boy, and Albert Rice, 19, to 18 months.

The seven were arrested after police investigated reports of parties around the Pimlico race track section last spring. Five girls were involved, two of them 15 years old.

"These cases," said Judge Sherbow, "must serve as a warning to peddlers, who must know that no matter how much money is involved in this racket, it will never be able to pay for the long years they must spend in prison."

• — • — •

Griffith Wants Baseball Reserve Clause Retained

Al Widmar Suggests Players' Guild For Salary Disputes

BY ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP) — Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, told congress today he once violated baseball's controversial reserve clause—and thereby helped found the American League.

But, Griffith said, he favors hanging the penalty on any player who does today what he did in 1901.

The penalty now: the player would be barred from the league for five years.

Griffith expressed his views to a house judiciary subcommittee which is trying to find out whether baseball violates the anti-trust laws.

It has been particularly interested in the reserve clause. This, in effect, binds the player to stay with the team with which he first signs.

Today's hearing wandered all over the outfield, from the woes of playing in the minors to the troubles of an umpire.

But Griffith's story seemed to interest the committee the most.

Griffith was a star pitcher for the National League before he jumped to the new American League in 1901. He said he feels his move was justified, because, he said, baseball was dying for want of competition.

But the 82-year-old, and still vigorous, owner of the Washington Senators, supported the reserve clause wholeheartedly, in spite of the way he flouted it 50 years ago.

"We can't have players jumping from one league to another," he said. "It would destroy baseball."

Other developments today:

1. The subcommtitee disclosed it had in its possession a mysterious secret document purportedly written in 1946 by Larry MacPhail, then an owner of the New York Yankees.

All but two copies of this document were destroyed. Not only that. But the document was watered down, and some of the rough spots were cut out. Every copy of this milder version apparently has been destroyed, too.

In general, the MacPhail document is critical of the baseball setup and urges changes in its structure.

2. Al Widmar, a St. Louis Browns pitcher and one time holdout, suggested that players should be given the right to set up a guild to handle salary disputes.

3. Ernie Stewart, a onetime American League umpire, said he lost his job when caught in a crossfire between former high commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler and the league president, Will Harridge.

Stewart, now a Los Angeles hardware merchant, testified he was discharged by Harridge in 1945 after he undertook to sound out fellow umpires on their salaries and working conditions, at the direction of Chandler.

"I simply don't want him on the American League staff," he quoted Harridge as saying at a hearing at which he was not permitted to testify.

Rep. Hillings (R-Calif), who has been arguing for major league ball on the west coast, got a firm "no" out of Griffith.

Hillings thought maybe a couple of west coast clubs could come into the majors.

No, Griffith said, that would wreck the Pacific Coast League, and pile up all sorts of travel complications.

Why not use airplanes? asked Hillings.

No, said Griffith, "I can't put all my eggs in one basket."

How about making the coast league a major league?

No, Griffith said, too many cities in the league are too small for major league ball.

Yanks Buy Three Minor Leaguers

Obtain First Sacker, Pitchers From Farms

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—The New York Yankees today purchased the contracts of a first baseman and two pitchers from their farm club affiliates in Kansas City and Beaumont, Tex.

They are Don Bollweg, a left-handed hitter and thrower who batted .303 for Kansas City during the season, and pitchers Harry Shaeffer and Tom Gorman, both with Beaumont this year.

Shaeffer's contract was purchased from Kansas City, since he had been on option from that club to Beaumont where he won 19 and lost 9 games. A southpaw, Shaeffer was a workhorse of the Texas League, pitching 261 innings and striking out 122 batters. His home is Shillington, Pa.

Bollweg, from Wheaton, Ill., played in 122 games, had 129 hits, belted 20 home runs, scored 109 runs and batted in 69 runs. He was in the deal that sent third baseman Bill Johnson to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Gorman, in the Yankee farm system since 1946, is from Valley Stream, N. Y. He set a Texas League record by pitching 42 consecutive scoreless innings this year, winning 12 and losing eight games.

Bob Baker Wins

RICHARD BEARD

Beard Is Named Player Of Week For Second Time

Fort Hill Back Star In LaSalle Contest

Richard Beard, hard-running left halfback of the Fort Hill Sentinels, captured the Knights of Columbus Player of the Week award for the second time this season with an outstanding display of running and kicking in Friday night's first intra-city contest with LaSalle.

Beard thus joins former teammate Lynn Beightol and Allegany's Earl "Lefty" Bruce as the only athletes to cop the award more than once during a single season. Bruce won the prize twice in 1948 and then was named Player of the Year while Beightol copped the award once in 1949 and three times in 1950. He was named Player of the Year in both 1949 and 1950. Beard also won last year.

The Fort Hill scatback, this year's leading scorer in the city, sparked with fine running and defensive work and kicked four extra points while scoring two touchdowns in Fort Hill's 40-0 victory over the Explorers.

Also considered in the Sentinel's easy win were Bill Lee, stellar guard, Gene Alderton, center, and Donald Stine, fullback. Outstanding candidates for LaSalle were Earl McKenzie, halfback and Jimmy O'Rourke, tackle.

The K of C committee also selected Ronnie Sisk, Dick Widdows and John Eversole of Allegany for consideration in the Campers' 37-18 verdict over Keyser Saturday.

Beard's selection as the top player is the sixth of the season. Others named for the award are Joe Hager, Allegany, Bobby Arnone and Ray Brown, LaSalle, and Leonard White, Fort Hill.

Marion Through As Active Player

To Discuss Manager Contract With Saigh

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 15 (AP) — In a blanket announcement, the St. Louis Cardinals today revealed deals involving 15 players, with four promising youngsters scheduled to move from minor league orgnaizations to the parent club.

Eight of the players will leave the Cardinals for the minors while Catcher Bob Scheffing and Manager Marty Marion have been handed unconditional releases. Marion's release concerns only his capacity as a player.

Owner Fred Saigh expects to discuss Marion's managerial position when the one-time Cardinal shortstop returns from a hunting trip later this month. Marion was listed as a player in the 1951 season, but didn't enter the lineup.

The four newcomers to the Cards are Pitcher Octavio Rubert from Houston of the Texas League, Second Baseman Earl Weaver from Omaha of the Western League, Outfielder Vincent Moreci from Columbus, Ga., of the South Atlantic League and Pitcher Ralph Beard from Allentown of the Inter-State League.

In exchange, Rochester of the International League will receive Pitchers Fred Martin, Danny Lewandowski and Jack Crimian, and Outfielders Harry Walker and Eldon (Rip) Repulski. Houston gets First Baseman Vernal (Nippy) Jones and Ed Mickelson, and Omaha receives First Baseman Harvey Zernia.

Walker will take over as manager of the Rochester Club, replacing Johnny Keane, who like Scheffing will remain in the Cardinal organization in another position.

Cartier Scores KO

BOSTON, Oct. 15—(INS)—Middleweight contender Walter Cartier of New York tonight knocked out Joe Rindone of Roxbury in just 48 seconds of the first round of a scheduled 10-rounder at Boston Garden.

Cartier's first blow, a left hook, floored the ex-Marine, who bounced up, but was forced to take a nine-count by the referee. Cartier then moved in with a barrage that finished off the Roxbury veteran who had to be carried to his corner.

Terps Advance From Tenth To Seventh Place

Tennessee Is 2nd While Spartans Skid Into Third Place

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—The University of California Golden Bears were voted the No. 1 college football team today in the third weekly nation-wide poll of the Associated Press. Michigan State, the top team for the first two weeks, skidded to third place, as Tennessee moved into the No. 2 spot.

Coach Pappy Waldorf's Bears, winner of four straight games after defeating Washington State last week, 42-35, received 50 first place votes out of a total of 138 ballots sent in by sports writers and sportscasters.

Michigan State, hard-pressed to defeat Marquette Saturday, 20-14, got only 16 first place votes, and a total of 935 points.

Tennessee, which picked on undermanned Chattanooga to the tune of 42-13 last week, received 26 first place votes and 977 points. In a pre-season poll, Tennessee had been tabbed as the probable No. 1 team of the land.

Otherwise, there was considerable scrambling of positions, with two newcomers moving into the select top teams—Princeton and Baylor, nine and ten, respectively.

Irish Take Plunge

They replaced Notre Dame, fifth a week ago, and Ohio State, which was No. 9. Notre Dame dropped out after suffering a 27-20 defeat at the hands of Southern Methodist Saturday. Ohio State, beaten a week ago by Michigan State, and tied by Wisconsin last Saturday, 6-6, fell to No. 17.

Others in the top ten this week:

Texas, No. 4; Georgia Tech, No. 5; Texas A & M, No. 6; Maryland, No. 7; and Illinois, No. 8.

Texas, a 9 to 7 winner over Oklahoma, moved up from sixth place a week ago, while Texas A & M dropped from fourth to sixth. Texas A & M had a breather Saturday, drubbing Trinity (Tex), 52-14.

The Georgia Tech Yellowjackets, a surprise package in the Southeastern Conference, bounced from eighth place to fifth after bumping Louisiana State, 25-7.

Maryland Is 7th

Another Dixie outfit, the Maryland Terrapins who are favored to win the Southern Conference title, moved up from tenth to seventh place. Maryland overpowered Georgia, 43-7.

Illinois, leading in the Big Ten Conference race, defeated Syracuse Saturday, 41-20, but skidded from seventh to eighth place.

Princeton rolled on undefeated, for its 16th straight game, stopping Pennsylvania, 13-7, to move up from a No. 13 rating a week ago. Baylor, the No. 12 team last week, got into the top 10 by squeezing past Arkansas, 9-7.

The first ten with first place votes in parenthesis:

| | Team | Points |
|---|---|---|
| 1. | California (50) | 1,129 |
| 2. | Tennessee (26) | 977 |
| 3. | Michigan State (16) | 935 |
| 4. | Texas (6) | 719 |
| 5. | Georgia Tech (12) | 689 |
| 6. | Texas A & M (8) | 652 |
| 7. | Maryland (14) | 634 |
| 8. | Illinois (3) | 584 |
| 9. | Princeton (1) | 221 |
| 10. | Baylor | 148 |

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 11. | Sou. California | 125 |
| 12. | Villanova | 98 |
| 13. | Stanford | 97 |
| 14. | Cornell | 76 |

| 16. | College Of The Pacific (1) | 65 |
| 17. | Ohio State | 55 |
| 18. | Northwestern | 28 |
| 19. | Oklahoma | 26 |
| 20. | Washington | 25 |

Others: Notre Dame 24, Wisconsin 20, Cincinnati 18, Auburn (1) 11, Tulane, Kentucky, San Francisco, Colorado, and Michigan 5 each, Columbia, Marquette 4 each, Oregon State 2, Penn State, Kansas, South Dakota State, Washington & Lee, 1 each.

Badminton Club Meets Tonight

Membership Limited To Fifty Persons

The twelfth annual meeting of the Cumberland Badminton Club will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the reception room at the Cumberland Brewing Company, North Centre Street.

This annual get-together meeting is open to former club members and their friends interested in joining this year.

Because of the small number of courts available the club's membership has always been limited to fifty members.

Badminton players in this section wishing to join the club this year should attend the meeting tonight or contact one of the following officers:

Walter S. Eyler, president; Bert A. Mason, vice-president; Mrs. Richard W. Travaskis, secretary; Norman E. Sell, treasurer.

Ortmann Reported Resting "Pretty Good"

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 15 (AP)—Steeler back Chuck Ortmann was reported "resting pretty good" today at a hospital where he is being treated for a concussion.

Ortmann was kicked in the head yesterday after racing 62 yards with an intercepted pass against the San Francisco Forty Niners.

To Undergo Operation

CLEVELAND, Oct. 15 (AP)—Luke Easter, Cleveland first baseman will undergo an operation on his swollen right knee Nov. 13, the team announced today.

The knee bothered Easter a large part of the 1951 season. He will not be hospitalized until he completes a barnstorming tour with Jackie Robinson's All-Star team.

Two Garrett Soccer Tilts Today, Ferguson Tops Point Getters

Garrett County High School Soccer League games are scheduled for today at Grantsville and Kitzmiller.

Oakland and Grantsville will battle it out for second place at Grantsville and Kitzmiller will play host to Friendsville.

No games are scheduled for Friday.

Raymond Ferguson, center forward of Accident High School's pace-setters, is far out in front in the scoring race with 10 of the 29 points registered by his team. Ferguson has scored in all of the six games won by Coach Charley Strauss' booters.

Ferguson led Accident's champs of 1950 with 18 points to his credit.

Brucker And Chapman Named Reds' Coaches

CINCINNATI, Oct. 15 (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds today announced that Ben Chapman and Earle Brucker have been added to their coaching staff.

Chapman, former manager of the Philadelphia club of the National League, will work from the third base line, according to Manager Luke Sewell. Brucker will be a pitching coach.

Allie Reynolds Tops Hickok Poll With 296 Points

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—Allie Reynolds, who made American League history by pitching two no-hit, no-run games in one season, has been selected the September winner of the Hickok pro athlete of the year competition.

The New York Yankee righthander stopped the Boston Red Sox cold on Sept. 28 to assure the Yanks of a pennant tie. The Yanks won the second game of a doubleheader that day to clinch the flag.

Reynolds won the September award, announced today by a big margin over middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson, who regained his crown by stopping Britain's Randy Turpin. Reynolds received 86 first place ballots and 296 points (based on 3-2-1 scoring). Robinson collected three first placers and 104 points.

Sal Maglie, New York Giants pitching ace, was third with 98 points followed by teammate Monte Irvin, 72; channel swimmer Florence Chadwick, 67; Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson, 41, and Preacher Roe, 9; Jockey Charley Burr, 5, and Ned Garver, 20-game winner for the St. Louis Browns, 4.

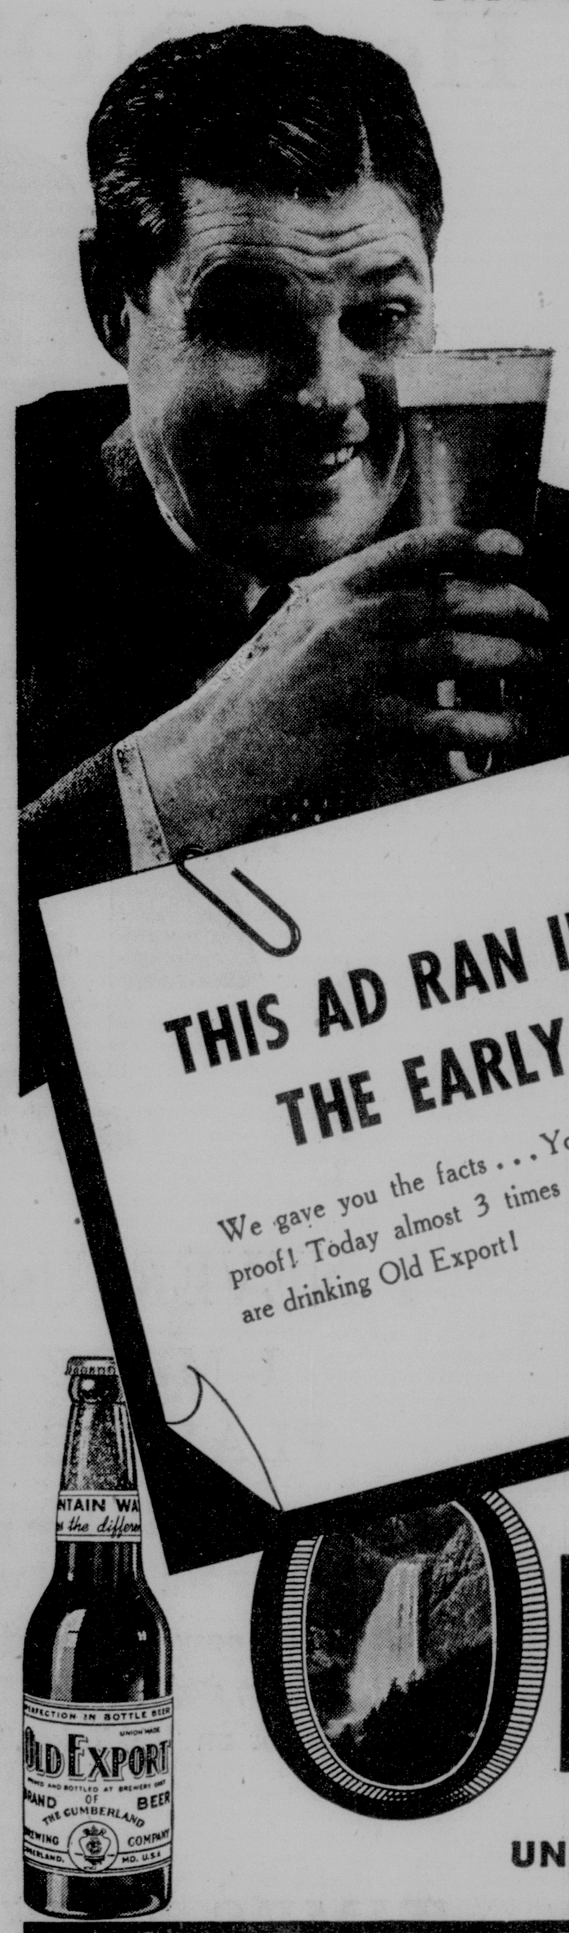
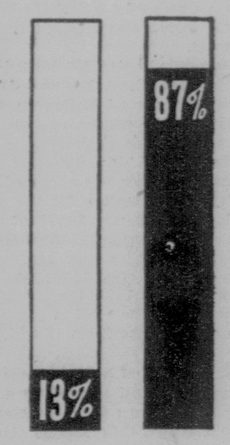
HERE'S THE REAL PAYOFF ON BEER

BEER IS ABOUT 87% WATER--THAT'S WHY THE KIND OF WATER THAT GOES INTO BEER MAKES SO MUCH DIFFERENCE--THESE TWO BARS EXPLAIN WHY THOUSANDS PREFER OLD EXPORT



Every beer drinker has a right to know the true facts about beer and beer flavor—and we're glad to tell them. Here they are. . . . The two bars at the right explain everything. The little one shows the amount of malt, hops, and yeast that goes into a bottle of beer; the big one stands for the amount of water. There's more than six times as much water in beer as all the other things combined. Remember that.

The malt, hops and yeast ARE important. That's why we select ours so carefully. Skill IS important. That's why we have old timers who've been brewing beer for generations. But look how important the water is—(six times as important). You know there's no other water like mountain water. No other has that clear tang, that natural sparkle. And that's OLD EXPORT'S extra . . . that's why "Mountain water makes the difference". That's why OLD EXPORT is different from most beers, that's where it gets its tang, its mellow flavor. Taste for yourself and find out what a difference mountain water makes.



THIS AD RAN IN THE EARLY 30's

We gave you the facts . . . You gave us the proof! Today almost 3 times as many people are drinking Old Export! THANK YOU!

MOUNTAIN WATER MAKES THE DIFFERENCE

THE ANSWER IS IN THE BEER!

City Will Have New Narcotics Ordinance

The city will follow the suggestions of two local women's groups in writing an anti-narcotics ordinance.

Commissioner of Police and Fire John J. Long said he believed some action should be taken on the requests of the Woman's Civic Club and Exemplar chapter of Beta Sigma Phi which were addressed to the Mayor and Council and referred to the Police Department.

One proposal, contained in a sample ordinance from the Civic Club, would provide for a quarantine period for addicts.

City Attorney W. Earle Cobey was instructed by Mayor Thomas S. Post to prepare an ordinance. Cobey said the ordinance submitted by the group was somewhat broader than the anti-narcotics law the city has, but he "would be glad" to prepare a new statute.

The Cumberland Contracting Company submitted the only bid for resurfacing of Massachusetts Avenue between Oldtown Road and Grant Street. It agreed to furnish 515 tons of approved material at $10.87 a ton plus 30 cents a gallon for tack coat. The bid was referred to Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, for report. The firm was awarded a contract for the resurfacing of certain other streets with 1818 tons of approved materials at $10.86 a ton plus 30 cents a gallon for tack coat.

A check in the amount of $27.31 was ordered for Anita Porter representing an overpayment of taxes.

The application of Safeway Motors by George H. Morris, Route 3, Bedford Road, to operate a used car lot at 303 North Mechanic Street was approved.

D. A. Langer's application to open a parking lot at 501-503 North Centre Street also received council approval.

The council voted $50 toward the South Cumberland Business Men's Association annual Halloween celebration at the request of James F. Scarpelli, parade chairman.

The payroll for the first two weeks of October was approved.

Water consumption for the week ending Sunday was 88,920,000 gallons as compared to 86,130,000 during the same period a year ago. The daily average was 12,702,000. The water level at Lake Gordon is ten inches below the crest of the spillway and at Lake Koon 13 feet, two inches below.

When City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery was asked to produce a city license necessary in a hearing at Circuit Court, City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson took over the duties of clerk for the session.

TWUA Meetings Are Slated This Week

Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), will hold membership meetings Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. and Thursday at 10:30 a. m., Playford Aldridge, president, announced yesterday.

Special business will include discussion and action on proposed changes in the by-laws.

An Executive Board recommendation on rules for the local's annual election will also be discussed and acted upon.

Two Blazes Checked By City Firemen

A fire yesterday morning caused considerable damage to the upholstery of an automobile belonging to Joseph Elliott, 353 Dorn Avenue. East Side firemen went to the scene of the blaze at 11:03. Cause of the fire was unknown, firemen said.

South End firemen extinguished a grass fire at 5:21 p. m. yesterday on Laing Avenue extended. No damage was reported.

Beeman's Trial Delay Sought

A motion to postpone the murder trial of Noah Earl Beeman, 24-year old Midland man, charged with slaying his 18-year old wife, was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The motion, filed by Beeman's court-appointed attorneys, Earl E. Manges and Thomas N. Berry, asks for postponement until Beeman's brother, Sgt. Benjamin Beeman, can return from Korea to testify.

Sgt. Beeman, who was with his brother earlier the night of the slaying in August, is now in a hospital at Pusan, Korea, awaiting evacuation to Japan for further treatment of wounds.

Beeman's trial in the penknife slaying of his estranged wife, Donna L. (Airhart) Beeman, in Frostburg, August 12, has been set for tomorrow.

Associate Judge George Henderson, to whom the motion was made, is holding the matter in abeyance.

Arthur L. Marple Dies In Florida

New Annex Is Dedicated By Fairview Congregation

The new Sunday School and recreation room of Fairview Avenue Methodist Church was dedicated Sunday with the principal speech being made by Rev. Harry C. Marsh, superintendent of the Hagerstown District of the Methodist Church.

The two-story concrete block structure, 21 by 34 feet, is estimated to be worth $7,000, with all of the cost being met through donations and voluntary labor.

During Sunday's dedicatory rally, a fund was started for a heating plant for the building and Rev. B. F. Hartman, pastor, said a total of $531.52 was donated.

The history of the new building dates back to June, 1949, when Rev. Hartman was appointed pastor. Several suggestions were offered as to the solution of a problem of space needed for the Sunday School. One of the suggestions called for the erection of a new church on the corner of Sylvan Avenue and Holland Streets, but Rev. Hartman said an addition to the present structure seemed more logical.

On November 9, 1950, at a meeting of the church board, a building committee, headed by Robert Webster, was named. Other members were John Zimmerman, Jr., Mrs. L. E. Watkins, Mrs. Jesse Baker and Mrs. Elwood Stewart, secretary. Mrs. Hoy Atkinson and Mrs. Jacob Walters were named to assist with the soliciting of funds.

The neighborhood was canvassed for funds, with gold certificates being given those who contributed $5 or more. Rev. Hartman called the response "most gratifying," people of all creeds donating a total of $1,010.06. The Methodist Conference gave the project an added stimulant with a donation of $750.

Actual construction began last spring, with the building permit being obtained December 27, 1950. The ground for the new building was broken March 15.

Members of the congregation teamed with neighbors, friends and students of a G. I. trade school in the construction of the building. Rev. Hartman said a conservative estimate placed the number of volunteer man hours at 1,287 and donation of materials amounting to $245.

The Women's Society of Christian Service sponsored a variety of activities for the building fund which netted $792.49. This money went for the purchase of electric light fixtures, sink and lavatory.

Also in the "A" group is the Hercules Powder Company, Allegany Ballistics Laboratory personnel.

Mrs. Morris L. Barnes, chairman of the Residential section and a committee were busy yesterday telephoning the officers of dozens of the clubs and organizations urging that treasury contributions be made to the joint appeal.

The Tri-Hi-Y Club of Allegany High School contributed $5.

Ridgeley Legion Meets Tonight

Members of Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion, will meet this evening at 8 o'clock at the post home, Leo V. Mills, commander, announced last night. A buffet lunch will be served during the social hour which will follow the meeting.

The Fall program at the Legion home has been formulated, Mills added. On Wednesday evenings at 9 o'cock, free movies, open to the public, are to be shown.

Beginning Thursday at 9 p. m. a dance, open to members and guests, will be held with music by Virginia Harrison and Cy. "Buck night" continues to be held on Saturday with dancing starting at 9 p. m. Music is provided by the Kings of Swing featuring Sonny Harris, vocalist and entertainer.

On Sunday evenings entertainment is provided by the Helen Pettie Trio. One of the most popular programs is the free movies shown to children of the community each Saturday at 10 a. m.

McAlpine To Speak To Life Underwriters

John M. McAlpine, assistant safety engineer at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation, will be principal speaker at a meeting of the Cumberland Life Underwriters Association Friday at 12 noon in Central YMCA.

McAlpine will give an illustrated talk on safety and will show a motion picture sponsored by the National Safety Council.

Ray F. Hamner, president, will be in charge of the session. Other officers are Joseph Graham and Ralph Frantz, vice presidents, Albert H. Macy, secretary, and L. M. Robertson, treasurer.

52 Countians Will Sing In All-State School Chorus

Fifty-two boys and girls, representing seven Allegany County high schools, will leave Wednesday for Baltimore to participate in the All-Maryland High School Chorus which will sing during the annual convention of the Maryland Teachers Association Wednesday through Friday.

Jack E. Platt, supervisor of music in county schools, listed the names yesterday. They include:

Barton — Carolyn Harvey, Sally Hyde and William Hyde.

Allegany — Stella Charuhas, Patricia Anne Dixon, Judy Johnson, Nancy Miller, Sandra Lee Rapson, Frances Reynolds, Patricia Taylor, Leon Armentrout, Davey Ayers, Donald Flanagan, Carl Slemmer and Jack Reckley.

Fort Hill — Alberta Miller, Shirley Brinkman, Delores Burger, Pauline House, Shirley Kessell, Susan Mostoller, Claudetta Twigg, Tom Buser, Bill Burkhart, DeLysle Henry, Jerry Matlick and Warfield Wilson.

Beall — Sheila Clise, Leorna Cutter, Marian Snyder, Peggy Sweene, Margaret Williams, Stuart Blair, Leland Harvey, Charles McFarland and Dale Swecker.

Central — Shirley Burt, Carol Foote, Elmer Cameron, Robert Dawson, John Dickinson and Jack Meese.

Oldtown — Wilda Scott, Rebecca Smith and Eddy Mueller.

Bruce — Carol Lee Burke, Monta Jean Chaney, Nancy McGiboney, Mary Kay Poland, John Dettra, Robert Shimer and Robert Walker.

In all 400 members of the Chorus and All-State Orchestra will participate. They are selected by music instructors on the basis of local rehearsals of program selections. They will stay in Baltimore hotels with their teachers serving as chaperones.

Mrs. Elaine Brown, director of musical activities at Temple University, will conduct the Chorus in rehearsals and in a performance before a general session of the convention Thursday at 2 p. m.

The clinic rehearsals and a program appearance of the Orchestra Saturday at 10:30 a. m., will be under the direction of Hendrick Essers, conductor of the Washington Civic Orchestra, and instruction in instrumental music, Woodrow Wilson High School, Washington, D. C.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — (INS) — The news dispatches from Korea last week mentioned, in passing that Capt. William D. Clark, commanding Company G, 9th Infantry Regiment, 2nd Infantry Division, had been wounded again.

We bring up the matter because of a complaint, received here once, that military brass which is a product of West Point has a way of picking soft spots for sons in uniform. Capt. Clark is the son of Mark Clark . . . Gen. Mark Clark, chief of the Army field forces.

The mother and father of young Captain Clark learned of their son's second Purple Heart—he was quite badly wounded several months ago—just after learning that their boy had been awarded the Silver Star by Gen. Ridgway.

The citation attached to that award reads: "For gallantry in action on 16 May, 1951, in the vicinity of Chunchon, Korea. On that day—the citation continues in the brisk language of the department of defense—Captain Clark led his company on a routine patrol to probe enemy lines. As the company was crossing open terrain it was subjected to intense enemy fire which forced the men to seek cover.

"Noticing that two wounded men lay in an exposed position, Capt. Clark and the company aid-man went back, braving the deadly enemy fire to pick up the two wounded men. To get these two wounded men to safety, Capt. Clark and the air-man constructed a crude stretcher and carried them out, all the time being subjected to intense enemy fire. Capt. Clark's gallantry and devotion to the members of his command reflect great credit upon himself and the military service."

Must be quite a fellow.

I have a note from Gen. Clark, on another matter, and I quote a portion of it. The General, who has seen a lot of war himself, writes.

"Bill is still over there with his outfit and is getting wonderful experience. Naturally, in my job as head of Army field forces I have a deep, deep interest in the Korean war, but when one's only son is there it becomes sort of a personal interest, too. I get so many letters from mothers and wives with their loved ones over there, and I can deeply sympathize with them in their concern. For I know."

• — • — •

Speaking of the military, there's just no end to its specialization. At Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, D. C., the Army has just graduated a class of 42 enlisted men and 18 WACS . . . all trained to treat anything from a badly wounded man to a baby in need of a fresh diaper. It's the first time since the Civil War that a nursing course has been offered to husky he-men . . . and the waiting line was considerable.

The GIs who graduated—all sergeants, by the way—are now equipped to tackle not only normal and emergency medicine and surgery but also have been trained in the fields of dietetics, sociology, psychology, housekeeping, and the care of ailing infants. The babies program means the works—bathing, oiling, powdering, burping, diapering, sterilization of bottles and preparation of formulas. The boys practiced on life-like 5½ pound dolls.

The course (which will be continued) is designed to relieve the load on the energies of the regular Army Nurse Corps, now sadly shorthanded. Graduates qualify for state practical nurses' licenses. The boys also were taught how to cook, serve, and how to find bargains at the commissary.

Join the Army and roam the range . . . the kitchen range.

DISTRIBUTION AS GOOD

LACK OF HIGH cards is no reason for failing to raise your partner's suit bid, if you have satisfactory assets of another kind. "Another kind" means distribution, in the form of plenty of cards in his trump suit, four or more, together with a blank suit or singleton where those trumps may be used for ruffing. Such a hand, with almost no high card strength at all, can often be more valuable to your partner than one with a pretty fair amount of high card strength, but a more or less balanced distribution.

South, in the rubber game where this hand was dealt, had played the game only a few months and was at the stage where he critically appraised every move he made, since he was a conscientious chap. After he had led a club, and East was set only one trick in the 4-Hearts doubled, he sheepishly apologized to his partner for having made a mistake in the bidding.

Actually he made two mistakes. But, in the three opportunities he received to take action, the only time he was right was the time he thought he had gone wrong. That was when he raised his partner's 1-Club to 2-Clubs after East's intervening bid of 1-Heart. He branded that raise as improper when he had "only half of an honor trick" in his hand.

His distributional values were so splendid, with five trumps and a singleton, that he should have bid 5-Clubs on his second turn over East's 4-Diamonds, especially since his partner had immediately before that made his powerful cue-bid of the opponents' heart suit at 3-Hearts. He had his third chance when North's double of the 4-Hearts reached him, but he passed when he should have bid 5-Clubs for two reasons—first, his fine fit with the clubs and, second, his lack of defensive strength. The 5-Clubs would have been easy to make, with the loss of just one trick in each major suit.

What would you consider the best bidding of this deal after North overcalls 1-Club with 1-Diamond?

Market, By Narrow Margin, Advances; Changes Small

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—The stock market advanced today by a very narrow margin. There were only five more advances than there were declines and most price changes were fractions.

Prices wavered between small losses and equally small gains. But throughout the session there was an underlying tendency toward small gains.

Activity was moderate all day and the volume for the session was 1,710,000 shares.

There was no particular group in which issues were especially strong or exceptionally weak.

There were 444 advances and 439 declines out of a total of 1,171 issues traded. New highs were touched by 53 stocks and ten drooped to new lows.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks squeezed ahead 10 cents to $101.50 for a new 21-year high. The industrial and utilities groups each advanced 10 cents and rails remained unchanged.

Just as there was no outstanding group pricewise, there also was no particular group in which the demand was centered. There were a good number of low priced issues among the more active stocks.

The most active stock of the day was Panhandle Producing and Refining, which sold 35,000 shares and moved up ⅛ at 9⅞. The runnerup was Standard Oil (NJ) — 22,000 shares, up ⅞ at 69½.

There were nine advances and four declines among the 15 most active stocks and two remained unchanged.

There were a few outstanding advances. For instance Amrada Petroleum moved ahead 2¼ at 53½.

Phelps Dodge was up ⅛ at 79¾; Revere Copper and Brass was ahead a point at 32¾, and American Woolen gained 1¼ at 42.

But most of the gains and losses were of the fractional variety.

Merry-Go-Round

moon is basically that of getting rockets to fly fast enough to attain an "escape" speed—an escape speed being about 23,000 miles an hour—sufficient to escape from the pull of the earth's gravity.

Another problem was to develop a rocket which could carry atomic power in one part of the ship and a human crew in the other part, yet protect the crew from radioactive rays.

The significant fact is that in recent months, a means has been developed to protect the crew from atomic radiation in the rocket. Simultaneously, 20th Century-Fox and Julian Blaustein have just put out a new picture "The Day the Earth Stood Still" which gives a fascinating account of what might happen in Washington, D. C., if a space ship arrived here from another planet. The efforts to preserve the peace when not mere countries, but plants are involved, as set forth in this picture, are worth considering.

Gen. 'Ike's' Army Good But Lacks Combat Polish

Conclusion Drawn From War Games

By TOM STONE

FRANKFURT, Germany—(AP)—It doesn't take a military expert to see the big difference between American soldiers in Europe and the GIs in Korea.

Gen. Eisenhower's troops in West Germany are finely trained men ready, willing and able to go against a Soviet aggressor.

But they lack one vital element which turns a man into a field soldier—trial by combat.

That could be seen in the big combined Allied war games which ended this week.

While the bulk of the troops went through their paces expertly, some made careless military mistakes which would cost them heavily in war.

Here are some glaring examples:

On the first day of maneuvers one company tramped across an open field in plain sight of "enemy" tanks and machine guns. An umpire ruled the company was "wiped out."

Trucks and jeeps in a convoy, moved along a road almost bumper to bumper, providing enemy fighter planes a juicy target.

An antiaircraft outfit set up for action in the middle of a green pasture, openly exposed to air attack.

A platoon of tanks hid in a clump of trees, but were so close together that it would have been almost suicidal to try to change firing positions in a hurry.

Troops representing the "aggressor" force raced into Allied territory without going through the motions of clearing the roads of "mines."

A division chief of staff complained it took two hours for fighter planes to answer an urgent call for an "air strike" when it was most needed.

Of course, these are scattered cases and do not typify the overall performance, but they are things which soldiers should avoid even in practice.

Some high ranking officers say privately that the biggest weakness in Allied defenses in Western Europe is the lack of manpower.

"If the Reds were to strike today we'd be swimming in the Rhine by tomorrow night," said one.

His view, however, wasn't shared by a division commander withdrawing his troops in the face of an "aggressor" attack from the east.

"If we had actually been hit by the Russians we would not be back this far. We would be farther up front fighting them off," he said.

One military observer pointed out that although the training exercise dubbed "Exercise Combine," was supposed to be a joint operation about 90 per cent of the troops were American.

"If we're supposed to work with the British and French and other nationalities in defending Europe they had better give us some more of them so we can get better acquainted," he said.

"We've got to lick this language barrier and get our equipment more standardized," he said. "We've started to integrate, but real integration is a long way off."

16 Allegany Teachers Will Attend Meeting

Baltimore Conclave To Open Thursday

Sixteen Allegany High School teachers will attend the 84th Annual Convention of Maryland Teachers Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Fifth Regiment Armory in Baltimore.

Principal speaker will be Madame Visaya Lokshi Pandit, Indian ambassador to the United States.

Attending from the local school will be Misses Helen McFerran, Olive B. Simpson, Claire Livesay, Dorothy Willison, Jane Grindel, Anna B. Webster, Anna and Theresa Nicht, Mrs. Martha Hamilton, Mrs. Ethel Bruce, Mrs. Elizabeth Burley, Mrs. Ruth Grahame, S. Lua Syckes, Melvin Robb, Morris O'Neill and Boston Sherwood.

Chorus To Sing

The 400 members of the All-Maryland High School Chorus and the All-Maryland High School Orchestra will participate in clinic rehearsals and perform in the general sessions of the convention.

These pupils are selected by their school music teachers on the basis of local rehearsals of the program selections for the convention. They will stay in Baltimore hotels with their teachers serving as chaperones for the three-day training period.

Mrs. Elaine Brown, director of musical activities at Temple University, will conduct the All-Maryland High School Chorus in rehearsals and in a performance before a general session of the convention Thursday at 2 p. m.

The clinic rehearsals and a program appearance of the All-Maryland High School Orchestra Saturday at 10:30 a. m., will be under the direction of Hendrik Essers, conductor of the Washington Civic Orchestra and instructor of instrumental music, Woodrow Wilson High School, Washington. State music teachers will observe the operation of these rehearsal clinics.

College Band To Play

Also featured on the convention program are appearances by the Baltimore City College Concert Band and the Carroll County Elementary School Chorus.

The Baltimore City College Band, conducted by Donald B. Norton, will appear at the second general

Ullery First To Testify Over Court PA System

Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk, established a precedent yesterday.

He was the first person to testify over the new public address system in the Circuit Court room here. He was the first prosecution witness in the horse race betting case against four men arrested last month in a raid at the Scoreboard, 20 North Mechanic Street.

Court jesters commented after the trial that the county should have delayed installing the new system. Included among the property confiscated from the Scoreboard was a public address system.

Rayon Shipments Show Decline In September

Producers' Stocks Jump 49 Per Cent

Shipments of rayon during September totalled 82,100,000 pounds and showed a marked decline from the 97,900,000 pounds shipped in August, according to the Rayon Organon.

The decrease in shipments was 16 per cent compared to August and 25 per cent under the average monthly level of 109,100,000 pounds in the second quarter of 1951.

Viscose high tenacity yarn shipped in September amounted to 27,100,000 pounds compared to 29,500,000 pounds in August and 28,400,000 pounds in July. Viscose-cupra textile yarn shipments in September were 17,200,000 pounds; August 20,500,000 pounds; July 24,900,000 pounds.

Acetate yarn shipments in September totaled 12,200,000 pounds; August 19,800,000 pounds; July 25,500,000 pounds. Viscose-cupra staple plus tow shipments in September were 16,100,000 pounds; August 17,000,000 pounds; July 16,700,000 pounds. Acetate staple plus tow shipments in September were 8,700,000 pounds; August 11,100,000 pounds; July 11,400,000 pounds.

Rayon stock held by producers at the end of September amounted to 62,900,000 pounds, an increase of 49 per cent compared to August 31.

In the third quarter of 1951, producers' stocks of different types of rayon yarn and staple rose as follows:

Viscose high tenacity stocks at the end of July were 1,900,000 pounds; end of August 1,800,000 pounds; and end of September 1,800,000 pounds. Stocks of viscose-cupra textile yarn were: July 10,500,000 pounds; August 19,200,000 pounds; and September 26,700,000 pounds. End of month acetate yarn stocks were: July 7,600,000 pounds; August 15,100,000 pounds and September 25,600,000 pounds. Staple plus tow stocks were: July 4,900,000 pounds; August 6,100,000 pounds; and September 8,700,000 pounds.

Cases Involving 16 Scheduled For Trial Today

Frostburg Moose Trustees Trial Set

Another busy day in Allegany County Circuit Court is anticipated today with 16 persons scheduled to be tried on various charges.

Two of the cases were carried over from yesterday when the defendants requested jury trials. One involves George G. Kennedy, A. J. Green and George Whitfield, trustees of Frostburg Lodge No. 348, Loyal Order of Moose, charged with allowing the operation of a gaming table and slot machine in the Moose Home, Frostburg.

Burglary Charged

Another is the case against Harry Clenton Jackson, this city, charged with statutory burglary in the alleged theft of $15 from the G and W Lunch Room, North Liberty Street.

Two other men are scheduled to be tried today on charges of assault with intent to murder. George H. House, 64-year-old McCoole man, faces two such charges. He is accused of wounding his son, Lenoy, during an argument October 5 and also with firing on State Police when they came to investigate. The other is Arlie Lease, Pinto, accused of assaulting his son, Reuben T. Lease, July 10.

Today's docket also contains the case of Floyd C. Warnick, 35, Piedmont, W. Va., indicted on two charges of arson and two of unlawful brush burning.

Stolen Goods

Three charges of larceny and receipt of stolen goods in the theft of copper wire from the Celanese Corporation of America also are listed on the docket for today. Leo F. Welsh is charged in all three thefts. Joseph Welsh faces charges in two of the three cases and Russell J. Collins, Marvin Collins, Raymond Eugene Duckworth and George C. Leydig are named in only one of the three indictments.

Two National youths are scheduled for trial today on two charges of stealing mine supplies belonging to the Consolidated Fuel Company which were taken from Klondike Mine No. 17. Facing the charges are Glenn Morgan, 19, and William T. Leatherman, 18.

Today's docket also contains the cases against Reon Glessner, oper-

Scoreboard Operators Change Pleas At Trial

Three men who pleaded guilty yesterday afternoon to horse race betting charges midway through their trial in Allegany County Circuit Court, were fined $1,000 each and sentenced to three months each in the County Jail by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris.

Sentenced after they changed their pleas from not guilty to guilty were Robert E. Shrout, Richard Fox and John E. Jenkins. The state dismissed a similar charge against a fourth man, Robert Pirkey. Police said he had been employed at the Scoreboard, 20 North Mechanic Street, only about a week at the time it was raided Friday, September 21.

Three-Hour Witness

Shrout, Fox and Jenkins changed their pleas after Police Lt. Edwin R. Lilya concluded nearly three hours of testimony. The state had not yet presented all of its case. Lilya was only the third witness.

In the face of the altered pleas, Judge Harris dismissed the jury which had been hearing evidence in the case.

Exhibits submitted in evidence included phone contracts for the Scoreboard, photographs taken by Lt. Lilya at the Scoreboard, charts, racing forms and ticker tape.

Jailed Immediately

The three convicted men were taken immediately from the Court House to the County Jail to begin serving the terms which could continue until mid-January.

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, in his opening statement to the jury yesterday morning, stated that the Scoreboard in its operations as a billiard parlor was "a blind and a sham."

Raid Staged September 21

Fletcher recounted the events leading to a raid on the Scoreboard on September 21 by Lieuts. James E. Van and Lilya and Officer Richard Lashley and Detective Thomas See of the Cumberland Police Department.

The state's attorney said that the raid was made on the basis of information obtained by plainclothes officers of the Police Department and by statements obtained from a local man. The latter said he had placed bets totaling $28 and when he went to collect money allegedly due him was told that all the horses had lost.

Fletcher also charged that Jenkins was "ostensibly the operator of the Scoreboard, but actually, Shrout was the owner and operator." The state's attorney added this would be proven by evidence obtained in the raid on the place. The raid came after a warrant was obtained in Circuit Court by police.

Judge Harris On Bench

Testifying yesterday morning were Wallace Ullery, city clerk, who told of a license being obtained by the Scoreboard to operate as a poolroom. An official of the C. and P. Telephone Company identified contracts for telephone service to the establishment.

Detective Lieut. Lilya identified photographs taken inside the place and also explained a chart showing the floor plan of the establishment and rooms therein.

Judge Harris presided at the trial. Associate Judge George Henderson stepped down after attorneys for the defendants indicated they might ask for a removal of the case to another county.

Attorneys for the four accused men were Thomas Lohr Richards, this city, and H. G. Shores, of Keyser, W. Va. Assisting Fletcher in prosecuting the case was William H. Geppert.

Yearbook Drive At Fort Hill Gets Underway

Sabre Sales Goal Of 800 Expected

The subscription campaign for Fort Hill's yearbook, the Sabre, started yesterday. The price of ink, engraving, printing, paper and covers have been raised, but the price of the Sabre will be $3, the same as last year. This was possible only because last year's staff made arrangements to have the same company produce the 1952 book at the old rates. Each senior is expected to sell four copies if the goal of 800 Sabre is to be reached.

Faculty, classes, and senior pictures are completed and a few activity groups have been taken. The cover design has been decided upon and is already being produced. A few extra surprises are expected to add to the over-all attractiveness and quality of the 1952 Sabre.

Award To Be Given

According to James C. Engle, faculty adviser, beginning with the 1952 graduating class, a cash award will be made to the member of the Sabre staff who in the estimation of the staff has accomplished outstanding work for the yearbook in either layout, literary, business or the field of photography. Requirements for the award will be two years on the staff and a member of the senior class.

The recipient must also show initiative, and dependability and be cooperative with the other staff members and adviser. The winner will be elected by the staff and approved by the faculty advisers. This award was made possible through the cooperation of the principal, Victor D. Heisey.

The 1952 Sabre is being headed by an executive board consisting of Phyllis Alt, Mary Liedy and Joan Minke. Miss Alt and Miss Liedy co-editors, while Miss Minke is senior class editor.

Betty McLaughlin has charge of layout. Two juniors, Joan Schaidt and Dolores Fahey, and Eleanor Jones, a sophomore are aiding her.

Buchanan Says Chest Drive Success Rests With Citizens

Final Report Dinner Set For Tomorrow

The success of the Community Chest-USO campaign for $105,159 rests with each citizen, declared George L. Buchanan, general chairman of the appeal, as he urged workers to devote the next two days to a determined effort to assure the full goal for the final dinner meeting Wednesday at 6:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

"A dollar cash contribution generally does not represent the ability of employed people to support the worthwhile work of the Chest and the USO," Buchanan stated. "There may be some that feel they cannot give more 'out of pocket' cash and that can certainly be true. Few people, however, would miss a few cents per week for the year round work of the Chest here at home and the USO in the Armed Forces."

Members of the Advance Gifts Committee and other leaders in the campaign met at the YMCA Monday noon to review reports and to appraise work still to be completed in each section.

Breakfast Meeting Today

This morning the group chairmen and their committeemen meet for breakfast to analyze reports and determine the course of action in each situation.

The standings following the last report in the Classified Section are: Group "A", Earl C. Robertson, chairman, $9,199 or 54 per cent of goal for the group; "B", Henry W. Price, chairman, $4,250 or 46 per cent of goal; "C", John A. Kreiling, chairman, $1,125 or 41 per cent of goal; "D", Robert E. Barnard, chairman, $1,481 or 85 per cent of goal; "E", Richard E. Harman, chairman, $370, which is 50 per cent of goal; "F", James Weber, chairman, $238 or 19 per cent of goal; "G" Aden Eerstine, chairman, $321 or 27 per cent; and "H", Harry Flook, chairman, $230 or 21 per cent of goal.

Goals in each of the groups are based on the subscriptions to last year's Community Chest plus 20 per cent for the additional funds needed this year to finance the nine Chest Agencies and the Cumberland budget of the USO.

"A" Group Reports In

The "A" group includes the firms with the largest employment and these in-plant campaigns are miniature Chest-USO appeals in themselves. Reports in the "A" group include the Celanese Corporation employes who have reported $3,634, the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company employes with a report of $4,417, the Western Maryland Railroad employes with $1,147, and the B. & O. Railroad employes with $207. All of these reports are incomplete yet both the Celanese and Kelly-Springfield groups have now secured more than was raised for the single Chest appeal last year.

County Savings Bonds Sales Total $76,887

Treasury Report Gives Oct. Figures

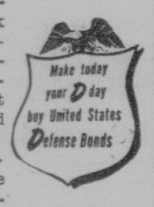
A total of $76,887 in Series E, F, and G United States Savings Bonds was sold in Allegany County during the first week of this month, according to a report of the Treasury Department for the Maryland Division.



The first Defense Bond drive which began September 3 and ends October 27 realized $288,473, here. The Series E sales amounted to $50,887 and the Series F and G totaled $26,000 in the county.

Thus far 76.4 per cent of the quota of $378,400 has been reached in Allegany County. The current standing of the county is fourth among Maryland counties. Heading the list is Howard with 371 per cent of its quota.

Talbot County sales amounted to 89.4 per cent of quota to take second place while Baltimore County placed third with 80.2 per cent of its goal. In fifth place was Dorchester County with 75.5 per cent of its quota. Garrett County is in twelfth place with 61.4 per cent.

Richard H. Dixon, Jr., state director of the current drive, said, "defense is everybody's job and whether we serve in the armed forces, work in defense plants or make other contributions to our Nation's defense the purpose of the drive is three fold."

The initial purpose, according to Dixon, is the preservation of national economy. Other reasons for the public to back the present campaign are the utilization to the fullest of the tremendous productive

The Weather

Yesterday was a perfect washday for the housewife with a bright sun, a clear sky and a strong breeze to dry her line of clothes. Although yesterday morning was a bit chilly, mid-afternoon temperatures climbed into the high 70s. The few clouds in the sky hovered over the cool drafts of surrounding mountain hollows creating a white halo over the Queen City. The high temperature reported by Constitution Park's weather station was 77 degrees, low was 40, and at 8 p. m. mercury was marked at 61 degrees. Humidity was recorded as a healthy 57 per cent. The Weather Bureau reports some cloudiness for today with little change in temperature.

Orchardist Shot In Right Knee

A 23-year-old Romney, W. Va. orchard worker was admitted to Memorial Hospital last night with gunshot wounds in his right knee resulting from an attempt to enter a Purgittsville home, W. Va. State Police said.

Admitted to the hospital was Charles D. Wolford who was allegedly wounded by Joann Kuykendall at her home near Purgittsville, about 14 miles from Romney on U. S. Route 220.

Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell, Romney, said Miss Kuykendall was being questioned by State Police. Wolford went to the Purgittsville home, according to Russell, and attempted to force his way into the residence. After tearing a screen from a window, Wolford was told by Miss Kuykendall to stay away and she threatened to shoot.

Following his persistence, Miss Kuykendall blasted away with a 22 calibre rifle sending Wolford to the hospital. X-Rays were taken last night, according to attaches, but the extent of the injuries was not reported.

Jury Will View Site Needed For Flood Project

A Federal jury will arrive here today to view the site involved in the first condemnation suit brought in connection with the Cumberland-Ridgeley, W. Va., Flood Control project.

The jury is slated to arrive here about noon to make an inspection of the property at the intersection of Johnson and Paca Streets.

The case, instituted by the Department of Justice, opened in the United States district court in Baltimore yesterday.

Following opening statements by counsel for the government, owner and lessee of the property, the court adjourned until after the jury views the property.

The suit was instituted by government authorities against Theodore F. Shaffer and his wife, Edith Shaffer, of Montgomery County, owners of the property, and James F. Straw, 21 Blackiston Avenue, whose lease on the site and its service station does not expire until 1953.

The jury will be asked to assess the value of the property and then to apportion its award between the owner and the lessee.

Hit And Run Hearing Held

Edward R. Myers, Clarksburg, W. Va., was sentenced to one year in the Hampshire County jail at Romney and fined $250 before Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell yesterday on hit and run charges which resulted in the death of Clifford F. McDonald, W. Va. State Police said last night.

The 35-year-old trucker appealed his case to the January term of Circuit Court, Russell said. At present Myers is released on $5,000 bond and will be given another hearing Monday before Russell on a charge of negligent homicide.

Myers was apprehended Saturday night in Petersburg, W. Va., a few hours after his pickup vehicle allegedly hit and fatally injured an elderly pedestrian near Romney. McDonald died in Memorial Hospital here as the result of shock and a brain concussion. He also suffered other head injuries and a compound fracture of the left ankle.

Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell, Romney, who presided at an inquest yesterday morning, said a jury ruled "McDonald came to his death as the result of injuries sustained when hit by a pickup truck driven by Myers."

The accident occurred on Route 50, just east of Romney, while McDonald was crossing the highway. Witnesses furnished police with information leading to Myers arrest.
